ROOSEVELT IN TRIPLE PLEA

HOLIDAY GROUP VOTES FARMER STRIKE MAY 13

21 States' Delegates Indorse Action.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Des Moines, Ia., May 4.—[Special.] – Farmer delegates from twenty-one states in convention at the state fair grounds voted late this afternoon to take a holiday beginning May 13 from the job of feeding the people of the United States. They are the militant minority from these states and considerable disturbance is expected in the milk deliveries to such cities as Chicago and New York.

All farm products, including eggs, vegetables, and milk, are included in the strike, or holiday, as the farmers call it. They expect to starve the nation into complying with their legislative demands, which include a guarantee of cost of production, plus profit, for their products, refinancing of mortgages at 1½ per cent interest.

Await Washington Action.

President Milo Reno of the Holiday Farmers' association held back the strike vote all day, waiting for some action from Washington on the prospect of including the cost of production amendment in the pending farm relief bill. He was unable to stem the tide, however, for emotion was high as a result of the martial law situation in the northwest part of the state.

Less than 1,500 delegates remained at the conference today, and it was held in the cattle pavilion of the fair grounds. Competent observers declare that they represent about one per cent of the farmer strength in their respective states, and that the strike will be ineffective.

Included in the strike action was a plan to issue one billion dollars in scrip to be used in barter and exchange centers to be set up in the cities in coöperation with labor and industrial bodies. This was the plan of A. S. Townley, Nonpartisan league organizer of North Dakota. The plan will be administered by a defense committee to be set up by the directors.

Milk Committee Approves.

The milk committee, represented chiefly by delegates from Illinois and Wisconsin, adopted a special report indorsing the strike and requesting the milk organizations in the states to withhold all dairy products from the market. It was also decided to notify the railroads and truck companies to this effect, also truck drivers. The unused milk would be given to hospitals and to the needy during the strike period. One demand is that the price for city inspected milk must be 40 cents per hundred pounds higher than the milk sent to creameries.

John Bosch, representing Minnesota, said his organization had organized 17,000 picketers in his state. The strike vote was made on motion of John Scott of Harlan county, New York.

Earlier in the day the delegates adopted resolutions of sympathy with the farmers in the counties under martial law, demanded that Gov. Clyde Herring withdraw the troops at once, denounced military training in the colleges, and voted for the immediate payment of the soldier bonus in treasury certificates.

Reno Wires of Tension.

President Reno had wired John A. Simpson, president of the Farmers' union, now in Washington, and to Senator Smith of the agricultural committee, stating that the convention was willing to give congress a chance to adopt the amendment guaranteeing to the farmer a price that would give him cost of production plus a profit. He told Senator Smith that the delegates were in a mood of tension and that if the amendment was stricken out "hell would break loose in the middle west."

His description of the mood of these farmers is correct. They were ready to vote almost any action that would bring results. They heard various reports of outrages in the soldier policed area and their attitude toward this resulted in the decision to raise a defense fund for "our fellows being persecuted there." A telegram was read from Senator John J. Blaine of Wisconsin offering free service in defense of the farmer prisoners in Le Mars and Denison.

John Chalmers, president of the Iowa Holiday association, urged a strike.

Sees Success Certain.

"If 70 per cent of you fellows leave your stuff in the barnyards for six days and don't find that you then get consideration and cost of production, I will be willing to eat a bale of hay," he said. Mr. Chalmers said he and

U. S. STRIKES AT HUMPHRIES IN DRIVE ON GANGS

Racket Czar Facing Tax Prosecution.

Murray Humphries, public enemy No. 1, is scheduled for indictment by a federal grand jury within the next three weeks in the first of a series of blows by which the government intends to smash Chicago's trade and labor union rackets. This was learned yesterday from an authoritative source in the federal building.

Internal revenue agents have been building up an income tax evasion case against Humphries for more than a year, it was disclosed. With Humphries and other members of the old Capone mob turning from the extinct bootleg beer traffic to the trade rackets for their revenue, the government is ready to strike.

$500,000 Tribute Charged.

The richness of the prize over which the embroiled gangs have created a turmoil of bombings and kidnapings of late is disclosed, it is said, in reports on Humphries' revenue soon to be placed in the hands of United States Attorney Dwight H. Green. The revenue agents are reported ready to prove that Humphries has been squeezing $500,000 yearly in personal tribute out of the labor and trade associations his organization controls.

The revenue agents are reported to have proof that Humphries is czar of the Truck and Transport exchange, 188 West Washington street, described as the biggest and most extortionate teaming racket ever foisted on Chicago commerce. The exchange is said to have been started and ruled, until his murder, by George [Red] Barker, Humphries' tutor in racketeering.

Through his influence in so-called legitimate teamster unions affiliated with the Chicago Federation of Labor, Humphries is reported to be levying tribute on almost every consignment of goods moved through Chicago's streets.

Bus Lines Resist Demands.

Only the big transcontinental bus companies, some of which are controlled by the railroads, have been strong enough to resist his demands, it is said. The revenue agents are reported to have proof that the truck and transport agency, known to the trade as the "T-N-T," has been yielding the racketeers an income of $40,000 a month.

With the Humphries case disposed of, the revenue bureau is expected to produce evidence of income tax dodging against three of his most notorious associates—William (Three Fingered Jack) White, William (Klondike) O'Donnell, and Marcus (Studdy) Looney. The chances of indicting and convicting this trio are said to be regarded as only slightly less certain than in Humphries' case.

Seize Union Records.

Investigation of the incomes of White, O'Donnell, and Looney are reported to have turned on their dominance of the Chicago Teamsters' union and its affiliated locals, all outside the Chicago Federation of Labor. Books of the coal teamsters' local of this group were seized yesterday by A. P. Madden, chief of the special intelligence unit of the revenue bureau, but the evidence discovered is said to be inconsequential by comparison with what the government already had.

The cases against the new crowd of labor racketeers are being prepared by the same agents who produced the proof of income tax evasion against such beer mobsters as Al Capone, Frank Nitti, Sam and Jake Guzik, Terry Druggan, and Frank Lake. All of these went to prison.

Labor Factions in Court.

Two factions in the coal teamsters' local, to whose feud the authorities attribute seven bombings and the kidnaping of two men in past weeks, had a day in court yesterday, each seeking to restrain the other from occupying the union offices. The action was before Superior Judge William J. Lindsay, who, it transpired, is an honorary member of the union.

Attorney Everett Jennings, at various times counsel for the White-O'Donnell-Humphries-Looney crowd, was before the bar pressing the claim of John Sheridan Sr., ousted czar of the union. Sheridan has been termed "the scenery" for White, O'Donnell, and Humphries.

Jennings was opposed by Attorney Charles J. Schreiber, representing George Roy Baker, who led the revolt that brought about the ouster of Sheridan's son, Jack Sheridan Jr., and his associate, Milton Booth Jr., as chiefs of the coal teamsters last Tuesday.

Jennings was in florid form as he

PILING ON THE HARNESS

"Love in Taxi" Brings Arrest by Mr. Yarrow

It was "Love in a Taxi" that caused the arrest yesterday of Seymour De Koven, artist, bookseller, and son of Bernard De Koven, prominent physician and surgeon. Philip Yarrow, former clergyman and head of the Illinois Vigilance association, was the instigator of the arrest.

De Koven of the modernistic art, who studied for years in Paris, who is 29 and divorced, was quietly perusing some of his property in his book store and art shop at 111 North Clark street when Policeman Fred L. Frauth of the Morals division walked in and displayed a warrant calling for De Koven's arrest and the seizure of any indecent literature on the premises. The signer of the warrant was Arthur Kepler, a divinity student at Moody Bible institute, employed by Yarrow.

Finds Trust Misplaced.

"I shouldn't have trusted him," De Koven said, "but to my sorrow I did. He looked through most of my stock and selected "Love in a Taxi." I told him it was $1, but if he returned it he would be given 75 cents credit on another book. In that way he could read four books for $1. He took it."

Policeman Frauth proceeded to seize. The list of books taken mentioned 112 copies of this book, 78 of that book, 39 of another, with such titles as "A Minister's First Love," "Two Girls and Many Men," and "Romance of My Alcove," together with "one brief case containing 1,000 obscene pictures and pamphlets, one carton of obscene pictures, and 97 various volumes of obscene and immoral literature," the books having been picked out by Yarrow.

When De Koven and Yarrow met there was a scene.

More Faith Misplaced.

"This is what comes of being good to a sinner," Yarrow said. "Two years ago I had Mr. De Koven arrested for selling indecent literature. He promised he wouldn't sell any more and I pleaded with the judge to have him discharged. This is how he repaid me."

In walked Attorney Cameron Latter, summoned by phone call from De Koven. Latter and De Koven bowed and exchanged pleasantries. Latter wished Yarrow and himself better luck this time. He referred to their former clash after Yarrow had entrapped a book dealer and caused his arrest. The book dealer, Walter L. Shaver, obtained a $5,000 judgment against Yarrow for false and malicious arrest and put Yarrow in the county jail for a few weeks. The Appellate court later canceled the judgment.

De Koven will be arraigned today before Judge Joseph McGarry.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, May 4.—Police investigators tonight formally charged Ann Harding, screen star, and Alexander Kirkland, film actor, with responsibility for the death yesterday of Majin Alvarez Tuero, a sailor. Tuero was killed by sharks while attempting to swim ashore from their capsized boat three miles off the Jaimanitas Yacht club.

Miss Harding, her secretary, Marie Lombard, and Kirkland escaped drowning by holding to the keel of their sailboat while awaiting rescue.

Miss Harding and Kirkland will be arraigned in Audencia court tomorrow, and the judge will decide whether the charges are sufficient to seek an indictment. If not, the charges will be dismissed. In the meantime they are under police surveillance and are forbidden to leave Cuba.

Seeks to Quiet Business Fear of Autocracy

President to Open Fair

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt sought tonight to quiet the fears of business men that he is planning an autocratic bureaucratic control over American industry.

Speaking before 2,000 outstanding leaders of commerce at the annual dinner of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States the President made neither demands nor threats.

"I present to you three requests," he said simply, and then after being interrupted by applause and cheers he outlined the requests briefly before these industrials and financiers who for three days in convention have talked of little else beyond the fear of a dictatorial government stepping in over their protests to run their businesses.

Makes Triple Plea.

The triple plea of the President was that wages should go no lower and should rise just as fast as industry improves; that business should help the government to end cutthroat competition and unfair practices, and that leaders should work for national recovery, not for the selfish gain of a single industry or trade.

Mr. Roosevelt didn't promise that there would be no government control of industry, but his words were taken to indicate that he would give industry the opportunity to grant his three requests.

It was an unusual setting in which the President delivered his address. As he walked upon the broad stage of the auditorium, accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall, the President saw before him an audience filling the great Washington Auditorium.

Cheers Greet President.

The leaders of business rose to their feet and cheered lustily and clapped their hands until the President himself raised his palm for silence.

The first of the three requests put by the President started off with a note of optimism.

"During the last few weeks," said the President, "we have witnessed a slight but definite upturn in most industries, a simultaneous rise in most commodity prices."

From this beginning Mr. Roosevelt decried what he termed were the experiences of the past, which found wages, reduced during the declines of panic, lagging behind when prices began to go up again.

Holding this an unfair burden upon those who labor, the President asked his hearers, and through them the employers of the nation, not to lower wages further, and to raise wages on a level with rising prices. The auditorium rang with sustained applause.

Hits Cutthroat Competition.

The second request of the President was that business interests join with the government in eliminating cutthroat types of competition.

Mr. Roosevelt said that employers in overwhelming numbers are quite willing to prevent overproduction, to pay fair wages and to eliminate improper working conditions.

"I can assure you," he said, "that you will have the coöperation of your government in bringing these minorities to understand that their unfair practices are contrary to a sound public policy."

This offer of the government's "coöperation" in what business itself might undertake was soft music in the Canadian Mob Loots Famous British Train

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAMILTON, Ont., May 4. — The Royal Scot, crack British train now in Canada en route to A Century of Progress exposition at Chicago, left Hamilton tonight with the throttle wide open to escape crowds which had torn away everything movable on the train as souvenirs.

Arriving from Toronto this evening, the train had scarcely come to a stop when waiting thousands made a dash. Policemen linked arms, but were brushed aside. The mob poured into the train's eight passenger coaches and into the engine cab.

Tear Off Grease Cups.

Grease cups were torn off. Electric light bulbs came out of their sockets. Cushions and lamp shades were removed from the first class lounge cars.

On the polished sides of the coaches names were scratched. Rich inlaid mahogany bears the initials of dozens of Hamilton hoodlums.

The theft of souvenirs began in Ottawa. The British crew was taken completely by surprise. In Toronto thirty policemen stood on guard, but still the curio rifling continued. Hamilton tonight completed the experiences.

Police Remove Crowd.

Police finally removed the crowd from the train at Hamilton, but the Royal Scot's crew had had enough. The train steamed out of the city two hours ahead of time for Buffalo, N. Y., with thousands still waiting to see it. The Royal Scot is due in Chicago May 30.

ROOSEVELT ASKS U. S. CZAR TO SAVE RAILROADS

Urges Congress to Speed Bill.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt moved today to save the railroads from financial collapse by means of a federal dictatorship relieving the carriers from the costly burdens of government restraints.

The President transmitted to congress with a request for its immediate passage a bill placing the railroads under the control of a federal coördinator of transportation whose function it would be to eliminate duplication of services and wasteful methods of operation and to bring about financial reorganizations.

This authority is asked for one year, though provision is made for extension of the period by the President.

Liberalize Rate Making.

The President also recommended placing railway holding companies under the jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission, repeal of the recapture clause of the transportation act whereby half of excess earnings go to the government, liberalizing the basis of rate making and modifying valuation requirements.

During the period of emergency control the railroads would be immune from prosecution for violation of the anti-trust laws.

The President submitted his program as emergency legislation pending the formulation of a measure to coördinate all agencies of transportation, including trucks, buses, and aircraft, which Mr. Roosevelt plans to present at the 1934 session of congress.

Eastman May Be Coördinator.

The President's most likely choice for federal coördinator is said to be Joseph B. Eastman, now a member of the interstate commerce commission, who has long been an advocate of government ownership of transportation agencies.

The coördinator bill, which was prepared by a committee of experts under the supervision of Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper, is to receive immediate consideration in congress. The senate interstate commerce committee is to hold public hearings on the measure beginning Tuesday. Chairman Clarence Dill [Dem., Wash.] and Senator James Couzens of Michigan, ranking Republican member, reserved comment. Representative Samuel Rayburn [Dem., Tex.], chairman of the house committee, commended the bill and said its passage would be expedited in the house.

"The railroads," said Mr. Rayburn, "are not only to be given an opportunity to eliminate waste and uneconomical expenditures but are to be encouraged to do so. I was glad to see that the President does not hold out that this bill is the solution to all transportation problems, but it is to afford the railroad managements an opportunity to show what they can accomplish through their own efforts.

Removes Law's Interference.

"The bill removes the alibi which the managements have been claiming—that alibi is the interference of the so-called anti-trust laws. This is an administration measure, and I shall loyally support the President in his efforts to deal with the transportation problem."

Representative John Parker of New York, ranking Republican member of the interstate commerce committee, said he intends to support the bill. He said he was aware of no opposition to the purposes of the bill among Republican members of the committee.

Coördinate All Agencies.

"The steam railways," he said, "still constitute the main arteries of commerce in the United States. At this time, however, available traffic is not sufficient profitably to utilize existing railway facilities and the supplementary facilities provided by new forms of transportation.

"Our problem is so to coördinate all agencies of transportation as to maintain adequate service. I am not yet ready to submit to the congress a comprehensive plan for permanent legislation.

"I do believe, however, that three emergency steps can and should be taken at this special session of the congress.

"First, I recommend the repeal of the recapture provisions of the interstate commerce commission act. The commission has pointed out that existing provisions are unworkable and impracticable.

"Second, railway holding companies should be placed definitely under the regulation and control of the interstate commerce commission in like manner as the railways themselves.

"Third, as a temporary emergency measure I suggest the creation of a federal coördinator of transportation who, working with groups of railroads, will be able to encourage, promote, or require action on the part of carriers, in order to avoid duplication of service, prevent waste, and encourage financial reorganizations. Such a coordinator should also, in carrying out this policy, render useful service in maintaining railroad employment at a fair wage.

"The experience gained during the balance of this year will greatly assist the government and the carriers in preparation for a more permanent and a more comprehensive national transportation policy at the regular session of the congress of 1934."

Maintain Adequate System.

The bill transmitted by the President proposes to create a federal coordinator, "in order to foster and protect interstate commerce in relation to railroad transportation by preventing and relieving obstructions and burdens thereon resulting from the present acute economic emergency, and in order to safeguard and maintain an adequate national system of transportation."

The coördinator is directed to divide the railroads into an eastern, southern, and western group. The carriers in each group are to set up a coordinating committee of five members. These committees are to effect the contemplated operating changes voluntarily if possible. If, however, they fail to act they are to call in the coordinator to issue the necessary orders.

Seek These Objects.

The objects sought are thus set forth in section 4 of the bill:

"The purposes of this act are [1] to encourage and promote or require action on the part of the carriers which will [a] avoid unnecessary duplication of services and facilities of whatsoever nature and permit the joint use of terminals and trackage incident thereto or requisite to such joint use, [b] control allowances, accessorial services, and other practices affecting service or operation, to the end that undue impairment of net earnings may be prevented, and [c] avoid other wastes and preventable expenses; [2] to promote financial reorganization of the carriers, with due regard to legal rights, so as to reduce fixed charges to the extent required by the public interest and improve carrier credit; and [3] to provide for the immediate study of other means of improving conditions surrounding transportation in all its forms and the preparation of plans therefor."

Power of Dictatorship.

The power of dictatorship is contained in the provision that if any coordinating committee "fails to act with respect to any matter which the coördinator has brought to its attention and upon which he is of the opinion it should act" the coördinator is "hereby authorized and directed to issue and enforce such order, giving appropriate directions to the carriers with respect to such matter, as he shall find to be consistent with the public interest."

The coördinator is authorized to create and administer pooling arrangements.

Upon complaint from any dissatisfied party any order by the coordinator is subject to review by the interstate commerce commission which may suspend the order and eventually confirm it or set it aside.

Insofar as necessary to enable them to comply with orders of the coordinator or commission the carriers are "relieved from the operation of the anti-trust laws" and "all other restraints or prohibitions by law, state or federal" except those for the protection of health and safety and except the railway labor act.

The coördinator is charged with the duty of recommending legislation for the improvement of transportation conditions, "including the ability, financial or otherwise, of the carriers to improve their properties and furnish service and charge rates which will promote the commerce and industry of the country and including, also, the stability of railroad labor employment and other improvement of railroad labor conditions."

Restrict Loans By R. F. C.

The bill provides that no carrier shall be allowed an R. F. C. loan or be permitted to issue bonds unless "such carrier can without financial reorganization survive the existing economic depression and provide for its capital needs thereafter."

The other features of the President's emergency program are incorporated in the bill in the form they have already been favorably reported to the house by the interstate commerce commission. One is the repeal of the recapture clause, under which carriers are now required to turn over to the government 50 per cent of all earnings in excess of 6 per cent and the provision of a new rate making basis. The bill proposes to repeal the present basis which prescribes yielding a reasonable return on the value of the railroad and to substitute the following:

Prescribe Reasonable Rates.

"In the exercise of its power to prescribe just and reasonable rates the commission shall give due consideration, among other factors to the effect of rates on the movement of traffic; to the need, in the public interest, of adequate and efficient railway transportation service at the lowest cost consistent with the furnishing of such service, and to the need of revenues sufficient to enable the carriers, under honest, economical, and efficient management, to provide such service."

Inasmuch as the value of the railroads is to be abandoned as a basis of rate making, the bill modifies the La Follette valuation law. After an original valuation is completed it will only be necessary for the commission to "keep itself informed" of additions through reports required of the carriers. The costly supplemental valuation work thereby is eliminated.

MRS. ROOSEVELT QUITS "BABIES, JUST BABIES"; MAGAZINE TO STOP

New York, May 4.—(AP)—MacFadden Publications announced today that with the June issue the magazine "Babies—Just Babies," which has been edited by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, will cease publication, "at least until there is a change in the present financial situation."

The decision to discontinue the magazine, the McFadden Publications said, followed Mrs. Roosevelt's decision to withdraw as editorial supervisor.

Mrs. Roosevelt's action was based, it was announced, on the "onerous character of her duties at the White House" and the difficulty of finding time for her magazine duties.

PRESIDENT ASKS PAY BOOSTS AS PRICES ADVANCE

Seeks to Quiet Fear of Autocracy.

ears of men who have expressed fears that the Roosevelt administration, under legislation now before congress, might assume an autocratic control over trade and industry.

The President's remarks which sent him from the hall with the cheers and applause of his hearers following him to the door were taken to be in support of a new proposal offered to the administration by the business leaders in their speeches before the sessions of their annual meeting, and particularly by the president of the chamber, Henry I. Harriman.

Mr. Harriman collaborated with other business leaders in preparing a legislative measure to supplant the drastic bill sponsored by Miss Frances Perkins, secretary of labor.

The measure supported by the business leaders is now being worked into bill form by John Dickinson, assistant secretary of commerce, and it proposes chiefly the relaxing of anti-trust laws under supervision of a board controlled by the government.

May Scrap Perkins Bill.

The measure, which is expected to be laid on the President's desk within a day or two, will bring him to the necessity of either upholding or repudiating a program devised by his own secretary of labor. Miss Perkins' bill, pending in the house, would give her full authority to impose regulations upon any plant or plants in any industry which she held to be violating the interests of the wage earners of the industry generally.

Some opinions have been voiced that the President caused Miss Perkins to put forth her drastic proposal with knowledge that it would bring business leaders into a frame of mind which would move them quickly to introduce the reforms he desires.

Text of Roosevelt Speech.

Mr. Roosevelt's speech follows:

"Because of a national and a world situation which has taken every moment of my time during the last two months I have had to forgo the privilege of discussing many matters of common interest with the members of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. For the same reason, frankly, I have had neither time nor opportunity to prepare for you tonight any complete phase of our national problems.

"I do not have to tell you that the government of the United States in its executive and legislative branches has been seeking and obtaining action relating to our own internal economy and to initiation of a coöperative spirit among all the nations of the world. We have sought through moderate and wise measures to increase the volume of trade, to give employment to the unemployed and to effect a broad elevation of commodity prices.

"I present to you three requests. During the last few weeks we have witnessed with a slight but definite upturn in most industries a simultaneous rise in most commodity prices. Past experience indicates that when the price level begins to rise after a long period of declining commodity prices, wages which have been previously curtailed lag behind the rise in the price level.

"That result has in the past imposed upon those who labor an unfair burden; has prevented their just and equitable share in the profits of industry and has limited the purchasing power of the overwhelming majority of our population.

"I, therefore, ask you, who represent in all probability the majority of the employers of the nation, to refrain from further reduction in the wages of your employés and I ask you also to increase your wage scales in conformity with and simultaneous with the rise of the level of commodity prices in so far as this lies within your power.

Urges Wage Increases Now.

"It is a simple fact that the average of the wage scale of the nation has gone down during the last four years more rapidly than the cost of living. It is essential, as a matter of national justice, that the wage scale should be brought back to meet the cost of living and that this process should begin now and not later.

"My second request has to do with bringing order out of chaos. During the last four years what previously had been considered to be an orderly industrial system has degenerated into one of the highest disorder. You and I acknowledge the existence of unfair methods of competition, of cut-throat prices and of general chaos.

Sees Majority Fair.

"In almost every industry an overwhelming majority of the units of the industry are wholly willing to work together to prevent overproduction, to prevent unfair wages, to eliminate improper working conditions. In the past success in attaining these objectives has been prevented by a small minority of units in many industries. I can assure you that you will have the coöperation of your government in bringing these minorities to understand that their unfair practices are contrary to a sound public policy.

"My third request is of a somewhat different nature, though it has an important bearing on the other two. It is human nature to view a problem in terms of the particular existence and interest of the company or the business with which one is personally associated. It is, therefore, not unnatural that the various industries of the country should apply this same point of view to themselves. And yet I call your attention to what must be clear to all of us: that each and all of you in your own units and your own industries are but an integral part of a great whole and that our national economy must be expressed in terms of the whole rather than in terms of the unit.

"It is ultimately of little avail to any of you to be temporarily prosperous while others are permanently depressed. I ask that you translate your welfare into the welfare of the whole, that you view recovery in terms of the nation rather than in terms of a particular industry, that you have the vision to lay aside special and selfish interests, to think of and act for a well rounded national recovery."

ROOSEVELT WILL OPEN WORLD'S FAIR ON MAY 27

Waterway Celebration Is Set for Same Day.

President Roosevelt announced in Washington yesterday that he would open A Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago on May 27 provided that official duties do not interfere. The opening day, scheduled for June 1, was advanced when the President explained that he already had accepted an invitation to present diplomas at the United States Naval academy on that date.

The President also will officiate at the formal opening of the Great Lakes to the Gulf waterway, to be held May 27 in Chicago. This ceremony will be held at the mouth of the Chicago river, according to present plans.

Plan Parade for President.

Under the plan announced yesterday by fair officials, President Roosevelt will be escorted to Soldiers' field, where the opening ceremonies of A Century of Progress will be held, by the Black Horse troop of Chicago. A parade will start from Chicago avenue at 10 a. m. and march down Michigan avenue to Soldiers' field to be reviewed by the President. The international aspect of the exposition will be emphasized at the opening ceremony by groups bearing flags and wearing costumes of their native lands.

The parade will be followed by speeches by the President, Gov. Horner, Mayor Kelly, and Rufus Dawes, president of the exposition. A luncheon will be held at the fair grounds with the President as guest of honor.

The invitation to the President to open the exposition was extended by a Chicago delegation headed by Mr. Dawes. An earlier invitation was delivered to the President by the late Mayor Cermak. A congressional delegation, headed by Speaker Rainey, extended the invitation to the President to officiate at the formal opening of the waterway.

Members of Delegations.

The delegation that accompanied Speaker Rainey was made up of Congressmen Frank R. Reid of Aurora, Fred A. Britten of Chicago, Jere Cooper of Tennessee, William J. Driver of Arkansas, and A. J. Sabath of Chicago. The World's Fair delegation included, in addition to Mr. Dawes, Col. Albert A. Sprague, representing the city of Chicago, and Harry S. New.

Lenox R. Lohr, general manager of the fair, said yesterday that he believed the decision to open the exposition four days before schedule established a record for world fairs.

"Every building and exhibit will be ready," Maj. Lohr said. "Telegrams are being sent to exhibitors and concessionaires urging them to complete their work."

BABY RUNS INTO STREET; CRUSHED BY HEAVY TRUCK

Thomas Mugaveri, 4 years old, 2734 Princeton avenue, was crushed beneath the wheels of a heavy motor truck yesterday when he ran into the street near his home. He died soon afterward at the Mercy hospital. The driver, Thomas Fitzpatrick, 4846 West Huron street, was not held.

Lucien Knopf, 35 years old, 3525 North Oakley avenue, was killed and Richard Thun, 37 years old, 1508 Sedgwick street, was seriously injured early today when an automobile in which they were riding struck a post of a railroad viaduct in Elston avenue at Leclaire avenue. Knopf was the driver of the car.

Andrew Sikyta, 42 years old, 2118 South 3d avenue, Maywood, was seriously injured late last night when a car he was driving was struck by a west bound Chicago, Aurora and Elgin train at 1st avenue in Maywood. Witnesses reported that Sikyta drove through lowered gates, apparently failing to see them. He was taken to the Westlake hospital.

The deaths of the Mugaveri child and Knopf increased the 1933 Cook county auto toll to 299.

Stanley Krzyzek, 40 years old, 916 North Hoyne avenue, a meat packer, was arrested yesterday after police from Hammond, Ind., traced to him an automobile which had struck and fatally injured a man there on April 29. Krzyzek was taken to Hammond.

SENATE VOTES TO BAR STATE AID TO "PINK" COLLEGES

Measure Aims to Silence Radical Teaching.

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 4.—[Special.]—Two bills to exclude universities, colleges, and other schools with pink tendencies from the benefit of the state funds and the tax exemptions they now enjoy were rushed toward passage in the general assembly today.

The two measures, introduced by Senator Charles W. Baker [Rep., Monroe Center], were sent over to the house as soon as they had been passed in the senate by votes of 29 to 5, and it is believed they may be passed by the house next week. The legislators particularly are aroused on the subject at this time because of recent bombings and other disorders charged up partly to the encouragement of communist activities by the so-called intelligentsia.

What Baker Bill Provides.

Baker bill No. 404 is an amendment to that section of the statutes which provides for the exemption from taxes of certain property, including "all lands, moneys, or other property heretofore or hereafter donated, granted, received, or used for public school, college, seminary, university, or other public educational purposes, and the proceeds thereof, whether held in trust or absolutely."

Here the bill would add the following:

"Provided that no property of any school, college, or university or other educational institution shall be exempt from taxation which teaches or permits the teaching of seditious matter or permits the advocation of the overthrow of the representative form of government secured to citizens of the United States and the several states by the federal and state constitutions by force, violence, or other unlawful means, or encourages or permits the encouragement of opposition by force to the authority or to the execution of any law of the state or United States government."

Second Baker Bill.

The second Baker bill, senate bill 405, would add this provision to the state finance act:

"No appropriation of state moneys shall be made to any school, college, university, or other educational institution which teaches or permits the teaching of seditious matter——" the proposed addition following the language quoted above.

The prohibition of appropriations of state moneys for pinkish institutions would affect the University of Illinois and the several state teachers' colleges and normal schools, while elimination of tax exemptions would hit all the universities, including the University of Chicago and Northwestern university, which have been accused of permitting radical tendencies among their faculties, and the other colleges and schools in the state.

The senate roll calls on the two bills were identical and were as follows:

AGAINST THE BILLS—5.

Because of the intention of many legislators to attend the Kentucky Derby both houses adjourned until next Tuesday morning. Next week, the leaders said, the effort to hold the members here for business on Friday will be made more emphatic.

ALDERMEN DELAY ACTION ON RIVER DOCK PERMITS

Applications from boat companies for permission to use dock space along the river were reviewed yesterday by a subcommittee of the city council committee on harbors, wharves, and bridges.

The applications were taken under advisement after protests had been heard against leasing dock space between Michigan and Wabash avenues to companies owning large boats. The interruption to traffic on Michigan avenue with large craft passing up and down the river continually was the reason given for keeping the boats east of the Michigan avenue span.

BILLIE DOVE IS BRIDE AGAIN

Wed in Yuma, Ariz.

Hollywood, Cal., May 4.—[Special.]—Billie Dove [Lillian Bohny], motion picture beauty, and Berta Kensaton of Santa Monica, Cal., were married at Yuma, Ariz., late today by Justice of the Peace Earl Freeman, according to dispatches sent the couple's families here. The marriage is the culmination of a short Hollywood romance. Miss Dove, who formerly was starred in the movies, was divorced from Irwin Willat, motion picture director, four years ago.

CONSTITUTION GETS O. K. OF GUS WINKLER

Hears Press Treats Him Cruelly.

Into the courtroom of Municipal Judge Erwin J. Hasten yesterday strode Gus Winkler, north side gang leader, to stand trial on charges of possessing a concealed weapon. Winkler was graduated only recently from the ranks, taking the position left vacant by the murder of Ted Newberry, but he was dressed for his part in a fetching green ensemble.

Winkler was arrested by Sergt. William Drury April 15. He had a .45 caliber pistol and $5,000 in cash on his person.

There was an apprehensive expression on the Winkler visage as he entered court yesterday. To him and the naive spectators, it appeared to be a case requiring about ten minutes for the presentation of evidence and a quick verdict. Gus was to get an education.

Asks for Continuance.

Attorney W. W. Smith stepped before the bar. Opposing him was Assistant State's Attorney Charles Dougherty. Mr. Smith asked for a continuance. Mr. Dougherty said the state was opposed to a continuance.

"Winkler can't get a fair and impartial trial," said Attorney Smith. "The papers right this minute are printing stories calling him a gunman. It is a terrible thing, this persecution of an innocent man by the press."

The judge pointed out that the jury had been locked up since morning and hadn't read the papers which Attorney Smith was waving. The lawyer, however, insisted on reading the newspaper story into the records. Forty-five minutes were consumed in argument and Winkler appeared less worried.

A Happy Little Confab.

"Why don't you lawyers try to get together and settle this continuance matter?" suggested the judge. He and the lawyers retired into his chambers for another forty minutes. Thick clouds of tobacco smoke billowed from the room and there was the sound of happy conversation. Finally they emerged. The judge announced that the motion for a continuance was overruled.

Twelve jurors were summoned and sworn. It appeared as if the trial were to start. But the jury was dismissed and Attorney Smith made a motion to suppress the evidence. He unstrapped ten law books and began reading.

"The police have been harsh in this case," said Mr. Smith. "The person of this man was searched without legal right, in all violation of the Illinois constitution, the United States constitution, the bill of rights, and a number of Supreme court decisions which I will now read."

Scowls at Photographers.

Winkler, by this time, was complacent, except when he scowled at the photographers. He listened with interest to his lawyer. He heard much about the constitution. He heard that police by making arrests such as his were helping to trample the constitution under foot and break down all respect for the law.

"It is much better," said Attorney Smith, quoting a Supreme court decision, impressively, "that a guilty man escape than that the purpose and spirit of the constitution be violated."

It being 4:30 p. m., Judge Hasten adjourned court. The trial will be resumed this morning. Departing from the courtroom with his lawyers, Winkler turned to them.

"It's a great thing, that constitution," he remarked.

Family Friend Appeals to Kidnapers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Harwichport, Mass., May 4.—[Special.]—Two moves, prompted by desperation were taken tonight by the parents of 10 year old Margaret McMath in their efforts to make contact with the kidnapers of the child.

William Lee, friend and spokesman for the family, offered himself as hostage if the kidnapers will surrender the girl. The McMaths named Aaron Davis as their New York City emissary in the hope of inducing the kidnapers to open negotiations through an independent channel.

Both Pledge Good Faith.

"I am willing to offer myself," said Lee's pledge, "as hostage to the kidnapers for a period of 24 hours to show that the McMaths are acting in good faith when they say the kidnapers will not be molested when they attempt to return Peggy McMath to her parents."

Davis also made a pledge of good faith, if the kidnapers will communicate with him.

Bay State Police Balk.

Massachusetts state police declined to withdraw from the Harwichport district for 24 hours at the request of the McMath family. Ernest Bradford state detective in charge of the Cape Cod area, declared:

"The Massachusetts state police will never go on record as being a party to lying down on a case like this."

This refusal, he declared, was sanctioned by Gov. Ely and was ordered by Brig. Gen. Daniel C. Needham, commissioner of public safety.

Four agents of the United States department of justice joined the other investigators today to act if it is shown the child was taken out of Massachusetts.

Grandparents Await Proposal.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis C. McMath, paternal grandparents of the missing girl, are remaining at their Detroit home, hoping for a proposal from the kidnapers. Mr. and Mrs. William R. Kales, maternal grandparents of the girl, also are awaiting word. Mr. Kales is in Detroit; his wife is on her way there from Tryon, N. C.

A report that an automobile bearing a New York license number had been seen in the vicinity of the school where the child was picked up still was being investigated. The license was that of Harry Roth, convicted in 1926 of rum running. The car was driven by a Negro. The New York police were unable to locate Roth at an address given for him.

Child Becomes Car Sick.

Meantime Mrs. McMath, the girl's mother, issued this appeal:

"If it necessary to take the child in an automobile it would be wise to have a supply of chewing gum, as she becomes car sick. Margaret likes meat, is fond of milk, vegetables and fruits. She does not like turnips or spinach.

"Her mother and her father both ask her to be a good girl and to do just what she is told to do."

Watch Roads for Auto.

North Adams, Mass., May 4.—(AP)—The Cheshire barracks of the state police tonight broadcast an order to stop a coupé with Rhode Island license plates, driven by a Negro and carrying a white girl, about 10, as a passenger. Police were asked to halt the car to investigate if the child could be Margaret McMath, kidnaped Harwichport girl.

The state police call said the car apparently was headed from Pittsfield toward Bennington, Vt., which is one route to the Canadian border.

CLEANER'S TAG AIDS IN IDENTIFICATION OF SLAIN WOMAN

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 4.—[Special.]—A dry cleaner's label in the lining of a dress led to identification in Detroit tonight of a woman found murdered on a country road today as Mrs. Ruth Reed, 35, divorcée, of Detroit. It also brought the arrest of her ex-husband, George Reed, 35, Detroit fireman. Reed was at work all day today but complained of being ill and took aspirin frequently. Police said he owns a car the tires of which correspond to the tracks found near the body.

It was learned that Mrs. Reed was not at her home at all last night. She was employed by the Ternstedt Manufacturing company and it was learned that she was to meet Fred Huff, a fellow employé, last night. Huff, later said he had had an engagement with Mrs. Reed, but that she had told him she was to meet her ex-husband to receive a quantity of city scrip with which Detroit city employés are being paid. She was to meet him again at 9 o'clock, Huff said, but failed to keep the engagement.

Mrs. Reed's father, William Miller, 61, said the Reeds were divorced in September, 1930, and had quarreled since when they met. He declared Reed had threatened to kill his daughter.

Both Huff and Reed were questioned by officers and were to be brought here, Huff to complete his statement and Reed to face a possible charge of murder. Reed denied he had murdered his ex-wife. The Reeds have an adopted daughter, Eileen.

YOU MAY HEAR MILKY WAY ON YOUR RADIO SET

New York, May 4.—[Special.]—Discovery of mysterious radio waves which appear to come from the center of the milky way galaxy, was announced today by the Bell Telephone laboratories.

The discovery was made during research studies on static by Karl G. Jansky of the Radio Research department at Holmdel, N. J., and was described by him in a paper delivered before the International Scientific Radio union in Washington.

Unlike the cosmic ray, which comes from all directions in space, does not vary with either the time of day or the time of the year, and may be either a photon or an electron, the galactic waves, Mr. Jansky pointed out, seem to come from a definite source in space, vary in intensity with the time of day and time of the year, and are distinctly electro-magnetic waves that can be picked up by a radio set.

VILLAGE HOPES DESERTED PAIR FIND LOST MATES

Elmwood Park Joins Hunt for Ex-Officials.

Elmwood Park officials joined an abandoned wife and an indignant husband last night in the search for Charles P. Hoehamer, who was village president until April 18, and Mrs. George Hoffman, president of the village board of education until the same date. Both had given up their official positions and left the suburbanites to their own conclusions.

Village President Hoehamer was a hardware dealer at 7408 Grand avenue and lived with his wife and three sons at 2714 North 75th avenue. He and his wife were politically and socially friendly with the school president, Edna Hoffman, and her husband, George. Hoehamer is 55 years old. Mrs. Hoffman is presumed to be 45.

Hoehamer Departs First.

Hoehamer was the first to go away, leaving his office to be filled by Thomas Carey, a school trustee, who was chosen at the election. In the same election George Hoffman sought to succeed his wife, Edna, but failed of election.

It was reported Hoehamer went to Waukesha, Wis., to take mineral baths for his rheumatism. He didn't come back. Then Mrs. Hoffman left her home at 2416 North 76th avenue.

A suit had been filed for an accounting of special assessment funds collected in Elmwood Park and Hoehamer was named as one of the defendants, but still he did not return. Nor did Mrs. Hoffman.

Warrants Out for Both.

Then Mrs. Minnie Hoehamer obtained a warrant charging her husband with wife abandonment. Police revealed it last night.

Yesterday Hoffman obtained a warrant for his wife's arrest on a charge of misconduct with Hoehamer. The Elmwood Park police chief then telephoned to the police chief of Peoria the following request:

"Arrest Edna Hoffman, age 45, weight 190 to 200, and Charles P. Hoehamer, aged 55, weight over 200, if he happens to be with her; they are believed to have eloped to your city."

The Peoria police joined the search.

MARSHALL FIELD & COMPANY

DEFENDANT PAYS IN TAX RECEIVER SUIT; MORE FILED

Bankers Bldg. Rushes to Halt Court Action.

Jubilant at the payment of $50,000 in taxes on the Bankers' building, 200 South Clark street, after a suit for receivership had been filed against the property, County Treasurer McDonough and his attorney, Thomas D. Nash, late yesterday filed two new suits against loop properties. They were listed as owing back taxes amounting to $262,609.

The complaints named the 208 South La Salle Street Building corporation and James F. Porter, as owner of the Loop End building, 177 North State street, defendants. The Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, as trustee for the La Salle street building, was also named defendant.

$217,792 on One Building.

The taxes owed on the La Salle street building, according to the bill, total $217,792. The 1929 taxes due total $103,991 and the 1930 taxes owed total $113,880. The bill seeks the appointment of a receiver for the county to collect the income from the 21 story office building and pay these back taxes.

The suit against Porter, which names Sol H. Goldberg as lessee of the building, charges that there are $8,344 in taxes due on the 1929 levy and $36,466 yet unpaid on the 1930 tax bill.

Five More on List.

An additional list of loop properties selected for receivership action for the collection of 1928, 1929 and 1930 taxes totaling $168,184 was made public last night by the county treasurer. The names of the properties listed and the amounts claimed by the county in back taxes follow:

164 North Michigan avenue, $30,266.

24-28 North Dearborn street, $30,234.

30-32 North Dearborn street, $34,451.

Judge Quashes Suit.

The Bankers' building suit under the Skarda act was dismissed by Judge Stanley Klarkowski when attorneys made the $50,000 down payment on taxes due for 1929 and 1930, which total $143,945.

S. A. Guthrie, attorney for the building, also promised to place in escrow the remaining money due, pending a decision of County Judge Jarecki on objections filed by the building corporation.

L. C. Dilks of the Bankers' building issued a statement asserting that the Bankers' building was in no sense to be classed with the "group of large tax strikers." The owners of the building merely protested what was considered an unfair assessment, he declared.

Country Property Behind.

Only thirty per cent of the 1931 taxes have been collected in the country town area outside of Chicago, County Treasurer McDonough revealed yesterday. Of the total 1931 extension of $38,145,902 in real estate and personal property taxes, only $11,231,936 has been collected.

George Hagenauer, auditor for the treasurer, also rendered a report of the auditing of the 1930 real estate, personal property, and railroad taxes as of last Tuesday. The report shows that the total of 1930 taxes unpaid is $125,665,578.

Jacobs Blames Collectors.

These reports, especially the one in regard to the collection of country town taxes, were followed by the charge from County Assessor J. L. Jacobs that a large number of the 30 country town collectors held up, or did not mail, more than 75 per cent of the 1931 personal property tax bills because of the three separate elections held three weeks ago.

The only bills sent out before the April 4, 8, and 18 elections in the country towns were those to utilities and large corporations and businesses, the assessor charged. As a result, he asserted, a tangle has resulted and most of the country town residents have not yet received their bills, although the penalty date was May 1.

Moreover, those taxpayers receiving bills after May 1 will be liable for the added 1 per cent penalty, regardless of whether they received their bills in time, he pointed out.

City Budget Is Confronted with 65 Per Cent of Taxes

When members of the city council finance committee seat themselves around the table in their committee room—probably next week—to begin work on the city's 1933 budget, they will be warned that because of a steady decline in tax collections during the last few years there must be economy in appropriations.

The warning that tax sources are being dried up will not be unfamiliar to them. Last year the late Mayor Cermak informed the aldermen that the 1933 budget would never "pay out" unless its total was drastically lower than that of 1932. He repeated the statement several times. Mayor Kelly, since assuming office, frequently has expressed the opinion that expenditures must be restricted to a reasonable estimate of revenue.

Mayor Kelly's Warning.

"I do not believe that piling up deficits by appropriating beyond reasonable estimates of revenues constitutes a sound financial policy," Mayor Kelly said. "Not only the city, but all governments, should expend within their means. If tax collections are not going to exceed 65 per cent of the levy, appropriations should be restricted correspondingly.

"That would mean a sharp reduction, but I can see no alternative. Appropriating on a basis of reasonable tax revenue expectations means cutting down deficits and lowering individual tax bills. Lower tax bills will tend to halt the mounting percentage of tax delinquencies, and that means increased revenue for the local governments."

The mayor's statement was given support by figures in an audit of tax collections for 1928, 1929, and 1930 compiled by County Treasurer McDonough.

Collection Decline Shown.

A table on the city's tax revenue prepared from this audit follows, showing the year, the total tax extension for the benefit of the city government, the taxes collected, and the declining percentage of collection:

Year	Extension.	Collection.	Pct.
1928	........$63,881,150	$53,495,507	83
1930	 92,449,455	52,335,281	56

Early this year City Controller Szymczak prepared an estimate of tax revenues for the finance committee, but now is revising his figures. This move on his part was forced by the pending litigation over the order of the board of tax appeals for a 15 per cent reduction in the 1931 base assessment valuation of homes and small flat buildings. Another factor is the statement of County Assessor Jacobs that there would be a general 15 per cent cut in 1932 valuations.

In January the controller estimated that the aldermen could appropriate against a total of $55,874,864, but recommended that the budget be held to $52,519,863. The 1932 budget figure was $54,694,838, and the 1931 budget, approved under the administration of a former Republican mayor, was $67,552,961.

See 44 to 48 Million Budget.

Several budget experts in the city hall have expressed the opinion that the 1933 budget would be confined to a figure somewhere between 44 and 48 million dollars. Several million dollars can be saved in interest charges on tax warrants, the experts said, but any further reductions would have to be made in appropriations for salaries and for materials and supplies..

Under the law, according to Victor S. Petterson, deputy controller, the city could use a total property valuation of $3,788,915,049 as a basis for estimating tax revenue. But the controller's office in revising its revenue estimates is using a valuation of only $2,832,322,000, because of the order of the board of tax appeals and the cut proposed by Assessor Jacobs.

"In the lower valuation figure," said Mr. Petterson, "we have kept the personal property figure at the same level as for 1931. If the personal property item is raised in the 1933 valuations the increase will be clear profit for the city."

TRUSTEES CALL MEETING TO VOTE TEACHERS' PAY

Checks May Be Ready by Middle of Week.

A special meeting of the board of education will be held Monday to assure teachers and other school board employés a pay day by the middle of next week.

The meeting, called to avoid delaying action until the regular board session scheduled for Wednesday, was announced yesterday by James A. Hemingway, vice president of the board. A board vote is necessary to make available for pay roll purposes $750,000 received from the state distributive fund.

The chance of a full month's pay for the teachers brightened yesterday with the announcement of Henry P. Chandler, head of the "liberty loan" drive to pay teachers, that $2,190,000 in 1932 school warrants had been sold.

$440,000 Short of Goal.

This money, added to the state fund and $20,000 in cash on hand at the school board, leaves the available money just $440,000 short of the $3,400,000 necessary to meet the pay roll for last September. Mr. Chandler expressed confidence that enough warrants to make up this deficit would be sold by early next week.

At the same time Mayor Kelly expressed the hope that the city would be able to sell an additional $17,000,000 worth of educational fund warrants in the next few weeks to meet a four months pay roll for the teachers. He said that passage by the general assembly of the Skarda bill and other tax legislation would add impetus to the sale of warrants.

The school board owes the 14,000 teachers and 4,000 other board employés approximately $32,000,000 for eight months' salaries.

The $750,000 in the state fund, which the board will release Monday, is now in the hands of the city treasurer, who is also ex-officio treasurer of the school board. The money must be deposited in the working cash fund of the school board, then transferred to the educational fund and released for pay roll purposes by the board.

Mr. Chandler said yesterday that he expects a large number of warrant purchases today.

Among those who purchased warrants yesterday were the following: Illinois Steel company, $114,000; Sears Roebuck & Co., $60,000; Swift & Co., $70,000; International Harvester company, $140,000; the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad, $30,000; and Joseph T. Ryerson & Son, $12,000.

MAYOR SELECTS FIVE NEW MEMBERS OF SCHOOL BOARD

Five new members of the board of education have been selected, Mayor Kelly announced yesterday, and four of them have signified that they will accept the positions. The mayor would not reveal their names but said that he would submit them to the city council next Wednesday.

"The men I have selected," said the mayor, "are close to the people and know what public duty means. They were not picked for political reasons, and I do not know to what political party some of them belong. I am sure that they will be of great aid in giving people of Chicago a sound administration of the school system."

With the appointment of these five men the city administration will have control of the board of education, nine of the eleven trustees either being Democrats or being persons selected by the Democratic administration.

BOY AUTO THIEF SENT TO JAIL BY HIS OWN MOTHER

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 84; recovered 88; stripped, 12 [from Chicago police records for twenty four hours ending at midnight Wednesday].

The severest critic of 17 year old Charles Wallisch is his mother, Mrs. Theresa Wallisch of 2230 Carmen avenue.

On April 18 Mrs. Wallisch learned her son was driving a car he did not own. She investigated and learned further that he had stolen this car and three more. Then, with Spartan fortitude, she gave an order to two other sons, James and Albert.

"Take Charles to the police," she said, "and tell them he is a thief."

Her command was obeyed. Yesterday Charles was sentenced to a year in the Bridewell by Judge John Gutknecht. In the same court John Bangadis, 17 years old, 2146 Haddon avenue, whose mother had him arrested because he carried a pistol, was fined $200 and costs.

Deer Swims Out to Sea to Escape Dog; Rescued

Santa Monica, Cal., May 4.—[Special.]—A deer that was chased by a dog and took refuge in the Pacific ocean was rescued 3 miles at sea today by T. E. Chaney, assistant county fire warden. Chaney brought the frightened animal ashore in a skiff and loaded it in a truck, covered by a tarpaulin, but the deer leaped out of the speeding truck without mishap to itself and scooted back into the brush.

Thieves yesterday took two dozen buns from a truck of the Gordon Baking company, 5324 Federal street, which was parked at 47th street and Western avenue, while the driver was making a delivery.

IN RETROSPECT MAE CAN SEE HER MISTAKE

Mrs. Mae Litwin, 32 years old, 5231 Kenmore avenue, appeared a trifle robust to employés of the Loblaw groceteria, 5514 Belmont avenue, as she finished a tour of the store yesterday. For this reason Manager Frank Wright stopped her as she approached the door.

Mrs. Litwin expressed indignation and tried to brush past Wright. He seized her and Mrs. Litwin gave battle with the shouted announcement that "she was never more insulted in her life." The altercation ended as a pool of milk began to gather on the floor.

Mrs. Litwin was closeted with a woman detective. After an examination of Mrs. Litwin's attire the detective emerged with a dozen eggs, one-half pound of walnuts, two packages of cream cheese, a pound of butter, and the remains of a bottle of milk.

"I made a mistake," Mrs. Litwin confided to the Racine avenue police. "I should have let that milk alone."

HOUSE PUSHES BILL TO AVERT STRIKE ON TAXES

Vote Likely on Tuesday; Asked by Chicago.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 4.—[Special.]—Moved without opposition to third reading in the house today, the tax bill to hobble Chicago tax strikers appeared certain of passage next Tuesday. It is the second of series of measures backed by Gov. Horner and Mayor Kelly of Chicago.

This bill provides that only real estate taxpayers who have paid 75 per cent will be recognized by the courts in contesting taxes therein.

Because it was speeded through the senate yesterday and was sent to second reading in the huose a few moments later, then advanced today without a voice being raised against it, Corporation Counsel Sexton of Chicago as well as other Democratic leaders believe the bill will have clear sailing next week. It has an emergency clause.

Predict Signing Next Week.

Barring the development of opposition over the week-end, members predicted today that by the end of next week, Gov. Horner's signature would make the bill a law.

Benjamin S. Adamowski [Dem., Chicago], who handles most of the administration proposals in the house, engineered advancement of the measure to third reading today. He first secured an amendment to make the bill conform to another signed yesterday by the governor which extends the penalty date on payment of the first installment of 1932 taxes in downstate counties from May 1 to June 1.

Then, no other amendments having been offered, the bill went to third reading by a tap of Speaker Roe's gavel.

Burns Attacks Senate Delay.

About the only excitement furnished the house came from James T. Burns [Dem., Kankakee], who lit into the senate for its "apathetic" attitude toward economy bills passed by the house and now reposing in judiciary committee across the hall, where they have lain for several weeks.

Senator Harold G. Ward [Dem., Chicago], chairman of the senate judiciary committee, when told of Burns' attack declared: "He has no kick coming. His bills will be reported out of committee next week."

Before it adjourned for the week, the house passed a resolution presented by Richard J. Lyons [Dep., Mundelein] calling for appointment of a committee of three senators and three representatives to formulate plans for placing unemployed on small tracts of land "where they can be self-supporting." The plan was suggested by Brig. Gen. F. C. Bolles, commandant of Fort Sheridan. The committee must make a report to the current assembly.

NEW YORKER CHOSEN BY PRESIDENT FOR ENVOY TO BELGIUM

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—Dave Hennen Morris of New York, one of President Roosevelt's old friends and supporters, was appointed today to be ambassador to Belgium. His selection had been forecast for many weeks.

It was understood in authoritative circles that James W. Gerard, who was ambassador to Germany in the Wilson administration, would receive a good foreign post. He was offered the ambassadorship to Argentina, but declined, with the understanding that he desired an European assignment.

Another nomination sent to the senate today was that of Dean G. Acheson of Maryland, to be undersecretary of the treasury.

Relief Roll Workers Start Washing County Hospital

The work of washing the outside of the county hospital was begun yesterday and is expected to be completed in time for the opening of the World's Fair. Warden Michael Zimmer said that seven men from the relief rolls are working on the three scaffolds, which were along the east side of the building yesterday. The men will also make repairs on the walls.

Attorney John McMann said Mrs. Peine had received a $17,500 cash settlement in lieu of alimony.

LEWIS CONDEMNS U. S.-CANADIAN WATERWAY PACT

Lists Six Objections in Report to Senate.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—Illinois' case against the present version of the St. Lawrence waterway treaty with Canada was laid squarely before the senate today in a minority report filed by Senator James Hamilton Lewis [Dem., Ill.] in opposition to ratification of the seaway pact as it is now drawn.

On six grounds, the Illinois senator condemned the treaty as unfair, not only to Illinois and the city of Chicago, but to all the states of the middle west, which have looked forward to completion of the lakes-to-the-gulf seaway. Moreover, he declared, the treaty in its present form would abdicate America's well defined right to sole sovereignty over the waters of Lake Michigan.

Limitation Draws Fire.

It was the treaty's present limitation of 1,500 second feet on diversion of water from Lake Michigan which drew Senator Lewis' fire, and unless that limitation is stricken out, he contended, the pact should be rejected. In support of this contention he presented the following arguments:

1. That the diversion limit in the treaty is based on an ante-dated decision of the Supreme court, rendered at a time when the north-south waterway from the great lakes to the gulf had not been approved by congress.

2. That approval of the treaty with this limitation intact would be a nullification of the act of congress authorizing the lakes to gulf seaway and instructing the secretary of war to ascertain the amount of diversion from Lake Michigan necessary to make the seaway practicable. It would, said the senator, take this authority from the secretary of war and rest it jointly in this country and in Canada, which has no claim over Lake Michigan.

Perils Water Purification.

3. That the diversion limit set in the treaty does not take into consideration the needs of the lakes to gulf waterway and will jeopardize the possibility of a successful all-American waterway. Moreover, the limitation will endanger the efficient purification of sewage water in the Chicago sanitary district during flood seasons.

4. Even were the limitation raised to the 10,000 second feet required for the lakes to gulf waterway, navigation on the great lakes would not be impaired. At the expense of the United States, huge compensating works are to be constructed to maintain the lake levels at navigable depth even with a diversion of 30,000 to 40,000 second feet.

Jealously Guarded Right.

5. Ratification of the treaty giving Canada joint authority over Lake Michigan diversion would be an abdication of America's jealousy guarded right to sovereignty over the lake, which lies entirely within her boundaries.

6. While granting Canada this authority over American waters, the treaty would leave with Canada full power over Georgian bay, an integral part of her all-Canadian waterway.

his two boys farmed 265 acres in Boone county.

Wallace Short of Sioux City referred to the imprisoned farmers as "the salt of the earth." One of them, he said, was a Sunday school superintendent, and others were of the same sort. Gov. Herring, he said, had declared a moratorium on foreclosures, and then had sent out troops to enforce foreclosures.

Mr. Reno said he had just called the governor's attention to the case of one of the prisoners, reported a sick man, dragged away from his Sunday dinner by the soldiers. "I told the governor," he said, "that the time had come to go to the mat; that if he wanted to go down in history as an arch tyrant we were ready to record it. I told him if revolution came it was not the farmers' fault."

Townley Assails Governor.

Townley, who led the farmers of North Dakota through the sad experiments of the Nonpartisan league, was on hand with a long resolution on this subject. He would "resist with force when all other pleadings to the money lords fail." The governor of Iowa, he said, had violated public sentiment when he enforced foreclosures with martial law and "we may be forced into widespread bloody revolution." He called on the governor to withdraw the troops and restore civil government at once. The resolution recited the reported story of the attack on Judge Charles C. Bradley.

This was all adopted with a whoop. The committee on resolutions reported and all its measures were confirmed. They expressed sympathy with the President in his inflation program, but deplored the fact that a "spineless congress had voted away its powers." The pending farm relief bill was declared inadequate. They demanded that the cost of production measure be made mandatory on the secretary of agriculture. They served notice they would not be dictated to by land grant college representatives or the extension department.

Judge Tells of Attack.

Le Mars, Ia., May 4.—(AP)—An elderly judge told a military court today how a mob of farmers dragged him from his court, threatened him with hanging, subjected him to indignities, and finally left him unconscious.

The four members of the court did not reveal whether the judge, 54 year old C. C. Bradley, gave the names of the leaders of the farmers seeking to halt mortgage foreclosures on farms.

After hearing Judge Bradley's story, the court judiciary divided into four units and continued hearing evidence from witnesses of the riot last Thursday at the O'Brien county courthouse.

A declaration that citizens had been treated unjustly by the military since the riot came from State Representative Gustav Alesch of Plymouth county, storm center of the battling, before he went before the military inquisitors.

Says Demonstration Needed.

"While not condoning the attack," he said, "some demonstration was needed to bring to the attention of Washington and the nation the deplorable plight of the farmers.

"A great number of innocent persons have been taken in the wholesale arrests. Some of them may have been in the mob, but took no part in the riot."

Other witnesses included W. Scott Reiniger, court reporter for Judge Bradley, and Dr. W. A. Hand of Hartley, who said he treated Morris Cope, sought as one of the ringleaders of the riot, for a head injury.

Dr. Hand, discussing the case of Cope, said he was suffering from a skull fracture when he came to his office for treatment. Cope is reported to be in a hospital in the vicinity but he has not been located.

Sue to Enjoin Waiters from Singing 'Happy Days'

A petition for an injunction against the singing of "Happy Days Are Here Again" by the waiters in the Bavarian Hofbrau, 304 West North avenue, without permission of the copyright owners, was filed in the federal court yesterday. Gene Buck, president of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, is seeking the injunction, charging violation of the copyright laws.

CONFEREES ARE DEADLOCKED ON FARM MEASURE

House to Reconsider Crop Cost Clause.

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—A deadlock today between conferees of the senate and house over the cost of production section of the farm relief bill will force reconsideration of the bill in the house on Monday, with consequent possible delay of the inflation program, incorporated in an amendment to this measure.

The senate conferees insisted that this section, authorizing the secretary of agriculture to set arbitrary prices for basic agricultural commodities and penalize sales below such prices, and put into the bill as a senate amendment, be retained, while the house conferees balked at this suggestion.

Agree on Remainder of Bill.

Accordingly the house conferees will report a disagreement on Monday and, if the house insists that the section be eliminated, the senate must reconsider its amendment with the possibility of an insistence on retention that will result in further conferences. Should the house vote to recede the bill will be ready for the President's signature.

Complete agreement was reached by conferees on the remainder of the bill, including authorizations for the secretary of agriculture to use either the domestic allotment plan or leasing of marginal lands and withdrawal of them from production as alternatives to the cost of production procedure, and the assessment of taxes on processors of agricultural products to raise funds to finance the two approved authorizations.

The bill now covers seven basic agricultural commodities—wheat, cotton, corn, hogs, rice, tobacco, and milk and its products. The conferees followed a previously indicated plan by removing a senate amendment inserting sugar, and they left out cattle and sheep, voted into the bill by the house and eliminated by the senate.

House Wins Important Point.

While the senate views prevailed in most of the 84 amendments considered by the conferees, the house conferees won an important point in having the basic period for the regulation of milk and milk products prices based on a pre-war average.

The senate inserted an amendment changing the base period for milk and milk products and tobacco to September, 1919, to August, 1928.

The conferees restored the original base period for milk, but retained substantially the post-war period for tobacco.

The senate conferees receded on another amendment when a clause was eliminated specifying that the agents to be appointed to enforce the proposed law should be farmers residing in the congressional districts where they were to be employed.

COUPLE HELD UP IN AUTO; GIRL'S WIT TRAPS TWO

Frederick D. Countiss, 1524 Lake Shore drive, and Miss Katherine Luxem, 511 Roscoe street, were held up last night in front of Miss Luxem's home by four men. But so slowly did the robbers go about their work that Sergt. John Luptak's squad from the Town Hall police station, after being summoned, arrived in time to capture two of the band.

Countiss, 19 year old son of the late Mrs. Lawrence Whiting, told the police that the four men took $4 and a fob containing a miniature of his mother from him. They then ordered him and Miss Luxem out of his car, in which they attempted to drive away. Their orders were obeyed and Miss Luxem ran to a telephone and called the police.

Meanwhile the bandits, who had kept Countiss with them, were unable to start the car. They ordered him to get in and drive for them, but he fumbled with the starter and convinced them he couldn't start it, either. The four robbers then separated. Those who were caught are Fred Mitchell, 17 years old, and his uncle, Herbert Mitchell, 28 years old, both of 4108 Kenmore avenue. They confessed that they had also robbed another couple, who made no report to the police, in the same block.

Cafe About to Open for Business Is Bomb Target

Considerable damage was caused early today by the explosion of a bomb in the entrance of a restaurant which was to have been opened for business in a few days at 3703 West Roosevelt road. The owner of the place is Mrs. Lillian Waxman, 4234 Grenshaw street. The police were unable to learn the motive for the blast.

DROP EMBEZZLEMENT CHARGES.

Judge Rudolph Desort yesterday dismissed a charge of embezzlement against Joseph Kastner, 24 years old, 2459 South Crawford avenue, former cashier of the Jones & Baumrucker Jewelry company, 4004 West 26th street. Officials of the company said that Kastner had repaid $3,440 he had taken.

GEORGE N. PEEK SLATED TO HEAD NEW FARM PLAN

Other Illinois Men Urged for Executive Posts.

BY PAUL POTTER.

The names of three Illinois men and a fourth who has been active in farm marketing in Illinois in recent years were being mentioned yesterday along with others as candidates for posts of administration under the new federal farm act.

George N. Peek of Moline is virtually certain to be appointed head of the new farm relief administration under Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace, it was reported in official circles. Peek already is conferring with officials in Washington over administration of the new measure.

Peek, formerly a farm equipment manufacturer and more recently interested in merchandising products of cornstalks, was co-author and active protagonist of the old equalization fee method of boosting farm prices. This principle, incorporated inthe McNary-Haugen bills, was twice vetoed by Calvin Coolidge.

Helps Draft Price Plan.

Ever since Franklin D. Roosevelt in campaign speeches came out in favor of production restrictions in agriculture Peek has counseled with farm leaders in developing the present form of price boosting legislation. Politically Peek has been a Republican, but in 1928 he campaigned in the middle west for Alfred E. Smith and again last summer for Roosevelt. He is 60 years old and a native of Illinois, his birthplace being Polo, in Ogle county.

Peek headed an organization of 22 farm groups, which from 1924 to 1928 was active in injecting the farm relief issue into the campaigns of the major political parties. He was the general manager of the John Deere Plow company of Omaha from 1901 to 1911 and president of the Moline Plow company from 1919 to 1923. He since has served on several federal commissions and boards studying agricultural problems.

Earl Smith Mentioned.

Reports yesterday indicated that Earl Smith, president of the Illinois Agricultural association, was being considered to serve with Peek. The reports were that he would administer the law as it affects the live stock industry. Smith declared yesterday he had not been approached recently and had not been in Washington regarding the farm bill for nearly two weeks.

Three names have been mentioned for administrator over the dairy industry. H. C. Darger, 2022 Lincoln street, Evanston, is being recommended by middle west butter manufacturers and dairy organizations. Harry Hartke of Cincinnati, president of the National Coöperative Milk Producers' federation, also has many supporters.

King Is Milk Arbiter.

It was held more likely, however, that Dr. Clyde L. King of Philadelphia would be selected for the post of dairy administrator. Dr. King is professor of business economics at the University of Pensylvania. He was named by Gov. Pinchot of Pennsylvania to head the state utility commission, but his confirmation by the Pennsylvania senate was held up at the governor's request.

For several years King has been arbiter in disputes between dairymen and milk companies in Chicago, Philadelphia, and other cities. He is being urged for the federal job by both producers and distributors of dairy products. He served as dairy administrator under Hoover during the world war.

SABATH DELAYS WOODWARD CASE ACTION IN HOUSE

All Receiverships May Be Investigated.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—Impeachment action against Federal Judge Charles Woodward of Chicago was postponed by Representative Adolph J. Sabath [Dem., Ill.] today pending house action on the Celler resolution authorizing a congressional investigation of all receiverships under jurisdiction of the federal courts.

Mr. Sabath discussed the Celler resolution and Judge Woodward's case with Attorney General Homer S. Cummings. The attorney general informed him, Mr. Sabath said, that he will interpose no objection to adoption of the resolution of inquiry. Nor has the attorney general any objection to an individual investigation of Judge Woodward, it was stated.

Broad Inquiry Possible.

Approval of the Celler proposal would obviate the necessity of impeachment proceedings directed at Judge Woodward alone, Representative Sabath explained, because under its provisions the house judiciary committee would be authorized to conduct an investigation into the appointment of receivers in any case under federal jurisdiction. Under the terms of the measure, Mr. Sabath pointed out, Judge Woodward would be investigated by the judiciary committee.

The resolution has been favorably reported to the house and the rules committee has granted a special rule governing its consideration on the floor.

Sees Action Unnecessary.

Mr. Sabath said he believed impeachment proceedings will not be necessary for Judge Woodward's removal from office. He is of the opinion, Mr. Sabath said, that the jurist will see fit to resign before the impeachment action can be taken. Should he refuse to relinquish his post voluntarily and should the Celler resolution fail of adoption in the house, Mr. Sabath said, he intends then to take immediate action looking to Judge Woodward's impeachment and trial before the bar of the senate.

Bandits Threaten to Burn Woman, 72; Leave Her Tied

REVEALS FRANCE FAILED TO WIN NEW DEBT DEAL

Economies or Inflation? Senate Warned.

PARIS, May 4.—(AP)—The senate was warned today that it must choose between economies or inflation and that the government has been unable to obtain assurances from President Roosevelt of a moratorium on the debt payment due the United States in June.

Senator Henri Berenger, chairman of the foreign affairs committee, demanded to know whether the government was asking a 90 per cent reduction in the war debts to meet the reduction in reparations granted Germany at the Lausanne conference.

"Our gesture of magnificent chivalry is not yet understood in Washington," he said. "Was the attitude of the American senate modified by the Herriot mission? I ask explanation of this point."

No Definite Word on Debts.

Foreign Minister Joseph Paul-Boncour replied that the senator had asked "embarrassing questions for which I must ask at least a 24 hour moratorium."

The foreign minister said that former Premier Herriot, France's special envoy for President Roosevelt's economic discussions in Washington, had failed to get any definite indications on the war debt settlement.

"The man we sent to Washington is returning," the foreign minister continued. "He contributed to the amelioration of the atmosphere, but it will be difficult to bring the two points of view together. The negotiations will be long.

"We would like to know if negotiations can take place with the certainty that a moratorium will be granted while they last. We did not want to invoke the clause of the Mellon-Berenger debt agreement permitting a moratorium on capital payments because we consider that the entire question must be reëxamined."

Chamber Gets Warning.

The inflation warning came from Marcel Regnier, reporter for the budget committee, who declared:

"Before it is too late we must choose; either economies or inflation."

Financiers and bankers say that unless the budget is cut drastically there will be a threat of inflation. Weakness in state finances is the sole danger, in the opinion of officials of the Bank of France, who insist that France will remain on gold no matter what happens.

The chamber has voted a budget with a deficit of 4,177,000,000 francs [$167,000,000] and the senate is seeking to reduce it to 3,000,000,000 francs [$120,000,000].

The feeling in the senate is that inflation has been the fear of the French since the fall of the franc in 1924.

RIGHT HAND MAN OF MUSSOLINI RESIGNS POST IN MINISTRY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, May 4.—An important change in the management of the ministry of interior was announced tonight. The ministry is usually regarded as the key post in revolutionary and dictatorial régimes.

Leandro Arpinati, old time Fascist of the hard boiled type, friend and, up to the present time, right hand man of Premier Mussolini, has resigned as undersecretary of that ministry "for personal reasons." Arpinati's departure was a surprise for the public.

Guido Buffarini Guidi, Pisa lawyer and member of the chamber of deputies, will succeed him. Guidi is little known outside of parliamentary circles. The ministry of interior is so important in this régime that Mussolini has held the portfolio himself since 1925, placing an undersecretary in charge.

BRITISH ATTACK U.S. 'REPUDIATION' OF GOLD CLAUSE

Claim It Justifies War Debt Default.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 4.—The American government's decision to pay interest on gold bonds in paper currency instead of gold called forth strong criticism and some severe language tonight in the house of commons.

The Labor spokesman, Sir Stafford Cripps, described America's decision as "contrary to every possible criterion of honesty." Sir Stafford said he is bewildered as to what the action really means. When Britain went off the gold standard, he said, it continued to pay American debts, but now after America's recent action, no one would seriously contemplate that Britain would ever do it again.

Says U. S. Has Pointed Way.

"The United States has given us a lead in the way in which, when in financial difficulties we can get out of them," Sir Stafford said. "The French did that long ago. They cut down their foreign debt to one-fifth by paying in paper francs and now America with its vast hoard of gold is going to take the same step."

"Repudiation" was also charged against the United States today by the London Star, an afternoon newspaper which is affiliated with the morning News-Chronicle. The charge was made both editorially and on the news pages.

Suspension of the gold clause applying to interest payments on government bonds inspired the editorial attack. The Star asserts that had smaller countries made such a suspension they would have been severely dealt with.

Compares British Case.

"America, in fact, repudiates her debt," the editorial declares. "The word is an ugly one and perhaps ought to be shaded off into a statement that America announces she is unable to pay her debts. Its similarity to the statement made about our own war debt payments will be recalled.

"We might even recall some American comments on that statement, but we prefer to recall the fact that we did pay our last installment, though some of our experts denounced payment and insisted we ought to have the courage not to make it.

"The United States, always anxious to lead in everything, has 'beaten us to it.' America is breaking not only a business understanding, but a legal understanding.

"There is no reason why we should not be plain obout that in dealing with a plain spoken nation. Her defense is 'necessity knows no law.' We look to our statesmen and we invite President Roosevelt to tell his people that this is just the basis for which we claim the end of war debt payments."

pleaded with Judge Lindsay to "maintain law and preserve the peace," by enjoining the Baker faction from retaining possession of the union records.

"These gentle lambs and cooing doves, who stalked into union headquarters with their large footed policemen friends and threw out poor little Jack Sheridan, a kid of 21 years, would now have your honor perpetuate them in possession," Jennings exclaimed.

"To hear them talk, Little Jack Sheridan and Milton Booth, son of Old Man Booth, the founder of this union, are a couple of roaring lions out for blood. But there's another, more sinister figure behind their action—I refer to the gentleman named Flynn, or Lefty Lynch, or something of the kind."

CRIMINAL COURT.

Harry Monroe, manslaughter, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary by Judge Michael Feinberg.

An Unwilling Fugitive.

The man he referred to, it developed, was James [Lefty] Lynch, former business agent of the coal teamsters, who moved suddenly and unwillingly to Wisconsin in 1920 when George [Red] Barker, since slain; O'Donnell, White and other gangsters allegedly supporting Sheridan, took control. Lynch's lawyer, James E. Daniels, was also in court.

"If you're referring to my client," he flung at Attorney Jennings, "the only sinister thing about him is the fact that he's carrying three slugs in his body—slugs fired by the men whom you playfully referred to as your roaring lions."

The direct issue before Judge Lindsay was whether he should relinquish the case on the motion of Attorney Schreiber for a change of venue. Schreiber contended that Judge Lindsay's previous granting of an injunction restraining the Baker forces from taking control, an injunction since dismissed by the Appellate court, would prejudice Judge Lindsay from passing on the case again.

"The Dignity of the Law."

"Let us uphold the dignity of the law," Jennings cried. "They came before your honor on the injunction matter, asked leave to file an answer and now, having felt the court out, wish to take the matter away from you. I say the law prohibits such tactics. These brothers have to fish or cut bait. They can't call your honor prejudiced now."

In connection with the claim of prejudice, Attorney Schreiber said he was interested to learn that a certificate of honorary membership in the union, presented to Judge Lindsay three years ago when Milton Booth Sr. and Lynch were in control, still hung on the wall of the judge's chamber.

The certificate issued the judge, proclaiming his honorary membership, "commended him to the friendship and good will of all the members," it was shown. At the outset of argument on the motion for the change of venue the judge evinced readiness to grant it, stating that it would save him "embarrassment."

But when Attorney Jennings raised the legal point concerning the right of counsel to seek a change after accepting the judge's jurisdiction, he reconsidered. Both sides were instructed to present the law on the question at noon today.

WAR DEBT TALK BARRED FROM WORLD PARLEY

Britain Blocks Tariff Truce Proposal.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 4.—War debts will not be discussed at the world economic conference. This was announced today in the course of Prime Minister MacDonald's report to the house of commons on his trip to Washington. It was brought out by a question put by George Lambert, who asked whether the war debts would be "talked over." MacDonald replied, "No!"

The prime minister also informed the house that Great Britain is asking for special "safeguards" in the matter of the tariff truce proposed by the American government. American authorities here still have hope that an agreement on the truce pending the outcome of the economic conference will be reached by the powers at the beginning of the world parley in London on June 12.

Prior to MacDonald's report, Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, introduced a resolution to increase the exchange equalization account from £150,000,000 [about $585,000,000 at current rates] to £350,000,000 [about $1,400,000,000]. The resolution carried.

Cheers for MacDonald.

The prime minister was cheered as he entered the house just before the end of the question period and again as he arose to make his report, but there was evident disappointment when the members found it so meager of details. After some pressure he promised to answer any questions put to him next Tuesday. This day has been set aside for debate on the Washington mission.

MacDonald's statement was brief. He said that his conversations with President Roosevelt followed the lines laid down in his speech before leaving for America.

He discussed with Mr. Roosevelt in some detail, the prime minister related, subjects relating to the conference. These, he said, included tariffs, quotas, exchange control and stability of international currency.

"Hands Completely Untied."

"President Roosevelt and I both shared the view," the prime minister continued, "that our respective countries should enter the economic conference with hands completely untied. The result of these exchanges of views and examinations of problems was most encouraging.

"In view of the controversy which has arisen with reference to the suggestion of a tariff truce, I had better say that I felt it my duty to point out how different is the position of a country like our own from that of those which are already high tariff countries with policies of economic defense fully worked out and in operation.

"Whilst I welcomed the idea of a truce during the period of the conference, I made it plain that its application would have to be subjected to safeguards which this difference in our position requires.

"This was considered to be reasonable. I took the opportunity of putting before the President a full account of the British policy on disarmament and as a result of our discussions we reached common views which have been reflected in the effective coöperation between British and American delegates in support of the draft convention now before the disarmament conference at Geneva.

"We also discussed the question of the debts and frankly examined the problem in all its aspects. These exchanges of views were of particular importance as they brought out in well defined detail what differences have to be reconciled, and not only in the final settlement but in the immediate handling of the question.

"On this subject I can make no fuller statement at present as the matter has necessarily not yet reached the state of agreement.

"As for the visit on the whole, while I wish to convey no exaggerated impression I would say with confidence that mutual understanding between ourselves and the American government has been materially improved."

Demands More Details.

George Lansbury, leader of the Labor opposition, characterized MacDonald's statement as "meager" and protested against "the extraordinary lack of confidence of MacDonald in the house." He demanded more details in regard to Britain's policy toward the economic conference.

Later MacDonald conferred with Norman H. Davis, American ambassador-at-large. Davis had listened to MacDonald from the diplomatic gallery, but declined to make any comment. It is understood that the object of his visit with the prime minister today was to urge him to make another great effort to save the disarmament conference from collapse.

Chamberlain, in moving to increase the exchange stabilization fund, said that the increase had nothing whatever to do with the United States going off the gold standard and that he had decided it was desirable before that event. The object is simply to preserve a reasonable stability and safety of exchange by the operations, he said.

ROOSEVELT WAR DEBT FORMULA WILL BE REVEALED IN WEEK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—The first disclosure of President Roosevelt's war debt formula and the test of how it will work will come within just six days, it was learned today at the treasury department.

Greece, a debtor nation which makes payments on a unique schedule, has an installment of $444,400 coming due on May 10, the treasury's records show.

Although the amount is small, the manner in which it is handled may indicate the approach to the larger collections due in June. Since the expiration of the Hoover moratorium Greece has continually postponed or defaulted on her payments, and a new formula will be needed to break the string of delays.

One of the immediate questions before the President on the handling of the payment will be to what extent he wishes to use the power given him by congress yesterday to receive silver in payment for the debts. He can set the rate at which he will accept it so long as it does not exceed 50 cents an ounce. Silver at present is selling between 35 and 36 cents an ounce.

Should the Greek government endeavor to buy silver with which to pay off her debt, the price might easily be forced up over the 50 cent maximum at which the President is allowed to accept it.

The working out of this silver problem and others arising out of the new exchange situation will cause the treasury to use the Greece payment which is insignificant in size, as a significant experiment in the general field of foreign debts.

'QUEENS' OF ALL THE GLOBE WILL BE SEEN AT FAIR

First 10 of 51 Shown in Sunday Tribune.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

One hails from the gay boulevards of Paris, and chatters in liquid French syllables. One dwells in a typical American small town in "the Panhandle," and adorns her university English with a Texas drawl. But when it comes to a grand time for a girl, their ideas are the same in any language. So it wasn't hard to plan for the ten day whirl that awaits these two misses and the other fortunate forty-nine of the queen's court at A Century of Progress.

Things are going to start happening promptly when the galaxy of charming girls from every point of the compass checks in at their seven hotels on May 25, preliminary to the competition in which one of them will be crowned sovereign of the exposition. By boat, train, and automobile they will assemble in Chicago, and going places and seeing things will keep them fully occupied for all their waking moments, until they'll hardly have a minute to dust their pretty noses.

Seven Girls in Each Hotel.

Seven groups of seven girls have been assigned to that many hotels as their permanent quarters during their program, with one or two extra tucked in somewhere. The Palmer House, Drake, Congress, Allerton, Sherman, Chicago Beach, and Stevens hotels will house the court, together with seven chaperones.

From the time they step into Chicago, the girls from out of town and from abroad will be under the supervision of older, qualified women to whom they can look for directions or advice. It is meant to be both a protection and a courtesy to the competitors for the Queen's crown, that they be kept free from worry and bewilderment at any phase of metropolitan existence that might puzzle strange or inexperienced girls.

One glance at next Sunday's rotogravure section of THE TRIBUNE will reveal the photographs of the first group of ten to be selected as members of the court. Additional groups of ten will be printed weekly until May 28, when the spread will include the remaining twenty-one pictures. It is at once apparent that the great majority will be from outside Chicago. Two will come from Europe, two from San Francisco, two from Boston. Kansas City, Mo., will send two.

Rich or Poor, They Love Fun.

Wherever they come from, wherever they grew up, gayety is the breath of life to the type of girl represented. Some have been reared in luxury, given every advantage wealth and their family position could suggest. Some have known what it was to struggle for an education and to pay their own way at an early age. But none of them will have to be taught how to play.

Attired identically in frocks of white organdy, the entire fifty-one will promenade in the Bal Tabarin at the Hotel Sherman on May 26, where the eight judges will meet them in person and award the palm of feminine charm, the crown of Queen, and the check for $5,000 to the winner of the contest. The runner-up will receive $3,000 and the semi-finalist $2,000, and the positions of maids of honor to the Queen.

PENNSY ROAD TO EXHIBIT ENGINE CAB AT THE FAIR

A full size steel cab from one of the Pennsylvania railroad's locomotives will be the main exhibit by that railroad in the Travel and Transport building at A Century of Progress. The cab will contain all the usual equipment and its signals will be synchronized with roadside signals in continuous operation in the exhibit space.

PICTURE 402 FEET LONG ARRIVES FOR WORLD'S FAIR

The largest picture ever painted and packed will be unloaded in the Baltimore and Ohio freight yards at Lumber and 13th streets this morning for transportation to the World's Fair grounds. It is "The Pantheon," famous French war painting, which will occupy a specially constructed building at the exposition.

LEGION WILL DISPENSE FIRST OF LEGAL BEER SOLD WITHIN MICHIGAN

Lansing, Mich., May 4.—[Special.]—Sale of 3.2 beer and wine in Michigan will start at 6 o'clock on the evening of Thursday, May 11. That was announced here today by Frank A. Picard, chairman of the state liquor control commission.

The only exception, Picard said, will be the Wayne county council [Detroit] of the American Legion's permit to start sales 24 hours earlier in the interest of charity, under the law's "picnic sales" clause, with a fee of $2.

Delaware's First Beer.

Wilmington, Del., May 4.—(AP)—Beer trucks rolled into Wilmington today, bringing the first 3.2 brew to be sold legally in Delaware since prohibition.

The beer bill, signed late yesterday by Gov. Buck, became effective today. Manufacture and sale is restricted to Wilmington, because the rest of the state is dry under local action taken before national prohibition was enacted. Under the new law, however, beer can be shipped into dry territory for private consumption.

INDIANA LAW HIT AGAIN.

Indiana's beer law was declared unconstitutional in a ruling yesterday by Judge Virgil S. Reiter of the Superior court at Hammond. It was the second such ruling by an Indiana court in a week. Deputy Attorney General Herbert Patrick said the decision will be appealed, and the opinion of the state Supreme court obtained as soon as possible.

The case before Judge Reiter was the petition of Abe Rosen, a Gary dealer, who had been denied a wholesale beer dealer's license by Paul Fry, state excise director in whose hands the control of all beer sales was placed by the law. An injunction was granted restraining Fry and all other state officials from interfering with Rosen in the sale of beer.

THOUSANDS VOTE TO PICK OFFICIAL FLOWER OF FAIR

Flowers became the topic of office and neighborhood conversations yesterday while thousands of persons were making up their minds and casting their votes to help select the official flower of A Century of Progress exposition.

Ballots came pouring into THE TRIBUNE, expressing preference for one or another of nearly two dozen flowers entered in the contest which THE TRIBUNE is sponsoring. Several loop offices were the scene of group caucuses to determine the merits of flowers which would lend themselves to use on the tables where distinguished guests of the World's Fair are to be entertained this summer.

The contest to select the official flower of the fair closes May 20. Any one may vote on any one of six suggested flowers or any other which is suited to growing in the garden areas of the fair throughout the summer. All ballots should be mailed to the Garden Department, CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

HIRAM BINGHAM POLICY ON AVIATION BECOMES DEBATE'S ISSUE TODAY

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—Long smoldering resentment over conduct of the National Aeronautic association, under the presidency of Hiram Bingham, former senator from Connecticut, is expected to come to a head here tomorrow at a meeting of the organization's contest committee.

That may result in wholesale resignations by committeemen not in sympathy with Bingham's policies, which they call dictatorial.

The outcome hinges on a virtual ultimatum from the committee that activities of the N. A. A., henceforth be limited to its original function of sanctioning approved air meets, issuing annual sporting licenses qualifying American pilots to compete under Federation Aeronautique Internationale rules, witnessing and certifying record flights under these regulations. Abandonment of the Aeronautic Review, official N. A. A. magazine, will be demanded.

Both the executive and contest committees of the N. A. A. voted a year ago to discontinue The Review as a costly and unwarranted project, John S. Reaves, head of the Amateur Air Pilots' association, said today, but their action was ignored by Bingham.

Precipitation of the expected row has been hastened by pilot-member reaction to a recent form letter sent out by Bingham threatening to suspend all N. A. A.-F. A. I. license holders for one to three years if they take part in "unsanctioned" air meets. This move, it is believed, was directed primarily at the Chicago Air Race corporation and its "American air races" unsanctioned by the N. A. A., from July 1 to 4, in conjunction with the World's Fair. The dates for this meet conflict with those of the "National air races" in Los Angeles, a meet sanctioned by the N. A. A.

PLAN BIG FETE FOR GEN. GORECKI; FIDAC PRESIDENT

Gen. Roman Gorecki, Polish banker and president of Fidac, international organization of war veterans, will arrive in Chicago this evening. He will be entertained as a guest of the American Legion.

Coöperating in the welcome will be Titus Zbyszewski, Polish consul general; a civic committee of which City Controller M. S. Szymezak and County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki are members, and presidents of various Polish-American organizations.

Arriving at 8:30 p. m., daylight time, at the Union station, Gen. Gorecki will be escorted to the Palmer house. Tomorrow he will visit Mayor Kelly at the city hall, and after a luncheon by the Legion at the Palmer house, will visit the Century of Progress grounds. In the evening the general will be a guest of Charles S. Dewey at dinner.

OPEN NEW AIR LINE, CHICAGO TO NEW YORK CITY

Tribune Reporter Tells of Trip on De Luxe Plane.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 4.—[Special.]—On scheduled time, the new twin motored Curtiss Condor high speed transport plane which left the Chicago airport at 1:10 o'clock Chicago daylight saving time this afternoon to inaugurate the new American Airways service between Chicago and New York, landed at 7:59 p. m. eastern standard time at the Newark, N. J., airport. The elapsed time was 5 hours 49 minutes, the flying time 5 hours 25 minutes.

The sun was setting in a cloudless sky as the blue and red transport ship came within view of the New York skyline and then made a perfect landing and taxied to the airport to unload its 15 passengers, one stewardess, two pilots, and 200 pounds of express.

Meanwhile a westward ship left New York at 2 p. m. for Chicago, and what is at present the fastest scheduled air service between the two cities was begun, adding to Chicago's economic importance as an air transportation center.

"Scenic Valley Route."

Two stops were made, at Detroit and at Buffalo. Due to a 20 mile head wind the ship was six minutes late when it arrived at Detroit at 3:06 p. m. It took off at Buffalo 20 minutes late, making up the time on the last lap.

The American Airways has designated it as the "scenic valley route." Almost throughout the route is close to water. Hugging the shoreline of Lake Michigan until Michigan City is reached, the beautiful dunes country is spread out to view. From that point it takes an inland course, where the neatly checkered farm land, however, is interspersed with numerous lakes, the St. Joseph river, and other small rivers.

Crosses Over Into Canada.

From Detroit to Buffalo the plane stayed within sight of water all the way. From a height of 4,000 feet it rose to 9,500 feet, successfully maintaining a smooth course despite head winds. Over the Detroit river and skirting Lake Erie, she continued on into Canadian territory.

From Buffalo on the route led on the east side of the historic Susquehanna river, whose course is so tortuous that in early days before the Erie canal was built and before railroads had come into being it used to cost $200 a ton to take freight from New York to Buffalo on the river.

With the comfortable knowledge that there was plenty of valley land available if the plane was forced to sit down along the journey, the passengers betrayed lively interest in the mountain ranges on either side. They strolled down the aisle of the plane much as if they were on a Pullman car, peering out one window and another and chatting amiably with fellow passengers.

View Blue Ridge Mountains.

A bridge game was broken up as the players rushed from one side of the plane to the other to view, first, the Finger lakes, where Glen Curtiss made his first flying attempts.

They then had a look at "the heart of the New York vineyard region," after which the north end of the Appalachian mountains come into view on the south, the ranges throwing long shadows in the late afternoon sunlight.

The Catskills on the left, the Pocono mountains on the right, then the Delaware water gap, and later, far to the right, the Blue Ridge mountains, were seen as the plane soared high overhead at a cruising speed of 140 miles an hour.

"This is the seventh state for us, New Jersey," one passenger remarked as the Delaware gap was passed and tea was served, "besides Canada, which the dominion government gave us a permit to go through."

"This is different from the old planes, when if you stood up in the aisle the pilot gave you a dirty look and began winding up his stabilizer to fix the trim of his ship," another passenger said, as every passenger went to the left rear of the plane to watch the sunset over the Catskills.

400 Guides to Conduct Fair Tours

World's Fair officials announced yesterday that guides speaking English, French, German, Italian, and other languages and several proficient in the sign language will be furnished by the official Century of Progress tour service for the exposition. When the fair opens 300 smartly uniformed young men, all college students, and 100 young women, school teachers, will conduct visitors on tours. Classes are being held daily on the exposition grounds to instruct the guide-lecturers.

The famous chapel car St. Paul, known as the "Iron Apostle" of the American missions of the Catholic church, will be one of the exhibits depicting progress in culture and religious work at the fair. The car has been carried over railroads to out-of-way places where permanent church edifices do not exist. It is well known in lumber camps, construction camps, and prairie and mountain communities. The car was dedicated by the late Cardinal Gibbons on March 14, 1915.

The naval section of the exhibit on applied mathematics arived yesterday. The display will include a time exhibit from the naval observatory; radio exhibit from the bureau of engineering; optical instruments, including range finders and periscopes, from the bureau of ordnance, and gyroscopic compasses and repeaters from the bureau of navigation.

Downstate communities are busily preparing for visitors who will pass there on the way to the fair, according to reports received yesterday by the Illinois Chamber of Commerce. World's Fair committees have established contacts with more than 100 chambers of commerce surrounding Chicago to dispense advertising and information regarding the event. J. T. Meek, secretary of the tourist division of the Illinois chamber, declared that several cities near Chicago are going on daylight savings time to coöperate better with the exposition.

PETITION URGES FREE LANCE ART EXHIBIT AT FAIR

A petition demanding a free lance art fair at A Century of Progress was signed last night by 150 Chicago artists, in a protest meeting at 830 North Michigan avenue. The petition will be sent to Robert B. Harshe, director of the Art institute, and Chauncey McCormick, chairman of the institute's art committee, who the artists claim are blocking the sale of their canvases on the exposition grounds.

Paul Von Klieben, who presided, declared that "after everything had been arranged to allow 4,000 artists in Chicago to sell pictures and buy some bread and butter the Art institute had objected." He explained that the institute has a contract with the fair to hold the only official World's Fair art exhibit.

"If necessary, when President Roosevelt comes to open the exposition," said Von Klieben, "we will petition him to give the forgotten artist a square deal."

A 2-CAR RELIEF 'CLIENT' SHOCKS HIS NEIGHBORS

They Doubt That He Is Really Destitute.

A new "client" of the emergency relief commission, now spending some $6,000,000 monthly in Chicago, is John W. Magee, 34 years old, 5510 Harper avenue. Mr. Magee heard about the relief commission recently and being an alert and energetic fellow, he went over to the relief station at 505 East 50th place and got a grocery order for $6.48 and was promised more in two weeks.

That was on April 28. Mr. Magee's neighbors heard about it a couple of days later and expressed wonderment. They knew that Mr. Magee occupies a modern apartment in the Hyde Park Manor hotel at the Harper avenue address. They knew he has a roadster and a police dog and another automobile which he uses in his automobile repairing business.

Not Really Destitute.

The talk also was that Mrs. Magee's stepfather, who lives with them, is the owner of an apartment house at 5700 Kimbark avenue, conservatively valued at $200,000. All in all, Mr. Magee's neighbors told each other, Mr. Magee was not really destitute. He could afford to buy his own groceries.

A reporter was sent to investigate. He found Mr. and Mrs. Magee at home.

"My stepfather, U. R. Emerick, pays the $75 monthly rent on this apartment," Mrs. Magee admitted. "Yes, he inherited the building at 5700 Kimbark avenue from his mother and manages the building."

"I'm a free lance auto mechanic," said Mr. Magee. "I charge less than other mechanics and thereby get more jobs. The relief commission asked me to turn in my automobile but I need it in my business. Anyway, they said we could have relief until they decided about it.

His Latest Notice.

"Here's my latest notice," said Mr. Magee proudly. "It notifies me to call for my next grocery order May 16.

Claude Morgan, 42 years old, 6324 South Francisco avenue, was another "client" of the relief commission who attained some publicity yesterday. He appeared before Judge Thomas A. Green in the Traffic court charged with driving while intoxicated. He was given a fine of $200 and costs to work out at the House of Correction.

"I've been getting relief and tomorrow I was to get a job as a speciel relief worker at $3.85 a day," Morgan protested.

"You can have a job of working out the $200 fine at the rate of $1.50 a day," responded the judge.

FRANCIS X. BUSCH, EX-CORPORATION COUNSEL, IS WED

Attorney Francis X. Busch, former corporation counsel, was married last Friday in Birmingham, Ala., to Mrs. Jean Mapes Lucas of that city, it was learned yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. Busch are spending their honeymoon in Bermuda and will return to Chicago May 25.

Mr. Busch met Mrs. Lucas while visiting in Birmingham. He was corporation counsel during the Dever régime and again accepted a temporary appointment to that post under the late Mayor Cermak. He is a member of the law firm of Taylor, Miller, Busch & Boyden.

FIND CRUSADER FOR CASH RELIEF CARRYING $1,080

Idle Picket Has $3,500 More in Bank.

John Mortinchich, 49 years old, 441 South Halsted street, a member of the Unemployed council, who was arrested yesterday by the Des Plaines street police for picketing a relief station at 758 Harrison street, was booked last night on a disorderly conduct charge after he had blocked a move to have him deported by proving his citizenship.

When he was searched at the Des Plaines street station, he was found to be carrying $1,080 in bills and two bank books showing a balance of $3,500 in two banks in Denver, Colo. The bills and the bank books were pinned to his underwear.

Banner Demands "Cash Relief."

Mortinchich, who was poorly dressed, told police he obtained the money by working in mines in Colorado, where in good times he earned as high as $20 a day. He had been carrying a white banner on which was printed in red: "Down with 25 cent forced labor! Down with flop houses! We demand $5 per week cash relief."

The bank books disclosed that Mortinchich had drawn another $3,500 from the Denver banks before coming here early in January. He said he had been out of work for three years.

Says He Gave Away $3,500.

Mortinchich said that he had distributed the difference between the $3,500 withdrawals and the money he was carrying in 5 and 10 cent donations to panhandlers in Chicago. At this rate he had been giving away $20 a day, the police pointed out, but Mortinchich merely nodded affirmatively at these figures. He later said he used the money to repay a life insurance loan.

"Some fellows were carrying banners and asked me to carry one," Mortinchich said, "so I've been carrying this one for several days."

The Des Plaines street police said that they would hold Mortinchich while they communicate with Denver authorities to learn if he is wanted there. He made no secret of his anxiety to avoid deportation to his native Austria and was quick to produce his naturalization papers when questioned by immigration officials.

Vie for Honors

Sixty-nine young men between the ages of 17 and 22 were examined yesterday by army and navy officers in the federal building in competitive tests for admission to the United States Military academy at West Point. The boy ranking highest in the examination will be selected by Congressman James Simpson Jr. [Rep., 10th] for the academy and the two ranking second and third will be alternates. It has previously been customary for congressmen to choose political favorites arbitrarily for such appointments. The examining board is headed by Brig. Gen. Frank R. Schwengel.

Rochester, Ind., May 4.—[Special.]—Charles, 6 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Omar Miller, was badly cut and scratched when he was attacked by a large horned owl in a woods on his father's farm. Mr. and Mrs. Miller had taken their children into the woods to hunt mushrooms.

AURORA HEIR TO $500,000 IS NAMED IN GOSSIP SUIT

A suit for $25,000 damages was filed yesterday in Kane county by Mrs. Wilson Groshans, president of the Aurora Anti-Cruelty society, against Daniel Volintine, his wife, Mildred, Mrs. Amos Wessner, and George Predeaux, all residents of Aurora. Volintine in 1919 inherited $500,000 from the estate of his grandfather.

Mrs. Groshans averred in her petition that the defendants had gossiped about her in such a manner as to reflect upon her character. They had asked the question: "What became of her first husband?" in a manner that was a reflection, she charged.

Volintine described the suit as "bunk."

"I never mentioned her and I don't think any of the others did," he said. "Nothing has been done by us to injure Mrs. Groshans."

Canada to Unite East and West with Low Rail Rates

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., May 4.—Efforts to bring east and west together have been launched by Canadian railway officials. They expect one of the greatest rail travel movements in the history of the country to result. The railways will establish this month a rate of one cent a mile for coach travel between points in eastern and western Canada and return.

HUNGRY PUPILS' FUND INCREASED BY $35.50 GIFTS

A rally of contributions to the Hungry School Children's fund yesterday sent the fund above the $24,000 mark with $27 to spare.

Leading the list was a $25 gift from Mrs. George Frazer. Tau Beta Iota sorority sent $1, and Lauretta Bosch, who has contributed regularly all winter, sent $3. The day's total of $35.50 was sufficient to provide a free noonday lunch in the public schools to more than 1,300 hungry pupils.

If contributors continue their generosity the fund should reach the $25,000 mark before dismissal of school for the summer. It is necessary that funds keep coming so 10,000 being fed in 100 public schools will continue to receive their daily lunch.

Yesterday's gifts:

$25—Mrs. George Frazer.
$5—F. I. Furber.
$3—Lauretta Bosch.
$1—Tau Beta Iota sorority.
50 cents—S. R.

Total	$ 35.50
Previously acknowledged	23,991.68
Grand total	$24,027.18

U. S. GIRL JOINS GANDHI'S CAMP; NEW DISCIPLE

AHMEDABAD, India, May 4.—(AP)—Nila Nagini Devi, or "the Blue Serpent Goddess," which is the Hindu name assumed by the American girl disciple of Mahatma Gandhi, Nila Cram Cook, arrived at the Gandhi cantonment on the banks of the River Sabarmati today.

"I saw Gandhi in Yeravda jail two days ago," she said, "and made a clean confession to him of my past life. I now want to lead a new life in accordance with the teachings of Gandhi."

Miss Cook, dressed in white, carried her own baggage and will follow in the footsteps of the English girl, Madeleine Slade. She will live in a small hut, cook her own food, do her own washing and sweeping, while devoting the rest of her time to meditation and spinning.

CAR STALLS; FIND STOLEN FOWL.

Charles Ellis, 32 years old, colored, 4749 Federal street, was arrested yesterday pushing his stalled automobile, loaded with three crates of chickens, at 28th street and Indiana avenue. He confessed he had stolen them.

GARDEN PLOTS BUT NO GARDENERS.

Of the 170,000 families on the relief rolls in Cook county only 1,000 had made applications for garden plots up to a few days ago, though the offer had been a standing one for some time. The unwillingness of those out of work to take advantage of the opportunity to contribute to their own support and to reduce their dependence upon public charity is an eye opener.

Many of the families supported by charity live so far from the garden plots that they cannot easily take advantage of them. Perhaps some others are afraid that their allowance will be reduced if they grow their own vegetables. Still others may think that it is unjust to require one "client" to tend a garden and not to require it of all. But when all this has been said the fact remains that in many of the suburban communities close to the garden plots it is still found impossible to induce a considerable number of the recipients of charity to take any steps toward self-support and self-respect. The fact seems to evidence a determination on the part of many of the recipients of the dole to make the rest of the community support them, and it seems to indicate also the complacent acceptance of this doctrine by those in charge of the distribution of the relief funds.

The revelation is shocking, not only because it indicates a degradation of morale but also because it discloses the callous indifference of the recipients of charity and those who distribute it to the sacrifices of those who are footing the bills. The source of the relief funds is taxation. In Illinois the money from now on is going to come pretty largely from the sales tax. The sales tax was adopted in this state because every other source had been exhausted.

The sales tax is paid by every one. It has imposed genuine privations upon those uncomplaining, self-respecting men and women who in Illinois and everywhere else are the salt of the earth. They have been frugal and industrious. They have paid their taxes. They have suffered heavy losses and many of them have had to undergo the most severe privations, self-imposed, in order to maintain their independence. They would rather go hungry than surrender their self-respect; yet they are called upon to contribute from their dwindling resources to feed those who will make no effort to support themselves.

As matters stand, this community is punishing the industrious for the sake of the indolent; it is depriving the frugal of their savings to put money in the pockets of those who made no provision for the future; it is even discriminating against the law-abiding and rewarding the trouble makers.

Every one agrees that there is great need for relief in Cook county, that thousands of families are in distress through no fault of their own, and that funds must be provided to help the unfortunate. It does not follow that relief should be given in a manner to encourage indolence or that the money available for relief can for a moment be regarded as an inexhaustible supply.

THE MEDAL OF HONOR.

The award of the congressional medal of honor to Richmond Hobson was in recognition of his attempt to sink the collier Merrimac in the entrance to Santiago harbor during the war with Spain. The Spanish fleet was inside and the American fleet was outside, ready to pounce upon the Spaniards if they came out. Meanwhile the army under Shafter was investing the city. If the channel had been successfully blocked the capture of the city would have forced the capitulation of the fleet without the firing of a gun.

The operation unquestionably called for great courage, for it had to be performed under the fire of the Spanish batteries guarding the narrows. The bombardment was intense and, either because of damage to the ship or the confusion of the moment, the plan failed. The Merrimac was sunk, but not at the appointed place. Hobson and his crew clung to a raft. They were captured by the Spaniards, who imprisoned them for a few weeks until, at the fall of Santiago, the party was released. The Spanish fleet was not bottled up, it did clear the harbor and was destroyed by the gunfire of our fleet.

Hobson was the hero of the hour and was lionized up and down the country. Nevertheless, his exploit was not rewarded at the time with the congressional medal. The instinct which withheld the highest honor from him may be regarded as a sound one. The medal of honor should be the reward of extraordinary courage and it should be given for exploits not strictly required in the line of duty. But it should mean something more. It should not be given unless the hero is one who is determined to succeed or die in the attempt. Hobson, on the record, was not that brave.

The medal should be reserved, now as in the past, for those brightest deeds in the galaxy of heroism. If any doubts arise, if the exploit in any detail falls short of the loftiest standard of conduct, the award should be withheld. It should be kept as the symbol of flawless and imperishable valor in the military services.

THE PRESIDENT AT THE SECOND STAGE.

President Roosevelt, immediately on taking the oath of office, tackled the hardest job in the world. Few American Presidents have been faced with a harder one as they opened the door of the White House. Hard times and political folly, the tax collector and the bureaucratic spendthrift, had done their worst. The country had bumped successively from one low level to a lower one.

Deficits had increased. Revenue had decreased. Government was spending money it could not find. Its unbalanced budget, with outgo going up and income going down, was impairing its credit. Public confidence in everything, public and private, was breaking. Blow followed blow and the country was groggy. It was Mr. Roosevelt's immediate and imperative task to stop the runaway down the mountain road.

His courage and serenity were equal to the need. He succeeded in transfusing something of these qualities into the citizenship. He made congress willing to do things. The things first proposed were good and the effect when they had been done was good.

Now President Roosevelt has reached a secondary stage in the program his advisers have laid before him and here he reaches fog and ice. He has acted to bring normal costs of government within normal revenue. That has been a tonic to a sick and weak tax paying citizenship. The abnormal costs, the hard times costs, are involved in the secondary program and they revive the dangers.

Unwise projects, abnormal expenditures extravagantly planned and prodigally made, new and excessive taxation seeking for new revenue where resources have been spent, will nullify Mr. Roosevelt's achievements in the other direction. Government cannot pay out with a wasteful hand and save anything with the other no matter how restrained the other is. The wasteful hand will rule and ruin the public treasury.

There will be less revenue and more deficits and weakened instead of strengthened credit. Private enterprise will be broken down and not stimulated. The President has authority to issue greenbacks. The advisers who tell him to use them for his public works are saner than the advisers who tell him to send the tax collectors once more and yet again into the breach. The breach will soon be the whole of the country's works. Recovery does not lie that way. It's the road to dissolution.

FIRE THEM ALL.

Although Prohibition Administrator A. V. Dalrymple concedes that there may be some reduction in the expense and extent of prohibition enforcement, he concedes nothing that is satisfactory to the opponents of the whole Volstead system. The appropriations for the dry law enforcement have never been used properly. The activities which they maintained have always been scandalous: The great and lawless contraband industry which owed its existence and profits to the 18th amendment never suffered any serious check from what the prohibition unit did.

For reasons which in many cases were as apparent as they were discreditable, the federal agent so seldom interfered with a big shot or his gang that it can be said with little exaggeration that he never did. Al Capone is in the penitentiary not because he was a wholesale distributor of liquor, not because of gang murders, and not because the prohibition agents brought him into court. He is in the penitentiary because he did not pay the government its percentage of his profits in the trade which the government did not stop.

Many federal judges have viewed with disgust the cases brought before them by federal agents who had found a night watchman at a still, who had manhandled some obscure home brewer, or who had dragged in the owner of premises used by the bootleggers. Judge after judge has expressed his contempt for such law enforcement.

Why continue to spend millions of dollars for such activities now in the enforcement of politically repudiated bigotry?

Editorial of the Day

A LOWER LIVING STANDARD.

[Sioux City Journal.]

A feature of the pending 30 hour week legislation which has been pointed out as objectionable by persons who doubt its efficacy in solving problems of industrial unemployment has to do with a lowered wage scale and a reduced standard of living. The suggestion frequently is heard that the American people developed a living standard far too high and that they will have to adjust themselves to a lower one in the future.

Naturally, if a shorter week meant a greatly reduced wage scale as a permanent arrangement and the cost of living was not brought down in the proper ratio, a lowered standard of living would be the result. That would come because of necessity rather than because of desire on the part of the people. It is simple enough. If one's income is greatly reduced on a permanent basis one is forced to adjust oneself to a lower standard of living.

There were two factors in the building up of the high standard of living in this country. One was the high pressure salesmanship of industry, the other was the willingness of the people to accept comforts and luxuries made available to them. The profits to each element were about the same, although that to industry was financial while the people took theirs out in enjoyment. They liked the new high standard of living.

If the standard of living must be reduced both industry and the people are bound to suffer therefrom. Industry will suffer a loss in volume sales and profits; the people will have to deny themselves the comforts and luxuries to which they have become accustomed. Neither element of the national life will desire the development of that condition. America cannot again enjoy a wave of great industrial activity and prosperity if the income of consumers is greatly reduced. Buying power must be kept strong if the masses consume goods and service in quantities sufficient to make industry profitable.

We can as a people go back to a lower standard of living, but none of us would like it if we did, industrialists least of all. We can wear out our motor cars and go back to walking. We can get on without radios. We can live without furnace heat. We can dispense with gas and electric lights. If we have to do it we can wear homespun again and we can do many things as our ancestors did them. And we also could drop as a world power in trade and moral and political influence to a place where every last one of us would be miserable.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

SENATOR SMITH assures us that inflation will give us more money and we don't doubt that it will. However, we have been counting the one buck and sixty-seven cents that we had in our pocket when congress passed the bill every hour since then and up to the time of going to press last night the count was still one buck and sixty-seven cents.

AND NOW THE U. S. owns Muscle Shoals, which will manufacture cheap fertilizers for the farmers, turn out the nitrates so essential in time of war and give electricity to the little cabins away down in the Tennessee mountains. But, on the other hand, if the farmer puts more fertilizer on his land he will raise bigger crops and we're commanding him to cut down the size of his crops. Also nitrates are very necessary in time of war, but we haven't got any war and we're not hankering for one. And down in the Tennessee mountains try and make 'em burn electricity instead of tallow candles. They know their tallow candles; they like 'em better because they can blow the tallow candles out and they just have the gosh awfullest time trying to blow out electric bulbs that ever was.

REALIZATION.

I wished a wish for a year and a day
  By all of the magic I knew.
But I found at last,—though I'd weep and pray,
  It would never come true.
And so when the year and the day was through,
  I wiped my tears away.
And I said to my heart, "This will never do.
  Forget your wish and be gay.
There are other wishes that can enthrall,
  There are dreams to dream, if we try.
We will dance, oh heart! where the shadows fall.
  We will sing when we long to sigh."
So we danced and sang, as the days flew by,
  And when we had ceased to call,
Our wish came true! But my heart and I—
  We didn't care at all!

MARJORIE F. W.

"WHOLE MOUNTAIN in Colorado Suddenly Moves 400 Feet."—Headline. Gosh! Who moved that whole mountain? There's only one answer; certainly, Franklin Delano.

AND C. B. GUESSES that the delectable place we talked about Thursday morning in the Line was Pine State park out near Oregon, Ill. Pine State park is lovely, but how many cabins has it got? Our delectable place has twenty cabins. And is there an old badger, Napoleon Bonaparte, who comes out and barks at you at Pine State park? There is not. And is there a black crow known as the Emperor Jones who comes down and perches in a tree just outside your cabin door at Pine State park and gives you the raspberry in a loud and raucous voice because he thinks that as a cook you're a first class blacksmith? No, there is not. And are there open glades in Pine State park where right now the green grass, and such a green, is so studded with all sorts of wild flowers that it looks like a very rare piece of Brussels carpeting? No! Then Pine State park is not the delectable place.

SPRING NOTE.

Why must I sing of this and that,
A broken heart or an Agnes hat,
A piece of music that's insolent,
A lady upon destruction bent,
A book of verse that is bitter sweet,
Twilight in a city street,
A crystal bowl or a yellow rose,
A lot of unimportant beaux?
Everything sentimental and pretty
Or hardboiled and smart goes to fashion a ditty;
I, who would liefer and merrier be
Sweeping your hearth and brewing your tea,
Hanging upon your political views,
Learning to love even baseball news,
Budgeting cheerfully, pinching each penny,
Staying home evenings and not caring any,
Listening, perhaps, for a baby's cries,
Helpless and sweet, with your own dear eyes.
But I must pretend to go properly masked,
Waiting until I've been properly asked.
Drat wage cuts, high rentals, this whole doggone depression!
. . . Still a girl like me needs some self-expression.

DAVIDA.

A MAN TRYING to commit suicide hurled himself among the bears in the Milwaukee zoo. The bears walked around him, sniffed a few times and then went over to the limits of their inclosure and begged for peanuts. It ought to take a lot of conceit out of us humans to discover that when one of us offers himself as a feast to hungry bears they would rather have peanuts. Maybe we humans aren't so much after all.

AND THIS MORNING when we wake up and turn to the front page to see what we've got now we find we have a railroad coördinator. One of the things the railroad coördinator ought to do is to ride around on the trains so they won't look so darned lonesome.

BUT AFTER we have extended inflation throughout the entire column as well as the last line we can see where it will be a great help because we will only need to write a half column and inflate it to full column length. So we may indeed say happy days are here at last. R. H. L.

DENTAL WORK AND ELECTRIC BATTERIES.

MANY write this column asking the reason for metallic tastes, sore tongue, and excess salivation, and they have no satisfactory explanation. Some of the tongue and mouth troubles are due to pernicious anemia and pellagra, some of the bad tastes are due to reverse peristalsis and sleeping with the mouth open, and some of the ulcers are due to eating badly balanced diets. These facts have been told many times, and some have found in one or another explanation of their difficulties. But many who have come asking for bread have gone away with stones.

Dr. E. S. Lain of Oklahoma has answer for many thousands who are in the group who have these various disagreeable mouth symptoms. He first wrote his observations and opinions a few years ago. What he thought has been confirmed by several men in Europe and America. He now repeats his former statements, supporting them by much scientific work and observation of several hundred cases, and quoting others who are of his opinion.

His explanation is metallic plates, crowns, bridges, and fillings. When the mouth contains metallic appliances, including fillings, and more than one kind of metal is used, galvanic action goes on between the metals. One piece of dental work containing certain metals acts as the positive pole of the battery and another piece containing other metals the negative one.

Between the two there is a steady flow of electricity of low grade. This may act on the tissues of the mouth directly. It breaks up the metals of the dental work and carries them through the tissues of the mouth from one pole to another. In this way the tissues of the mouth are indirectly injured. The products of this electric action may be absorbed and cause organic disorders in other parts of the body, Dr. Lain thinks, but he has not much proof on that point.

In at least four-fifths of his patients with trouble due to this cause complaint is made of excess flow of saliva. Peculiar sensations in the throat and dryness of the throat are also listed among the effects. It causes erosions of the teeth, though it may not be the only cause or even the most frequent one. There may be pigmentation of the gums and the lining membranes of the cheeks as a result of this ionic action. Ulcers, patches, including leucoplakia patches, and zones of inflammations are among the more serious effects.

RED VEINS IN FACE.

H. C. H. writes: What causes small broken red veins in the face? Sometimes they are of a purplish color. I have had this since I was 35 years old and am now 40 and they are increasing in number. I am of temperate habits and seldom take alcoholic beverages. Is there a cure?

REPLY.

One of the best known causes is prolonged use of alcoholic beverages. Chronic indigestion is another cause. Overeating, especially in cases where the food is highly seasoned, is given a prominent place among the causes. Exposure to weather also belongs in the group. The small but fairly enlarged blood vessels seen in this condition are of the type to which varicose veins belong, but a different kind of blood vessel is involved. It appears on the legs and some other parts of the body as well as on the face.

HABIT FORMING.

H. R. writes: Is taking an enema every night before retiring harmful in any way? I am overweight and this was suggested to me as a good way to reduce.

REPLY.

It will cause you to develop the constipation habit and to depend on enemas. Otherwise it will do you no harm. But it will not cause you to lose weight.

REFUSE COLLECTION.

Chicago, May 1.—[Friend of the People.]—I wish to complain about the dumping of refuse directly into alleys. The alleys, I believe, are cleaned once a month and remain so for two days and then become as filthy as ever. This condition is very deplorable in the stockyards neighborhood, although my interest lies particularly in alleys bounded by Paulina, 48th, and 47th streets and Hermitage avenue. Very few people have receptacles for refuse and simply dump it into the alleys. The wind blows this dirt into open windows and it is carried into our homes on our shoes when it is necessary to go into the alley to park our autos. H. D.

Service is given in this district regularly, but not as frequently as is desirable, due to the fact that our forces are working on a four day week basis. We are further handicapped because of the careless habits of many in the district in littering the alleys. A survey has been made, and, where necessary, notices served to provide regulation containers for the accommodation of refuse output and to stop further dumping. Location will be kept under observation.

CONTRACT PROVISIONS.

Chicago, April 30.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A and B entered into a contract in which A sold to B ten shares of common stock of a corporation for a consideration of $896. The contract requires B to pay $150 upon delivery of the stock, $50 every thirty days thereafter for a period of five months, and $67 every thirty days thereafter for a period of seven months. B paid the $150 and A assigned the stock to B. 1. The assignment was entered in the books of the corporation. 2. If B refuses to make the first monthly payment of $50, can A recover the stock? 3. If A cannot recover the stock, what action can he take against B? 4. Do the answers to questions 1 and 2 apply if B makes all monthly payments except the last one? K. S.

1. This would be an unusual transaction. We assume that you mean that the transfer was entered on the books—in other words, that a new certificate was issued to B.

2. Unless A expressly retains some ownership right he would have to rely upon securing a judgment and levying upon the stock.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

40 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 5, 1893.

CHICAGO.—There is good news for the public which had almost made up its mind to carry its lunch to the World's Fair or submit to the rapacity of the restaurant keepers. The publication of the extortionate prices charged by the restaurants has opened the eyes of the powers that be to the necessity of prompt and vigorous action. The gentlemen of the council of administration made a tour of the restaurants yesterday and as a result remarked: "The restaurants must reduce their prices or we will shut them up."

A stone from the battlements of Blarney castle will be added to the other attractions at the Irish industrial village, conducted under the patronage of the countess of Aberdeen. A letter has been received from Sir George Colehurst, owner of Blarney castle, who has allowed a stone to be taken from a point near the original Blarney stone to be shipped to America.

The Dahomans, rested after their long journey, basked around in the sun yesterday. They are contented and the sick are improving. The Amazons, who are anything but attractive, were about the camps smoking their pipes. They are given their own way because if they don't get it there is bound to be a fight. The men are afraid of these female warriors. The Dahoman village will be ready next week, and the Amazons and Bushmen will wage a mimic war against the French as their main exhibit.

MAY 5, 1917.

CHICAGO.—Chicago's first day of welcome to Field Marshal Joffre, former Premier Viviani, and their entourage of the French commission culminated last night in the Auditorium theater in a remarkable meeting. The hero of the Marne, the man who as supreme commander in 1914 coolly threw division after division of his fighting forces into the jaws of death, but saved France, broke down and wept at the reception accorded him—an ovation that from the French section of the audience was not short of reverence. Joffre had not intended to speak at all, but the insistence of the audience left no choice. Viviani delivered the message of France in his native tongue in a stirring oration that brought forth volley upon volley of deafening applause.

PETROGRAD.—The provisional government of Russia passed another crisis with victory. Following two days and nights of disorders in Petrograd, the Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' delegates accepted the government's explanation of its May day note to the allies, and by a vote of 34 to 19 declared the incident closed. The anti-government demonstration on the streets was completely swamped by the pro-government demonstration. There were some clashes in which shots were fired, and an officer and one girl were reported killed. The government forces are in full control of the streets.

SAN DIEGO, CAL.—The first aerial mail routes within the continental limits of the United States will be established between San Diego and San Francisco, and then extended until the system reaches nearly every important city in the country, according to an announcement made here by an aviation officer of the United States flying corps.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The war program of President Wilson and his cabinet makes the President dictator not only of the army and navy but also gives autocratic control of all commodities and even of industrial activities of the whole people. The full strength of the first war army will be 18,000 officers and 528,000 enlisted men, supported by sixteen regiments of heavy field artillery. The house adopted a milder press censorship clause in the espionage bill.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

QUOTATION FROM T. R.

Beardstown, Ill., May 2.—In THE TRIBUNE of May 1 Mr. Arthur Sears Henning published an article headlined: "Fear Congress Is Abdicating to a Dictator." The leading editorial in the same issue is entitled: "Will a Free People Fight?" and deals with the same subject matter.

On pages 82 and 83 in the chapter called "Practical Politics," in the book, "Theodore Roosevelt — An Autobiography," Mr. Theodore Roosevelt wrote: "Accordingly we fought for the principle which I believe to be of universal application, that what is needed in our popular government is to give plenty of power to a few officials and to make these few officials genuinely and readily responsible to the people for the exercise of that power. The change was fought in the way in which all similar changes are fought. The corrupt and interested politicians were against it, and the battle cries they used, which rallied to them most of the unthinking conservatives, were that we were changing the old constitutional system, that we were defacing the monuments of the wisdom of the founders of the government, that we were destroying that distinction between legislative and executive power which is the bulwark of our liberties, and that we were violent and unscrupulous radicals with no reverence for the past."

The preceding was written in describing certain experiences of Mr. Theodore Roosevelt while an assemblyman at Albany, N. Y., in the early 1880's. It does not appear that the arguments against progress in government have changed in the last fifty years. It is the same old fight.

ALLAN D. MILLARD.

FORECLOSURES.

Chicago, April 28.—The writer, who is a lawyer, engaged in the handling of foreclosure suits exclusively for the last eighteen months, wishes to offer his congratulations to THE TRIBUNE and to Mr. Orr for the striking and pointed cartoons appearing on the first page of your paper on April 28, 1933. I believe this to be one of the most striking cartoons ever drawn and it very aptly and correctly shows the true situation of today rather than that situation which is attempted to be held forth by people swayed by sympathy, but unmindful of facts. HOWARD R. BRINTLINGER.

THE SITE OF ST. MARY'S.

Winnetka, Ill., April 30.—I was very much surprised to note in your item on St. Mary's Catholic church that you located it at Michigan avenue and Madison street. St. Mary's was on Wabash avenue and Madison and was burned out with the rest of the city in the fire of 1871 [October]. Then it bought the place where it is now, then known as Eldredge court, now 10th street.

E. W. MURRAY.

SUMMARY TO DATE.

Chicago, April 28.—President Roosevelt's record so far shows he closed the banks, opened the saloons, double-crossed the veterans, saved the Canadian farmer millions, sent to England and France for his advisers, and embalmed the minds of congress. E. L. ESTES.

THE POPULAR BREWS—AND WHY.

Chicago, May 1.—We hope brewers will not make the mistakes they made so often in the old days; that is, attempt to convince the public that their product is something that it is not. An article appeared recently in the Voice of the People giving reasons why beer is weak and was signed "An Old Time Brewer." He states that brewers are necessarily curtailing the amount of brewing materials in order to meet the limited 3.2 per cent alcohol required by law. Naturally by this process of dilution the new beer will contain not only less alcohol, but less extract or body giving substances than normal beer.

The 16 beers we analyzed recently showed 11 of them to have a very subnormal amount of body substances and also less alcohol than is actually permitted and it is an interesting fact that a recent survey discloses that the people are actually expressing their preferences for just the beers which the analytical report showed did have the highest body giving substances and with an alcohol content up to the legal standard.

It would be better, we believe, for the brewers in the long run to tell the public that the new beer is superior to the old because of the fact that it is actually nonintoxicating; or else they should brew with enough material and with those more advanced methods which will actually give their brews the same body and with the same alcohol as the milder beers of pre-prohibition days.

ARNOLD SPENCER WAHL.

WILL A FREE PEOPLE FIGHT!

Chicago, May 1.—This is my first letter to your office, though I have been a reader for years.

"Will a free people fight?"

"Yes." To keep America American. I know personally of hundreds with my feeling, "an alarm without bounds." We lack a leader.

Please carry on and give us the truth in its homely facts.

Fight?

Yes. Yes. Yes.

ROBIN A. McDANIELS.

IT CAN BE AND WILL BE.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 28.—With all the reports we hear of Chicago's World Fair to be opened soon and that the city employes have not been paid their salaries for some months there are doubts here as to whether the exposition can be held. Those here who would like to go feel they cannot make plans in view of disturbing newspaper stories, and I would appreciate your advice as to whether it really can be held.

M. BARTHOLDUS.

A SERIOUS SITUATION.

Joliet, Ill., May 1.—Realizing that a criticism of the prevailing dictatorial administration has been the unpopular thing, I want to express my appreciation to THE TRIBUNE for its excellent editorial, "Will a Free People Fight?" which appeared in this morning's TRIBUNE. Just how serious the situation is can be best evidenced by the disagreement of Carter Glass, senator from Virginia, who has failed to indorse a movement coming from a party that is "drunk with power." SOMETHING OUGHT TO BE DONE ABOUT THIS

SENATORS VOTE SALARY LIMIT ON R.F.C.BORROWERS

$17,500 Set as Top Pay for Corporations.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—The "new deal" manifested itself strikingly in congress today when the senate decreed that hereafter the Reconstruction Finance corporation shall neither make, renew, nor extend a loan to any corporation paying any officer, director, or employé a salary or more than $17,500.

Little more than a year ago, before the Democratic blood transfusion had taken place, a similar prohibition—but with the salary figure the generous one of $100,000—was defeated by the senate by a vote of 26 to 39.

Attached as a Rider.

Todays' decree was attached as a rider to a bill increasing the bond issuing power of the R. F. C. by 50 millions of dollars and authorizing it to purchase or make loans on the preferred stock of insurance companies. To the bill itself was attached a $17,500 salary proviso, and a requirement that insurance companies, in order to obtain loans, be prepared to put up new capital in the amount of the loan.

To members of congress receiving salaries of $10,000—now cut to $8,500—the fat salaries and mammoth bonuses paid to the officers of great corporations have frequently been targets for vigorous oratory and legislative assault. But efforts to reach them failed, as did the efforts of Senator Hugo Black [Dem., Ala.] in January, 1932, when the half billion dollar appropriation for the R. F. C.'s government supplied capital was under debate.

On that occasion, Senator Black first offered an amendment prohibiting loans to companies paying salaries of more than $15,000. That failed. He increased the figure to $50,000. That, too, failed to win the senators' approval. And though he finally boosted the salary limit to $100,00 the senators would have nothing to do with such radical legislation.

But the "new deal" and the infusion into the Democratic ranks of new blood from the west, where the corpuscles seem to course more violently, have given fresh strength to the parliamentary levelers of 1933.

Proposed by Walsh.

Proposed, not by any wheat belt stump speaker, but by Sentor David I. Walsh [Dem., Mass.] conservative representative of the conservative commonwealth of Massachusetts, today's manifesto against high salaries jogged equably through the senate without even the formality of a roll call.

Only one determined voice was raised against it. That was the voice of Senator M. M. Logan [Dem., Ky.], for whom the "new deal" cannot wipe out a regard for the constitutional fitness of things which he learned as chief justice of his state's highest court.

"We have gone far enough in the direction of socializing all business in the United States," he said, but his warning stirred only a faint echo.

Black Leads Fight for Bill.

Senator Black was ardently behind the Walsh amendment and was disappointed only in that it could not be made to include a similar limitation on the salaries paid by shipping and air lines receiving postal subsidies. Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.], reputedly one of the richest men in the senate, was likewise an enthusiastic supporter.

"If a corporation is in such straits that it must borrow the people's money," said Senator Black, "then it is certainly up to the officers of the corporation to cut their salaries to a reasonable figure. The people's money is not to be loaned for the purpose of paying these bloated salaries."

As an example he referred to records concerning the salaries of officials of class one railroads as of March, 1932, which were supplied to the senate by the interstate commerce commission.

Among the salaries referred to by Senator Black paid by railroads which have received loans from the R. F. C. were the following to railroad presidents:

Pennsylvania, $121,500; Baltimore and Ohio, $120,000; Missouri Pacific, $105,167; Illinois Central, $90,000; New York Central, $80.000; Lehigh, $72.000; Southern, $67,500; Erie, $67.500; Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific, $67.500; Central of New Jersey, $64,800; St. Louis-San Francisco, $63,000; Chicago and North Western, $61,000; New York, Chicago and St. Louis, $60.000.

Insurance Company Salaries.

And the table put into the record by Senator Robinson showed comparative salaries paid by five large insurance companies in 1929 and 1932, as follows:

Speed Public Works, Provide Jobs—Gov. Horner

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 4.—[Special.]—At the request of the unemployment commission he appointed shortly after his election, Gov. Horner today asked the municipalities and other local governments of the state to begin a program for the development of needed public works.

In his statement he suggested that loans for such purposes might be obtained from the Reconstruction Finance corporation and that, in part at least, some of the construction might be paid for out of the relief funds of the state.

He asked that all communities and local units communicate with the commission of which Harry A. Wheeler is president.

Gov. Horner's statement follows:

"For some time, the governor's committee on unemployment, has been giving careful and continuous study to the great problem of providing employment for all those willing and able to work. As a result of its investigations, the committee has recommended to me that there be inaugurated throughout the state, an extensive development of needed public works. Such public works would not only provide employment and do away with the necessity of much of the present unproductive relief, but would also provide improvements of permanent and widespread service to the various communities.

"President Roosevelt's announced decision to inaugurate a large public works program and to make available large loans to communities for carrying out such projects gives hope that there will be made available the necessary financial assistance required to develop such public works.

Committee Will Aid.

"In order to determine the extent of the desire for such public improvements that exist in the cities, towns, counties, townships, and school, park, drainage, and other districts throughout the state, I am asking that the officials of such political divisions communicate with this committee, presenting in full, information regarding possible public projects, plans for which have already been drawn up, or projects which are sound and desirable even though not yet planned and financed.

"This committee, with the assistance of the various departments of the state government, will give consideration to all the projects submitted. It is my thought that if the public works of the state are presented to the federal authorities by this committee acting under my authority it is likely that a larger number of these projects may be approved for financing than if the various communities themselves should be compelled to make individual representation to the federal authorities.

May Use Relief Funds.

"It is to be hoped and expected that some of the necessary public works projects can be conducted in part, at least, out of the relief funds of the state, thus lowering costs through the application of work relief wherever practical.

"It is important that prompt action be taken in order that the projects and the necessary applications for federal funds may be ready for presentation as soon as federal legislation has been enacted. I therefore ask the wholehearted coöperation of all officials throughout the state, and suggest that they immediately send to the committee full details regarding recommended public works projects, addressing their communications to the governor's committee on unemployment, 38 South Dearborn street, Chicago."

AVERS 8,000,000 WORKERS JOINED TO BACK HITLER

Labor Czar Tells of New Nazi Front.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 4.—Eight million workers have now been welded together in a national labor union and are firmly entrenched behind their Nazi leader, Chancellor Adolf Hitler, Robert Ley, Germany's labor union dictator, announced today.

Further steps in the Nazi welding process were taken today by German artisans and merchants. The artisans formed a national professional chamber under the leadership of National Socialists. Merchants, both wholesalers and retailers, formed a national professional association of commerce under one of Hitler's economic advisers, Dr. Theodor Adrian von Rentelen.

Follow Industrialists.

The merchants are thus following the German association of industries into the Nazi fold, making Hitler's control of business virtually complete. Reorganization of vital industries to coincide with Nazi policies was begun yesterday.

The Prussian minister of justice has decreed the formation of an "anti-sabotage body" to prevent intrigues among the Socialists who formerly headed the labor unions. In addition charges of falsification of balance sheets and fraudulent administration have been lodged against former labor leaders so that the workers' faith in them is now practically nil.

Ley asserted that despite the fact that 6,000,000 German idle are in need of help from the unions, the latter gave $23,000 to international labor unions and $60,000 to the Socialist party as late as January. It is charged that they carried secret accounts of more than $1,000,000 which should have been used to help the workers.

Hit Farmers' Groups.

Farmers' organizations are also slated to feel the effect of new Nazi policies. Dr. Walter Darre, commissar of agriculture, declared that the farmers will be allowed no more subventions since this undermines initiative and sense of responsibility.

According to the business cycle research institute, a general improvement has started. Industrial production is 12 per cent higher than it was at its low in August last year, the institute reported.

To commemorate Germany's first national May day Hitler has appealed to his countrymen to contribute funds to the "victims of toil," widows, orphans, miners and others maimed on "the battlefield in the struggle for daily bread."

Schurz Society Founder Ousted.

BERLIN, May 4.—(AP)—Anton Erkelenz, founder, in 1926, and president of the Carl Schurz society, has been compelled to resign because he insisted that the society should continue as an independent organization, promoting German-American friendship, and should resist the Nazi demand for control.

Hans Draeger, executive secretary of the Schurz society, has joined the foreign office staff as head of the department for combating atrocity propaganda against Germany.

Establish "Race Office."

DORTMUND, Germany, May 4.—(AP)—City health officials announced today the establishment of a "race office" which will undertake the work of examining 80,000 school children in the interest of building up the race. The propagation and improvement of the Aryan race, even to the extent of forbidding racially mixed marriages, is contemplated by the health authorities. Sterilization of the physically and mentally delinquent is also probable.

Nazi Threat Alarms Vienna.

VIENNA, May 4.—(AP)—A wave of mixed alarm and enthusiasm swept Austria today as a result of a sensational report published in the semi-official Reichspost that a German Nazi putsch, aimed at the forcible realization of an Austro-German union, is imminent on the Bavarian border.

It was quickly explained in an official quarter, however, that the Reichspost report was based only on "rumors growing out of remarks made by Austrian Nazi leaders recently."

See Plot on Nazis.

In some quarters the Reichspost's story, which was followed by an official denial, is interpreted as meaning that the government is trying to work up public sentiment for sharp action against the Nazis.

The Socialist newspapers express the opinion that Chancellor Dollfuss is worried over the large percentage of government employés who have already gone over to the Nazis and is planning drastic measures, such as discharging them and replacing them with his own supporters.

Austria Routs Reds.

WIENER-NEUSTADT, Austria, May 4.—(AP)—The Gendarmerie resorted to the use of bayonets to disperse communist demonstrations at Baden, Voeslau and other nearby communities last night. Since May 1 nearly 200 communists have been imprisoned.

POISON FATAL TO A CHILD.

BAR FUNERAL CORTEGE TO PROTEST TRANSFER OF ITALIAN PRIESTS

Philadelphia, Pa., May 4.—(AP)—A priest was held captive and a funeral party refused admission to a Roman Catholic church today. Parishioners seized the structure. The dispute arose over having Italian or English speaking priests.

The Italian priests had obeyed their superiors' orders to leave last night. A guard of 25 police escorted them from the parish house. One priest went back to get some belongings and was not allowed to leave, because of the demand for Italian priests.

Fifteen hundred persons jammed the church, talking in hushed voices, while the church bell tolled, cracked by hours of incessant ringing.

Officials of the archdiocese of Philadelphia explained the Italian communicants were protesting the transfer of their priests, members of the Augustinian order, to another part of the city.

The secretary of Cardinal Dougherty said the transfer was made because the Italian population in South Philadelphia had shifted. The Augustinian priests' father general in Rome had approved the move, he said.

ITALY TO COMBAT NATIONS OFF GOLD WITH HIGH TARIFF

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, May 4.—Italy's protective and retaliatory measures against the depreciated currencies of other countries which damage her commerce will take the form of a 50 per cent increase in tariff rates, it was revealed in a decree published in today's official gazette. The law was dated April 13—six days before the latest embargo on American gold went into effect—indicating that Italian economists anticipated a slump in the dollar and consequent difficulties to Italian commerce.

The law authorized the boosting of tariff rates 50 per cent on merchandise from countries which submit Italian merchandise to special tariff restrictions or customs, "with dispositions about exchange rates and commerce in money."

Italian economists predict that the abandonment of the gold standard will not regain foreign markets for the United States. They assert that other countries will adopt counter measures. Today's newspapers quote Finance Minister Guido Jung from Washington as saying that Italy will stay on the gold standard "until the last splinter cracks."

CUMMINGS ASKS FEDERAL WAR AGAINST CRIME

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—The enforcing arm of the federal government may be invoked against all types of crime. At the same time the government temporarily may retire from the anti-trust field to allow industry freedom to recover. Attorney General Homer S. Cummings so indicated today.

"The crime problem is national," he declared. He said he was considering legislation to allow the federal government more freedom of action against racketeers.

May Modify Sherman Law.

At the same time the government may find it wise to retire temporarily from the enforcement of anti-trust laws so that industry may combine and end the destructive competition in price cutting, he said. He mentioned, without approving, suggestions that the criminal provisions of the Sherman anti-trust laws not apply against any registered business combination until the department of justice had specifically approved of it.

State lines have been the great hindrance in the prosecution of crimes, the attorney general said. Crime has become national, yet the national government can reach it only through the postal, income tax, and prohibition laws, he pointed out.

Need Further Powers.

"Thoughtful people in the country have come to the conclusion that we have to go further than that," Cummings said. "It is a question of cooperation between the national government and states and cities.

"We always have dealt with crime as a local problem," he stated. "In the earlier, simpler days that was enough. But crime has spread from the city to the county and state. And now it has spread to the whole nation."

JEWS TAKE FUR TRADE TO LONDON TO HIT GERMANY

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, May 4.—Under the headings "Jew-Baiting Costs Millions" and "German Fur Trade Ruined," the Daily Herald reports that Jewish dealers from France, Belgium, Holland, Italy, Poland, and the Balkans are pouring into London to spend £4,900,000 [$15,600,000] at Monday's auction which but for the Nazi anti-Semitic program would be divided equally between London and Leipzig.

CATHOLIC BISHOPS IN BAVARIA CONDEMN NAZI CHURCH PLAN

MUNICH, Germany, May 5 [Friday].—(AP)—The church question again was raised today by the publication of an episcopal letter of Catholic archbishops in Bavaria condemning the national church idea sponsored by German Christians.

"The program of a national church," the letter said, "would mean for a Catholic giving up his faith. The domain of faith and ecclesiastical organization must be left to the church, because the government's interference would bring evil. Nobody must refuse to lend a hand in reconstruction of the nation, but nobody must be rejected."

The letter appealed for equality and justice within the nation and said Catholic bishops would not cease their efforts to strengthen the ties between Christianity and the people.

A united Protestant church that "recognizes the sovereignty of the national socialistic state out of sheer faith and preaches the gospel of the third reich" will be demanded by Nazi German Christians in a memorandum to be presented Saturday to the committee drawing up a new church constitution, it was learned in Berlin.

LAUNCH BOYCOTT IN N. Y. TODAY ON GERMAN GOODS

New York, May 4.—[Special.]—An anti-Hitler boycott designed to "hit Germany through the pocket" will be started tomorrow with picketing of German steamship offices on Broadway, it was announced today by Col. Lewis Landes of the United States Army Reserve corps, chairman of a committee of twelve which, he said, included regular army officers whose names could not be divulged.

The boycott, aimed directly against the importation of German goods, against travel in Germany and against the use of German shipping, is expected by its sponsors to develop into a chain encircling the globe.

Among those serving on the committee, aside from the army officers, are Col. Maurice Simmons, past commander of the Spanish-American War Veterans; Commander J. G. Fredman, president of the Jewish War Veterans; Maj. Julius Tannebaum of the National Guard, and Col. Morris Mendelsohn, past commander of the Jewish War Veterans.

Win beauty by the magic of olive oil
—it's olive oil that makes Palmolive green
THREE thousand years ago, Nature gave Cleopatra her beauty aids of olive and palm oils. Never has their equal been found for soothing and safeguarding the soft, supple smoothness of youthful skin.
Today, the wholesome, attractive, natural color; the mild, yet soothing, cleansing qualities of Palmolive Soap are due to these same olive and palm oils. They provide a rich, creamy lather that cleanses deeply, thoroughly—and safely.
Fortunately you can use Palmolive for the bath, too, because it is now selling at the lowest price in history.

Use Palmolive this way
Twice a day work a smooth lather of Palmolive gently into the skin of face, neck and throat. After massaging thoroughly, rinse with warm water, then with cold. You will find new youth, new beauty, new glamour in your skin after this gentle, daily care.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL
And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go
If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.
For they can't do it. They only move the bowels, and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.
If this bile is not flowing freely your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.
It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.
But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

Says Her Husband Lost 16 Pounds
"I have never found a medicine that 'peps' you up like Kruschen Salts and better still, leaves you 'pepped up.' I take it two or three times a week—not to reduce but merely to feel good and clean. My husband took it to reduce, he lost 16 pounds in 4 weeks." Mrs. E. A. Ferris, Washington, D. C. (December 29, 1932).
To lose fat and at the same time gain in physical attractiveness and feel spirited and youthful take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water before breakfast each morning. And to hasten results avoid fatty meats and go light on starches.
A jar that lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle at any drugstore in the world but be sure and get Kruschen Salts the SAFE way to reduce wide hips, prominent front and double chin and again feel the joy of living—money back if dissatified after the first jar.

BAR REPORTS ON CANDIDATES IN JUNE 5 ELECTION

Lists 17 Democrats, 13 G. O. P. as Qualified.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

The Chicago Bar association issued last night the report of its board of managers on the candidates for judges of the Circuit, Superior, and Probate courts at the June 5 election. There are 23 places on these benches to be filled.

Seventeen Democratic nominees and 13 Republican candidates are listed as "qualified" in varying degrees by the report. It was sent out with ballots for the bar primary, the results of which are to be announced May 10. The association is to support the candidates getting highest votes with finances and speakers.

Phrases of Characterization.

The sketch book put out last night, after giving biographical data on each candidate, gives a few phrases of characterization by the board of managers which may be summarized as follows, the names appearing in alphabetical sequence. Those denoted as judges are sitting members. The ticket on which candidates are running is designated D. or R. The Democratic ticket contains eight present Republican judges.

JUDGES SEEKING RE-ELECTION

(Election June 5)

FRANK H. BICEK

Judge Frank H. Bicek, Democrat, was placed on the Circuit bench last Jan. 26 by appointment of Gov. Henry Horner to fill out the unexpired term of Judge Otto Kerner who resigned upon taking office as attorney general of Illinois. Judge Bicek was indorsed for renomination in the recent primaries of the Chicago Bar association.

He was born in Chicago 46 years ago. He attended the public and parochial schools and got his legal education at Illinois College of Law, from which he was graduated in 1907. From 1903 to 1906 he was a clerk for Q. J. Chott, justice of the peace and police magistrate.

In 1913 Judge Bicek was appointed chief deputy clerk and acting chief clerk of the Probate court of Cook county. In 1925 he became a master in chancery of the Circuit court, an office he held for seven years. He was a candidate for municipal judge in 1932. The report of the Bar association says of Judge Bicek:

"He is courteous in manner, even tempered and conscientious. He is qualified for the office."

FINGER MISSING, GAW DECIDES TO GIVE UP GREETING

Chicago was left greeterless yesterday on the eve of the World's Fair, with the resignation of City Greeter George D. Gaw. The resignation also included the undergreeters, Henry Dooley and George Brumlik.

Members of the city council and the mayor's cabinet will be pressed into service to lurk about depots and extend the glad hand to Chicago visitors, Mayor Kelly announced after accepting the resignations.

The accidental explosion of a small pocket tear gas gun, which caused him to lose a finger from his right hand, was blamed by the greeter for his resignation. "Besides," he said, "there are many who can do as well as I."

The announcement of the resignation of Greeter Gaw came with the settlement of a suit against him in the Probate court. Miss Sarah Hastings, whose mother, Anna, has been committed to the Kankakee hospital for the insane, had filed a petition for leave to sue on a note signed by Gaw for $1,650. The matter was settled yesterday in the Probate court of Judge Harold J. Taylor for $1,500.

JARECKI PUSHES BILL TO COMBINE COUNTRY POLLS

A message urging immediate consideration of a bill to consolidate the suburban village, township, nonhigh school, and school elections in every county in Illinois was dispatched to the state legislature yesterday by County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki. Such consolidation would save not less than $5,000,000, the judge said.

The bill, Judge Jarecki explained, already has been introduced in the house, but it has been sidetracked by the emergency measures sponsored by Mayor Kelly and Cook county leaders seeking to force collections of delinquent taxes. Judge Jarecki said that the consolidation bill should be in line for speedy action after Mayor Kelly's program has been passed.

The judge explained that his proposals would allow the June election of Circuit judges, which is statewide, to include city and village elections, most of which are scheduled in April.

Eleven Cats Come Back to Plague Warden Whipp

Eleven of the 137 cats freed from the Joliet penitentiary last week returned yesterday. They came trooping back through the wagon gate. Observing them, Warden Frank D. Whipp said he hoped the other 126 would not return with any companions. The cats had been placed in two boxcars last week and released several miles from the prison.

JUDGE SHURTLEFF DISAGREES WITH SUPREME COURT

'Outrage' to Imprison Two Robbers, He Says.

Circuit Judge Edward D. Shurtleff of Marengo said yesterday that he thinks "it is an outrage" that Carl Parker, 27 years old, and Stanley Wilson, 20 years old, confessed Chicago robbers, must go to prison because of a recent decision by the state Supreme court.

Judge Shurtleff interceded for Parker after Parker and Wilson were convicted in the Cook county Criminal court of a series of drug store robberies, and as a result the two men were released on probation by Judge Charles A. Williams. Previously Judge Williams had sentenced them to terms of one year to life.

On Wednesday Chief Justice Prystalski of the Criminal court received an order from the Supreme court directing that Judge Williams' grant of probation to Parker and Wilson be expunged and that the two be sent to prison.

The Supreme court also directed Chief Justice Prystalski to expunge Judge James J. Kelly's order freeing two other robbers who had been sentenced to life in prison.

Judge Shurtleff's View.

Judge Shurtleff's part in the Parker-Wilson case was disclosed in an investigation by the Chicago Crime commission. This revealed that the judge had written letters to the state's attorney's office and to Judge Williams asking leniency for Parker, who is a nephew of Judge Carl G. Sherwood of Clark, S. D.

"My personal view on this case is that it is an outrage to send these two fellows to prison," said Judge Shurtleff yesterday. "If any two men were ever entitled to probation, they are, from what I know of the case.

"I made this recommendation [his request for leniency] only after a most thorough and careful investigation. They did not shoot any one. A gun was used only to scare and not to kill. A shot was fired in the ceiling.

"These men never before were in any trouble. Parker especially comes from a fine family and has considerable musical ability."

Record Shows Shooting.

The Criminal court records show that during one of the drugstore holdups committed by Parker and Wilson a shot was fired at a druggist who resisted them.

Some months ago Judge Shurtleff, sitting at Woodstock in McHenry county, granted a writ of habeas corpus which freed James [Fur] Sammons, Chicago public enemy, gangster, and machine gunner, from Joliet penitentiary. Sammons was sentenced to prison on a robbery charge from the Cook County Criminal court.

Judge Shurtleff is a candidate for reelection in the Seventeenth judicial district. He is one of four candidates for the three judicial positions to be filled June 5. The other candidates are Judge Ralph J. Dady of Waukegan, Judge Arthur E. Fisher of Rockford, and Attorney Charles P. Carpenter of Chicago and Crystal Lake. Mr. Carpenter is a Democrat. The three sitting judges are Republicans.

Judge Kelly Makes Comment.

The case in which Judge Kelly was overruled by the Supreme court is that of Oliver A. Berg and Hymie Dickholtz, who were convicted in Champaign county of a Champaign robbery. Judge Kelly released them on a writ of habeas corpus. He held that the life sentences imposed by the Champaign judge was void because the statutory punishment is one year to life. The Supreme court ruled that Judge Kelly had no authority to act as a reviewing court.

"I suppose they (the Supreme court justices) are right," said Judge Kelly yesterday. "They know more law than any one else. The decision, however, is at variance with decisions from other states all over the United States which hold that when a wrong judgment is entered a writ of habeas corpus will stand."

The Supreme court ordered that Berg and Dickholtz be returned to prison, but they are now fugitives.

RACE TIPSTER FINED $500.

Jack Grossman, operator of the "Darkie Bob" Williams race tip service at 123 West Madison street, was fined $500 yesterday by Judge Joseph M. McGarry on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses.

HOW TO SELECT VEAL TO COOK FAVORITE WAYS

Knowing Cuts Is Part of Good Catering.

BY EVERETT SWINGLE.

[This is the first of a series of articles to enable housewives to identify cuts of meat, to buy the choice or the more economical cuts, and to recommend various preparations which serve best as the meat goes from kitchen to the table. Other articles on beef, pork, and lamb will follow.]

Veal in the last few days has become one of the most popular meat buys this spring, because of its low price as compared with other meats in this and other years. From the more popular legs, loins, and kidney cuts to those from the shank, the rump, breast, foreshank, and neck, prices are comparatively low.

Calves slaughtered before they are 12 weeks old are considered in the veal class, although 6 to 8 weeks old is the usual age at which they are marketed and prepared for consumption. A fairly simple division of the carcass permits an equally simple division of the cuts into types for roasts, for steaks, or other preparations of which six methods are considered common.

Select Cuts from Loin.

Select cuts of veal ordinarily are those from the loin, the leg, or the rib, or rack. Braising or roasting are equally popular for any of these, while the rib or rack, in addition, can be pan broiled or broiled. Shoulder cuts are suitable for chops or for a roast.

Veal meat in less demand, but which can be made tender, palatable, and nutritious by proper treatment, has a nomenclature which might not be recognized in other cities, but which is nearly standard in the meat markets throughout Chicago and its suburbs. By buying these cuts, housewives often can capitalize on this lack of demand and obtain meat at even more attractive prices than might be expected, compared with the prices of the more popular cuts.

There are the flank and breast and foreshank, for instance. These usually are prepared by stewing, although the breast often is stuffed and baked. The hind shank and neck cuts also are suitable for a stew, although some buyers find the meat in the neck slices can be separated from the neck bones and the meat ground for a baked veal loaf.

Throughout all these six major types of preparation there is only one simple warning needed to insure success of the meat at the table. Veal is the meat of an immature animal and the tissues have not been surrounded by fat as in most other meats. To counteract a tendency for the meat to dry out during roasting, braising, or frying, some additional fat can be added to insure juiciness. When roasting, instead of an open pan, use one with a cover.

It's just one of those qualities about meat, it is said, that no matter the selection, common sense offers the suggestion of what may be served with the meat to suit both diet requirements and appetite appeal.

Some Vegetable Accessories.

For a roast of veal such vegetables as asparagus or green peas, green beans, or spinach serve well for accompaniment, as well as a serving of mashed potatoes or boiled rice or noodles, gravy, and a topping during the main course of something tart, such as a sprightly jelly or jam or some cranberry sauce.

With a stew the natural mate may be dumplings, some vegetables, and spiced fruit. In nearly all the veal combinations wise menu designers indicate that something tart adds to the meal.

The time requirements in the oven or on the stove are comparatively simple. Braising is preferable to broiling or pan broiling because of the natural leanness of veal. For the loin, shoulder, or leg, in roasting or baking, it is recommended that the cut first be seared 15 minutes at 500 degrees Fahrenheit, a hot fire; then at 260 degrees, slow heat, about 23 minutes per pound. Veal is not usually cooked in water, as this fails to bring out the flavor.

To Braise Cutlets.

In braising cutlets the usual time allowed is from 40 to 50 minutes. For chops this period is cut in half for a proper "doneness." In any of the foregoing preparations any one of three methods may be used to conserve juices and prevent excessive dryness in the cooked meat. Strips of salt pork or bacon may be placed on the top. The cut may be covered with a paste of flour and butter, or a thick paste of flour and water may be used, reducing the time required in cooking.

CUTS OF VEAL

20% INCREASE IN FOOD SUPPLY NEEDED FOR FAIR

Influx of Visitors Will Boost Requirements.

A twenty per cent increase in the supply of fruits and vegetables, meats and dairy products and staples for the next five months is considered necessary by some of the leading wholesale food dealers in Chicago following a study of expected attendance for the Century of Progress, which is to open June 1.

They base their estimate on the foods which will be consumed on the grounds of the exposition, the additional food required for hotels and restaurants during an influx of visitors to Chicago for the fair and for the many conventions, and the added requirements which households will find necessary as friends and relatives come to Chicago for visits of various lengths.

Prices to Be Reasonable.

No more than a reasonable price increase will occur, if prices do change, it was announced yesterday for one of the major food industries, that of fresh fruits. Charles W. Irrgang, vice president and manager of the Chicago Fruit auction, described steps taken to insure quality of fruit supplies and insurance against unreasonable prices.

"Fruit growers and the operators in the nation's food distributing centers have constructed a plan to prevent shortages of fruit in Chicago during the Century of Progress," Mr. Irrgang said. "Through the adjustment of shipments, the supply in Chicago will be maintained as adequately as it will be in other cities.

"If New York markets, for instance, find they have received a larger proportionate supply of a certain commodity, the succeeding days will find Chicago getting more of its share until any shortage is overcome."

Plenty of Fruit Available.

A plentiful crop of the major fruits is expected to permit a predominance of quality. As the fair opens, fruit stands will offer the following:

Some of the last of this year's California navel oranges and the first heavy shipments of the California Valencia oranges, while the latter type will be coming from Florida until the latter part of June. The first large, dark red cherries will be selling by the pound and eating apples of the Winesap variety, 1932 models, will still be available

Pineapples will be plentiful until after July and a heavy increase in the Texas citrus fruit crop will fill out the early fair months. Fresh apricots, peaches, and the summer and early fall apple and grape harvests will offer additional edibles for Chicago's residents and its visitors.

More Meat to Be Sold.

Other commodities as well will share in filling this extra large sized market basket for the duration of the exposition. Chicago, the world's center of meat packing, will sell larger supplies locally of beef, pork, veal, lamb, and other meat products.

Within a few weeks the first yields from the immense truck gardening and truck farming industry which surrounds the metropolitan area will begin adding to the arrays of the green grocer. Hotel and restaurant menus will include many of the early vegetables now being planted in Cook and adjacent counties.

An additional milk supply to take care of demands for milk on the exposition grounds has been provided through arrangements between milk dealers, the Pure Milk association, and the fair management.

As the center of extensive candy making, Chicago will also be able to turn out quality sweets for the expected demand during the five months' period. Large and small bakeries, pretzel, pickle, and confectionery factories will also participate in increasing production to meet the demand for quality foods.

HOLLYWOOD! Beautiful movie actresses! 694 of them!

Have you ever wondered why 686 of these 694 important actresses, the loveliest in the world, use this beauty soap—have used it for years?

If you've ever stopped to think of it, you realize a sad fact about your skin. Year by year, imperceptibly, it ages.

But did you ever hear that, as your skin grows older, it loses something? That something goes out of it?

The Secret of Youthful Skin

Skin, science has found, contains certain precious elements. These elements, found in youthful skin of every type, keep it fresh, smooth, attractive, young : : : help guard it when exposed to wind, dust and sun.

The gradual loss of these elements is what makes skin get old looking, dry, rough, unattractive. But scientists give this welcome and all-important message—you can now check the loss of these precious elements.

For years women everywhere have learned from experience how regular care with Lux Toilet Soap makes their complexions fresher—more youthful—more attractive.

And now scientists attest the fact that Lux Toilet Soap, with its complete freedom from harshness, its ready solubility and its content of such precious elements is an unquestionable aid in keeping the skin young looking : : : softly smooth.

Small wonder that Lux Toilet Soap is used by nearly all of the famous screen stars, who must keep their skin radiant, smooth, young looking! Small wonder it is the official soap in all the large Hollywood film studios.

A Younger Looking, Lovelier YOU

SCIENCE tells you that pure, safe Lux Toilet Soap actually contains precious elements all skin must have to look youthful. These elements are found in the skin itself—an abundance in fresh, youthful skin, less in skin that is growing old, unlovely.

HOLLYWOOD has proved through years of daily use this soap actually keeps every type of skin younger looking.

MILLIONS of women (and men) everywhere confirm Hollywood's experience.

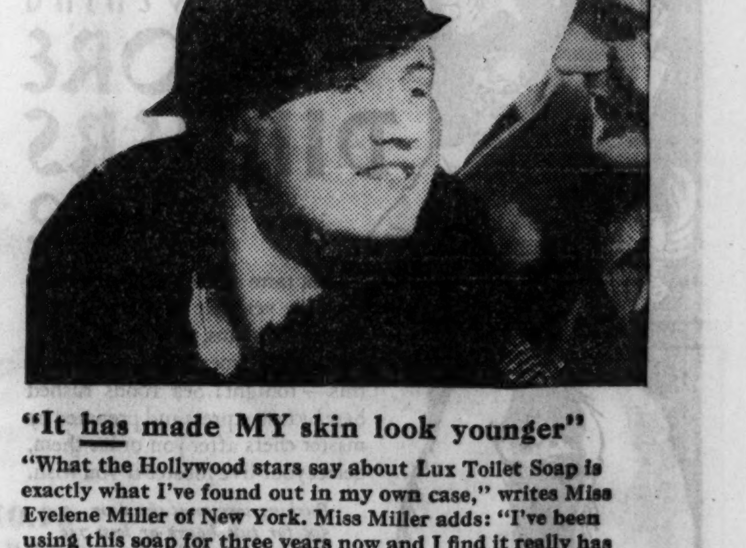
BEGIN TODAY—Win new Beauty!



"It has made MY skin look younger"
"What the Hollywood stars say about Lux Toilet Soap is exactly what I've found out in my own case," writes Miss Evelene Miller of New York. Miss Miller adds: "I've been using this soap for three years now and I find it really has made my skin much younger looking. It's certainly a marvelous soap all other ways, too. I will never use any other!"

'The Store' Gets Pulitzer Prize for 1932 Novel

Play Attacking Treasury Raids Selected.

New York, May 4.—(AP)—A Tennessee novelist, two university professors, a newspaper man-turned-playwright, and an Illinois-Connecticut poet have won the $6,000 in Pulitzer prizes in letters for 1932. The awards, as announced tonight at the annual dinner of the Friends of the Princeton Library, are:

For the best novel published during the year by an American author, $1,000, to "The Store" by T. S. Stribling.

For the original American play, performed in New York, which shall best represent the educational value and power of the stage, $1,000, to "Both Your Houses" by Maxwell Anderson.

For the best book of the year upon the history of the United States, $2,000, to "The Significance of Sections in American History" by Frederick J. Turner.

For the best American biography teaching patriotism and unselfish services to the people, to "Grover Cleveland" by Allan Nevins. Prize $1,000.

For the best volume of verse published during the year by an American author, $1,000, to "Conquistador" by Archibald MacLeish.

In its findings the jury gave these reasons for the various selections:

The novel: "Preference has been given to 'The Store' because of its sustained interest, and because of the convincing and comprehensive picture it presents of life in an inland southern community during the middle eighties of the last century."

The play: "This drama concerns the efforts of a newly elected representative at Washington to combat the raiding of the national treasury by the appropriations committee. The spirit of the play is idealistic, it breathes a fine indignation, but it is so conducted that legitimate entertainment values are not lost, and the characters speak and act with convincing naturalness."

The history: "This is a selection of studies chosen by certain of the friends of Prof. Turner from among his works. They treat important aspects of the evolution of American civilization in a thorough and fresh way, are based upon a wide reading of sources, and are clear and careful in their point of view."

The biography: "A book of value, in the first place, because it supplies what has been needed, a dispassionate and comprehensive survey of the subject. Cleveland is portrayed at full length and he is impartially adjusted to his time. It makes a substantial contribution to our political biography and should prove of service for a long time to the lay reader and to the historian."

The verse: "'Conquistador,' extremely modern in its technique, is on the whole the best poem that has been submitted this year."

Lilyan Sacks, Silverman in Good Recital

BY EDWARD MOORE.

A song program by Lilyan Sacks, soprano, and Saul Silverman, bass, at Kimball hall last night more nearly deserved the title of joint recital than most events of the kind, since each appeared in two individual groups, and then at the end both combined their voices in duets.

The program was not only well put together but pleasantly executed. Each of the artists is possessed of a good voice, and each has a reasonably good idea of how a voice should be used. Mr. Silverman introduced a new work, "Vision of Love," with words by Elizabeth Nathanson and music by Victor Snow, the latter being a pen name for the Chicagoan well remembered in concert appearances, Vitali Schnee. It is a melodious and well written piece. For another resemblance between the two artists, each sang in several languages and became particularly clear in English.

Through a misapprehension of dates, National Music week was announced to be in operation during the present seven days. In reality it will begin next Sunday and extend until the following Saturday. Margaret Lester is chairman of the Chicago district, others members of the committee being Elaine De Sellem and Mrs. H. B. Vanzwoll.

That Chicago once possessed a good opera company is shown by the way that the Metropolitan Opera company is engaging former Chicago members. In addition to Tito Schipa and Frida Leider, who sang there during the season recently closed, engagements have been made with Charles Hackett, Claudia Muzio, Lotte Lehmann, John Charles Thomas, and Cyrena Van Gordon, a fact that will have to be considered when and if there is the determination to organize another Chicago company.

Dishes Record Table Usage of Other Days

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Two near north side households are serving dinner this week minus their favorite dinner services. One is Arthur Heun's. The other is that of Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer III.

The Art institute has received two large shipping boxes packed with the prized apple green glass of Mrs. Palmer and the famous Sandwich glass of Mr. Heun.

Tissue and excelsior brought to light cup plates, high sugar bowls, vertical celery vases, and decanters that are a commentary on customs and manners several generations removed. Both of the services have been loaned to the institute for an indefinite period. They are being displayed in an alcove of the east wing.

The loan is especially generous on the part of Mrs. Palmer since she uses her green dishes for some of her very nicest luncheon and dinner parties. Her friends request them. Mr. Heun's sandwich glass is taken from its shelves on less frequent occasions. Mrs. Palmer has collected her service piece by piece over a period of years, just as Mr. Palmer has gathered early American pewter . . . splendid tankards and teapots and a priceless communion set.

The green glass dinner service is highly valued because of the rarity of its color. It was pressed, collectors say, about 1870 in one of the New England states. The piece the Palmers prize the most is a delicately molded liqueur glass, the latest addition to the service and the hardest piece to find.

The upright celery dishes that sprout tops like a vase and high spoon holders and sugar bowls are an interesting sidelight on table etiquette of another day just as the cup plates in Mr. Heun's service. These little plates were the style in the 1820s and '30s, when coffee from the saucer was the proper procedure. During the rite the cup was relegated to the cup plate.

All of Mr. Heun's cup plates are prize pieces. Most of them were made in the Sandwich [Mass.] factory during its first period between 1817 and 1840. One of them commemorates the building of the Steamship Cadmus, built in 1824 to bring Lafayette to the United States. That was a 31 day journey, you may recall from your history text.

Another is dated 1831, for it depicts in glass the settlement of the boundary dispute between the United States and Canada. An eagle represents the American side, four pine trees the Canadian border. Still another shows Henry Clay at the time of his greatest popularity . . . when he was the nominee for President against Polk in 1844.

There are other pieces that recommend Mr. Heun's collection for a museum shelf. Celery vases and candlesticks in honey colored glass are worth more than their weight in gold. And so are decanters used on the bar of the steamship Pittsburgh [made so heavy they would remain upright despite stormy seas], two genuine dolphins of 1840, and decanters in the famous horn of plenty glass.

Mr. Heun has made glass his hobby for years. He has contacted the descendants of the early manufacturers and visited the sites of the first factories. And, interesting enough, he is one of those collectors who have helped upset the belief that the only early American glass worth while is Sandwich or Stiegel. Pittsburgh and other eastern cities, he points out, produced dishes in an early day equal to those of the Massachusetts manufactory or the pioneer German glass blower.

Ickes to Address Class at Lake Forest College

Robert Ickes, a son of the secretary, is a freshman at the college. The baccalaureate sermon on June 4 will be preached by Dr. Albert W. Palmer, president of the Chicago Theological seminary, in the Lake Forest Presbyterian church.

Roller Skaters Learn Clothes Add to Strokes

Sturdy Footwear Is Part of Costume.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

A new spring method of slicing at least fifteen years off the birthday records is to join the clattering parade of roller skaters. Time was when you sallied forth in sailor suits, more or less nondescript shoes and costumes accessories, and a well stuffed pillow to assure "happy landings" . . . but this spring you risk life, limb, and the last of your dignity minus the pad, but with some of the best looking roller skating clothes any fast moving body ever wore.

Special footwear, with extremely moderate price stickers, get you started on your way. They are shoes that can be worn for any heavy outdoor duty, so you do not buy them for skating alone. They can tramp over many a country lane, double for golf, and every other outdoor sports occasion. Even the store-going early morning grocery shoppers will gladly wear them for swanky and dependable service as well as style.

Knitted string berets, top all the costumes. You can buy them in all colors and white, and buy them for a mere song.

Next you shop for clothes, breezy things that are positively knockout! You can now buy tailored flannel slacks, a typical down-by-the gashouse, striped sweater, and have the time of your life careening down the block, side-swiping a water hydrant, neatly parting a pair of plodding pedestrians and missing a well packed perambulator by an eighth of an inch while tie up traffic in general.

If you are not so slim, you'll probably decide discreetly for the flared short skirt, and twin sweater outfit of fuzzy wool in all colors or white. If you get out of bed to try your first tottering steps by the cold grey light of early dawn, you will need both sweaters, the pull-over that is worn with the skirt and the loose snappy cardigan that completes the trio. This same outfit can pull you through any sort of an outdoor spring and summer, no matter what you play.

After you dare the glare of daylight and can turn a corner with the grace and speed of a seasoned vet, you'll need the short, pleated, pocketed, and bebowed dress of fine check gingham, which makes you look as slim as a lead pencil when you stop, and gives you all the freedom of the skirts, with clever inverted pleats placed at strategic seams.

But whatever you wear, in the general specifications of either roller skating clothes or snappy sports dresses, do remember to buy them and to wear them short. Nothing looks quite so pluggy as to long a skirt, and then short skirts or dresses will take the hazards out of much of the tumbling acts.

The last things you collect are the very brief but exciting angora socks either in all plain white or colors, or decorated with a flippant band of orange, red or green.

Such are the sartorial glories of the roller skaters who are congregating in every suburb, and even in town!

File Bankruptcy Action Against Church Group

Involved bankruptcy proceedings were filed in the federal court yesterday against the World Wide Christian Couriers, operators of the Chicago Gospel tabernacle, 825 Barry avenue, under the direction of the Rev. Paul Rader. The Strathmore company, printers, and two other creditors claim, through Attorney James M. Parker, that the church organization's liabilities are $20,000.

Smart Clothes Add Zest to Sports

Good Morning!

"It hurts either way—but this way doesn't hurt so much!"

So—after her fashion—a young modern acknowledges the value of that trade-mark of respectability, marriage, and makes belated obeisance to the teachings of her parents.

You will find "Ex-Lady" a featherweight problem drama that tiptoes daringly along the edge of the risque.

The story concerns two young people of advanced convictions, who, when the picture starts, are discovered living without benefit of clergy—though Don has conceived a very genuine yen to wed Helen. She refuses stubbornly for a while, yipping plaintively of her desire for freedom, her own life and no babies till she's 40. Comes a moment of weakness when she gives in.

For a time Advertising Man Peterson and his wife, Artist Helen, get along all right in double harness. Then come the sort of differences and misunderstandings that usually ruffle a matrimonial sea. . . .

I told you so! the lady cried
[Or words to that effect]
And we had better separate
Before our love is wrecked. . . .

Therefore—though still madly in love—Mr. and Mrs. Peterson decide to maintain separate apartments, confining meetings to the sort of rendezvous they had enjoyed before marriage. . . .

But THIS going proves to be not smooth, either. Jealousy trips them up at every turn. So, finally they decide that . . . Well, what do you imagine?

Their decision, I suppose, places "Ex-Lady" in the ranks of moral photoplays, seeing as how it makes a sweeping bow to the conventions.

Because well acted, directed and staged the piece manages to be fairly entertaining despite the lightness and triteness of its narrative.

Behind the Chicago's footlights colored entertainers are holding forth. Earl Hines is there with his N. B. C. orchestra, and very much present also are Valaida and Geneva Washington, who appeared in "Rhapsody in Black" with Ethel Waters.

See you tomorrow!

Asserts Present Day Sunday Schools Are Breeders of Atheism

Cincinnati, O., May 4.—(AP)—Two suggestions that would drastically alter or possibly replace a long standing institution—the Sunday school—were placed before the Religious Education association delegates here today.

Dr. Adelaide Case of Columbia university teachers' college, said she felt Sunday schools were retarding religious progress and proposed the creation of community groups of wider scope.

Previously Rabbi Isaac Landman of New York, editor of the American Hebrew, called Sunday schools, as now constituted, breeders of agnosticism and atheism and the "greatest weakness" and "most costly liability" of the church. He suggested wholesale revision of Sunday schools, and reinterpretation of the ten commandments.

He said the literal inhibition against idolatry and affirmation of the "six day creation myth" were of no value in building character and inculcating intellectual honesty.

President and Party Invited to Attend Paris Ball at Fair

Date of Event May Be Changed to May 27 to Make It Inaugural Affair.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE minute George Lytton, president of Paris, Inc., heard yesterday that President Roosevelt was coming to Chicago to open A Century of Progress on May 27, he sent an invitation to the President and his party to attend the Bal des Quat'z Arts that is to be held in "Paris" on Monday evening, May 29. If the President cannot be here on the 29th John Root and Andrew Rebori and the others who are arranging the ball think they will change the date to the 27th and make it an inaugural ball, since it cannot "tilt the lid" on the exposition as it would have done if the ball had been held from dusk to dawn on the 29th and the fair had opened on June 1 as planned originally.

Apropos of the exposition, one of the two Italian commissioners to the fair who was here a month or so ago and is remembered so pleasantly by all who met him, is arriving again this week, Saturday, to be here through June and perhaps longer. He is Prince Ludovico Spada Veralli Potenziani, former mayor of Rome. There undoubtedly will be much entertaining for him, but the only thing planned definitely yet is the dinner the Dante Alighieri society will give on Wednesday of next week at the Belden-Stratford hotel. Mrs. Edward A. Leight, who knew the prince in Rome and who gave a tea for him when he was here earlier this year, will give a dinner or a reception for him. The kind of a party and the date are to be decided after he arrives in Chicago.

The other Italian commissioner, Baron Alessandro Sardi, who also was here earlier—later than Potenziani's visit, however—will be back to attend the exposition late in June. A distinguished Italian who will be here to visit the fair in June and to receive an honorary degree from Northwestern university is Marconi, so the Italian consul general, Giuseppe Castruccio, told us yesterday. Mme. Castruccio, the consul general's charming wife, who has spent the winter in Italy, is expected to arrive in Chicago on the 11th of this month, but the four little Castruccios are remaining abroad for the summer.

"Andy" Rebori Jr. Plans a Dance.

"Andy" Rebori's talent as an arranger of unusual balls—he was active in planning the Architects' and the Silver Screen balls last winter—is inherited by his son, Andy Jr., apparently, for he was chosen to plan most of the dances at the Lake Forest academy this year. He has planned the decorations for a dance to be given tomorrow at the boys' preparatory school in the gymnasium for the juniors and their guests. There is to be a huge crystal prism in the center of the gym with blue and white streamers stretching out from it and blue and white lights flooding through the ribbons. In opposite corners will be two orchestras hidden behind silver screens.

Assisting young Mr. Rebori with the preparations are Kenneth Rich, John Baylor, William Hutchinson, Hugo Sonnenschein Jr., and Edward Fleer. A number of students at the Girls' and Boys' Latin schools will drive to Lake Forest for the dance, among them Eleanor Kirkland, Lily Fleming, Walter Cummings Jr., Eleanor Thompson, Tom Geraghty, and Robert Henneberry.

One doesn't hear much of the Lower North Community council for months and then suddenly it bursts into print with a vengeance. First there were three lectures given under its auspices recently. Then there is the buffet dinner and dance and amateur art show to be held on the 25th of this month at the Blue Ribbon casino at A Century of Progress. And now a theater benefit a week from Monday at the Erlanger theater.

The council has taken over the first night of the "Teatro dei Piccoli," that highly sophisticated marionette show that has entranced European audiences for years and is on its first American tour now. There are 800 marionettes in the troupe.

SPRING DISHES WILL REFRESHEN JADED APPETITE

And Provide Menu with Dash of Inspiration.

The regular weekly radio feature presenting Miss Meade with her economical tips for week-end food shoppers has been changed to Friday at 11 over station W-G-N. Tune in today for Miss Meade's market chat.

BY MARY MEADE.

Tree buds gayly shaking themselves out, crocuses perking up right and left, and green grass hustling through the brown a mile a minute call right lustily for new curtains . . . new clothes . . . new cooking. And especially new cooking!

Already spring markets are singing songs of praise . . . to fat red strawberries. . . to blushing mounds of crisp, lush rhubarb . . . to irresistible red tomatoes . . . to perky green onions . . . to ladies' choice of curly greens and crinkly "salads." And lest in the winter monotone we have forgotten just how gloriously good these first arrivals can be, here's for a dash of inspiration and four new thoughts for spring dishes.

First for the most piquant of cool green salads—a quivery creation for which we have to thank Mrs. J. W. S. of Waukegan.

MINT CHEESE SALAD.

1 package mint gelatin
1 cup boiling water.
1 cup cold water.
1 package cream cheese.
2 tablespoons creamy mayonnaise.
6 slices pineapple.
3 peach halves.
Lettuce.

Dissolve the gelatin in the boiling water and then add the cold water. While still warm, add the cream cheese which has been blended with the mayonnaise. Beat sufficiently with a rotary egg beater to mix thoroughly, but not enough to make the mixture extremely fluffy. Let stand until somewhat cooled, then add the peaches, cut in small dice. Turn into small fancy molds which have been dipped in cold water and chill till firm. To serve, turn out each mold onto a slice of pineapple in a bed of crisp lettuce. Top with more creamy mayonnaise [add a little whipped cream to your usual dressing] and lay a tiny sprig of mint on each salad. Lemon gelatin with a pastel tint of green food coloring may be used instead of the mint gelatin.

Next—there's something decidedly springlike about onions—even though they do seem to have been around in their large and buxom form all winter. So here is a most piquant appetite teaser to start off the season correctly:

ONION SOUP AU GRATIN.

3 tablespoons butter.
6 cups chicken stock or 6 bouillon cubes dissolved in 6 cups boiling water.
⅛ teaspoon cloves.
Salt and pepper to taste.
1-3 cup grated Parmesan cheese.
6 slices French bread or 6 rusks.

Slice the onions very thin and brown them lightly in the butter. Stir in the stock and season to taste. Simmer until the onions are tender. Now pour the soup into 6 oven proof bowls ["marmites" is the official name for them] and place on the top of each a rusk or round of bread spread with butter. Sprinkle over this the grated cheese. Slip the bowls into a hot oven until the cheese becomes melted and brown.

TOMATOES STUFFED WITH FROZEN SALAD.

1 green pepper, seeded and chopped.
1 cucumber, finely chopped.
1 cup mayonnaise.
⅛ teaspoon onion juice.
1¼ teaspoon salt.
⅛ teaspoon mustard.
2 teaspoons peppery sauce.
2 teaspoons granulated gelatin.
¼ cup cold water.

Carefully skin the tomatoes, cut off a slice from the top of each and scoop out the pulp. Turn the tomatoes upside down and let chill. Meanwhile soak the gelatin five minutes in the cold water, then dissolve over hot water. Combine the dissolved gelatin with the other ingredients, including the tomato pulp. Turn this mixture into refrigerator trays and freeze for about 3 hours. The last minute before serving, stuff the chilled tomatoes with the frozen salad and serve in crisp lettuce cups with a mayonnaise garnish.

ESCALLOPED ASPARAGUS.

1 cup medium white sauce.
½ cup soft bread crumbs.
Buttered bread crumbs for topping.
Salt and pepper to season.
Grated American cheese [optional].

Combine the asparagus, white sauce, bread crumbs, and seasoning. Place in a casserole and top with grated cheese and buttered crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] for 20 minutes, or till heated through and browned.

YELLOW COLOR IN BUTTER DUE TO FEED OF COWS

New evidence indicates that natural yellow color in butter and milk is of significant importance not only because of popular preference for the yellow color but also because of its connection with the nutritive properties of these dairy products.

Results of experiments indicate that the feed is more important in determining the color of butter and milk than the breed of the cow, and that the natural yellow color is dependent on the amount of carotin the cow receives in her feed.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

One pound of greens or cabbage gives about four servings; one pound of other vegetables yields two servings.

RICE AS FOOD GAINS IN POPULARITY IN THE SOUTH AND WEST

Rice, the principal cereal for food in the world, is gaining in popularity in the United States, where production is centered in Texas, Louisiana, some portions of the South Atlantic states, and in California.

Four types are common. One is the long, slender grain known as "head rice." Another is the "blue rose" type, also the more nearly round grain sold as "Japanese style," and the lesser known wild rice.

In market form for household use rice is sold as brown rice or the unpolished grain and polished rice, from which the brown bran has been removed, or as rise flour or as a puffed cereal.

"Grocery Anagrams"

What Is an ANAGRAM?

An anagram is merely a rearrangement of the letters of a word. For example, EFFOCE is an anagram of COFFEE; again, CORREG is an anagram of GROCER. Note that the anagram contains exactly the same letters of the regular word, the only difference being that the letters are placed in different order.

What well known food and grocery store items can you spell with the letters in the accompanying anagrams?

Today the Chicago Tribune presents a brand-new variation of an old favorite game—"Grocery Anagrams." It's loads of fun. You'll find it instructive. There's no hard work to do—and there's $100.00 in groceries and 100 Mary Meade Recipe Cabinets to reward successful contestants. Read the simple rules and start now!

THE RULES:

1. The letters in each of the accompanying ten anagrams when arranged properly will spell the names of ten well-known food and grocery items. You are invited to solve the anagrams and try for the $100.00 in grocery prizes and 100 Mary Meade Recipe Cabinets which the Tribune will award.

2. To the persons who submit the best entries in accordance with these rules, the Chicago Tribune will pay $100.00 in grocery orders and 100 Mary Meade Recipe Cabinets. First prize, $25.00 in groceries, second prize, $15.00 in groceries; third prize, $10.00 in groceries; next ten prizes, $5.00 each in groceries; next 100 prizes, one Mary Meade Recipe Cabinet each.

3. This offer is open to all—except employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families. You pay nothing. Just send in an entry.

4. Awards will be made to the persons who send in the best entries. Simply rearrange the letters in each of the ten anagrams to spell the name of a food or grocery item. After you have solved the anagrams, check the food and grocery store ads in today's Tribune and place a crossmark in the square if you find the item advertised in any of today's Tribune food and grocery ads. If the item is NOT advertised, make NO mark.

5. All entries will be considered by a committee appointed by the Tribune. Contestants agree to accept the decisions of the committee as final. Judgment will be based upon accuracy in solving the anagrams and in checking the ads, and neatness. No special consideration will be given to elaborate entries. In case of ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded to tying contestants. Only one entry may be submitted by any one contestant. Note: You do not necessarily have to solve all the anagrams correctly to win. The prizes will be awarded to the contestants whose entries rank highest.

6. Address your entry to "GROCERY ANAGRAMS NO. 1," the Chicago Tribune, Postoffice box 1720, Chicago, Ill. All entries to today's game must be received in the Tribune office before 6:00 p. m. on Wednesday, May 10, 1933. No entries will be returned.

7. You need NOT purchase the Chicago Tribune to compete. The Tribune may be examined at the Tribune offices or at public libraries free of charge. You may use the handy blank supplied here or you may submit your entry on a separate sheet of paper. Winners will be announced as soon as possible in the Tribune.

Kellogg's for crispness

ADVANCE ON WAY BUT FOOD PRICES ARE LOW TODAY

Offer Bargains in Cereals and Strawberries.

BY PAUL POTTER.

The prospect that food prices will advance gradually during the summer months is seen by authorities in food merchandising in Chicago as a direct result of the passage in Washington this week of the federal farm relief bill and the inflationary provisions attached to it.

Despite the future trends, however, housewives will find ample reason to enthuse today over the attractive bargains in local food markets for their week-end shopping. Strawberries and breakfast cereals are priced the lowest they have been sold at this time of the year in more than a decade.

Fruit and Vegetable Prices Low.

Canned fruits and some of the more plentiful vegetables also are especially low priced this week. Oranges, lettuce, new potatoes, peas in the pod, radishes, and onions have been reduced in cost for today's and tomorrow's shoppers.

Lamb and veal cuts continue the most economical purchases in meat markets of the city and suburbs. Several large shipments of freshly caught lake and salt water fish arrived in Chicago in time for this morning's purchases. Roasts and steaks from larger beef cuts also are economical.

Tender new sweet corn, shipped by refrigerated express cars from Texas and Florida fields, reached Chicago grocery stores this week to enable housewives to serve an unusual garden food this week-end. Good eating and cooking apples are rather scarce and somewhat higher priced due to seasonal marketing conditions. Tomatoes are advancing in price along with cabbage.

Bargains in Coffee and Tea.

Seldom in recent years have housewives been able to purchase such bargains in coffee and tea as are now being offered in local stores. The popularity of roasted and ground coffee, which has followed improved methods of preserving freshness, has combined with ability to sell in volume to produce unusually low prices for high quality coffees and teas.

Some concern is being expressed by local grocers over the proposals of the federal officials to place additional taxes on such staple foods as coffee, tea, sugar, and cocoa. Of more certainty in coming weeks is the rise in prices of such foodstuffs as flour, meats, sugar, cereals, and dairy and poultry products, to be brought about through the farm relief and inflation legislation enacted this week.

DANDELION AS A SALAD PERKS UP LAGGING TASTES

Dandelion greens, mealtime delicacies of spring, offer additional variety for lagging appetites. The greens usually are served boiled, but one suggestion is to include them fresh in a salad with appropriate dressing.

Ingredients may include a cup of choice dandelion leaves, three small green onions, half cup of diced raw carrots, half cup of diced cucumber, half cup of grated cheese, topped with French dressing.

Cut up the dandelion leaves and mince the onion. Combine the greens, onion, carrot, and cucumber, and mix in the French dressing. Serve with grated cheese sprinkled over the top. The French dressing is prepared with a teaspoon each of sugar, salt, and mustard, one-eighth teaspoon paprika, one-fourth cup vinegar, and one cup of oil. Beat the mixture. Some prefer no mustard in this preparation.

ICED TEA PUNCH.

Combine juice 10 oranges, juice 4 lemons, 1 cup grape juice, 2 cups sugar, 1 can shredded pineapple, and 1 quart strained tea. 1 pint cranberry juice. Let stand at least 1 hour before serving. Just at the last add ice and 4 pints of ginger ale. This makes about 30 small glasses.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: The Trackers

PEACH COBBLER.

3 cups sliced peaches.
3 tablespoons melted butter.
½ to 2-3 cup sugar.
¼ teaspoon vanilla.

Mix peaches, butter, and sugar. Turn into buttered baking pan. Cover with a rich biscuit dough or plain pie crust rolled a little thicker than for ordinary pie. Bake in a hot oven [450 F.] until crust is well baked, 20 to 25 minutes. Serve with vanilla or hard sauce.

HERE ARE SOME ECONOMY HINTS FOR RECIPE BOX

Family Will Thrive on These Dishes.

BY DOROTHY MASTERS.

If you're one of those housewives who are looking around for some "economy recipes," you may be interested in this compilation of dishes, most of which cost very little and yet provide substantial energy sources.

These recipes are planned for families of five or six, but may be cut down proportionately. The dishes are easy to serve and are practically meals within themselves. Here they are:

ESCALLOPED PORK CHOPS AND POTATOES.

5 or 6 pork chops
5 medium sized potatoes
6 tablespoons flour
2½ cups milk
Salt and pepper

Brown porkchops in fat, and on top of these slice the potatoes, covering with flour after each layer is completed. When the last layer is in, sprinkle with flour and salt and pour on the milk. Top with a little butter. The milk should nearly cover the mixture. Allow to cook for almost an hour in medium oven.

SPANISH RICE.

1 cup cooked rice
¼ cup cooked hamburger
½ cup tomatoes
¼ cup onions
Salt and pepper.

Fry the meat, onions, and tomatoes in fat for ten minutes, then add the cooked rice and season. Bake for twenty-five minutes.

RICE AND TOMATOES.

1 cup cooked rice
1 tablespoon butter
1 slice onion
1¼ cup boiling water
1 cup tomatoes
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon celery salt
Pepper.

Cook the boiled rice and the onion in fat, stirring constantly until slightly brown. Add water and cook until it is absorbed. Add the tomatoes and seasonings and cook for fifteen or twenty minutes.

MACARONI AND DRIED BEEF.

2 cups cooked macaroni
2 cups medium white sauce
½ pound dried beef
2 cups bread crumbs.

Alternate layers of macaroni, dried beef, white sauce, and bread crumbs which have been browned in butter. Bake for one-half hour.

SCALLOPED TOMATOES AND ONIONS.

2 cups sliced onions
2 cups tomatoes
Salt and pepper
1 cup bread crumbs
1 tablespoon fat.

Parboil onions 15 minutes, then drain. Put layer of tomatoes into greased baking dish, then one of onions, and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Repeat until all ingredients are added. Brown crumbs in fat and sprinkle on top of the vegetables. Bake thirty minutes in moderate oven.

SHE DISCOVERS THE SECRET OF FRIED SHRIMPS

Dish Real Treat and Budget Friend.

This divulging of the recipe may start a Tong war, but it would probably be worth it to get fried shrimps on the American table. If you've ever been to Chinatown for dinner, you've eaten this delicacy with great relish, but the dish is so little known away from that district that you may never have tasted it.

One woman tried for months and months to find out the secret of the process. In the search, she examined ten cook books, and questioned scores of housewives. She cornered all the meat market men she knew, but they could offer no suggestions. They'd heard of boiled shrimps, yes, but fried—and they shook their heads, perplexed.

Fails in Chinatown

She decided that she might be able to get the recipe from Chinatown, and one night at dinner there waylaid a waiter. She caught him by the lapels and asked, "Now, just how are these shrimps fried?", but all she was able to evoke was a flow of unintelligible Chinese.

So finally, driven to despair and her own resources, she experimented until the finished product, fried shrimps a la Chinese, was created. And with shrimps selling at fifteen cents a pound, it's a real treat for the family and a boon to the food budget.

Tells How It's Done.

Here's how it's done. Buy fresh shrimps—one pound will make three servings. Remove the thin shell with the fingers, and cut down the back to take out the black cord running full length beneath the surface. Then dry the shrimps, dredge in flour, and drop in a pan of hot butter and lard mixture. Season with salt, adding two tablespoons of chop-suey sauce to every pound of shrimps. Cook for about twenty minutes over a slow fire, turning the shrimps fairly frequently. Steamed rice and tea are usually associated with the dish, but this is optional.

This may not be the traditional Chinese recipe—there are no bean sprouts or water chestnuts or anything else reputably oriental, but the taste is the same, and the process is simple enough to make the dish suitable for the family table.

Some Unknown Woman

By Elisabeth Sanxay Holding

SYNOPSIS.

Dinah Allen and Jane Rosslyn are roommates in a Manhattan boarding house. Dinah from the south, envies and imitates Jane's air of mystery and sophistication. Jack Fiske, a young boarder from Vermont, is head over heels in love with Dinah and resents Jane's being ever present. Dinah and Jane stroll to the corner drug store for sodas. A good looking young man in a silk hat, not quite sober, invites the girls for a ride in his car. To Dinah's surprise Jane accepts for the two of them. He takes them to his home. Dinah soon finds herself left alone, with Jane's purse instead of her own. In Jane's purse Dinah finds an automatic pistol. All the lights are turned out. Dinah rushes for the door and is grabbed by strong arms. She shoots. Jane reappears. She rushes Dinah away from the scene of their host lying in a pool of blood. Jane takes Dinah for a drink before going home. Fiske meets them entering the house and thinks Dinah intoxicated and blames Jane.

INSTALLMENT V.

A BEAUTIFUL DEVOTION.

Dinah slept that night, but not Jane. Dinah waked, and remembered, and wept in distress and dismay, and Jane sat on the bed beside her and comforted her.

"O, Jane! I killed him!"

"You can't be a bit sure of that, darling. I don't think you did."

"I fired off that gun——"

"But you probably didn't hit him. He'd been drinking, you know, Dinah. He might easily have fallen and struck his head."

"No! I know I killed him . . ."

"Dinah, you've got to face this better. You can't let yourself go to pieces this way. If you did kill him, you did it in self-defense. No one knows, and no one's going to know—if you're brave. Get hold of yourself, dear. Take a cold shower and come down to breakfast and go to your job just as usual. Life has to go on, Dinah."

Dinah made a valiant effort. She dried her tears and sat up straight, looking like a pretty child in her blue pajamas, her fair hair loose about her shoulders.

"I'll try, Jane. . . . Only it seems to me—I just can't ever get out of my head—how he looked—lying there——"

"It'll pass, Dinah. It's got to. And—you'd better think of some one who's still alive, instead. I hate to tell you this, Dinah, but I'm afraid you'll have to know. That drink I gave you last night—went to your head . . ."

She dried her tears and sat up straight, looking like a pretty girl in her blue pajamas.

"What do you mean?" cried Dinah, wide-eyed.

"I mean—you were—you weren't—quite yourself."

Dinah sprang to her feet.

"Jane, you don't ever mean . . . ? If you do, say it! Say it right out! Say I was—drunk!"

"That's exaggerated, darling. It's——"

"No, it's not! If you knew how I felt—about things like that—about women—with their hats all crooked—and giggling . . . It's just the most disgusting, disgraceful thing——"

"Dinah," said Jane, "you've got more to learn than any one I ever encountered. You're a baby. You don't even know what it means to do anything 'disgusting and disgraceful!'"

"Don't I?" said Dinah with a sudden flash of anger. "Don't I? I go out—and kill a man—and get drunk."

"Hush!" cried Jane. "Not so loud . . . You didn't do either. And now you've got to put aside your own feeling a little and think of some one else."

"Who else, Jane? You? If you knew how grateful—just to death I am——"

"No, not me," said Jane. "That Fiske boy. He simply idealizes you. And it's good for him. He's too young—and too decent—to have his chief idol smashed just yet. Dinah, if you knew a little more you'd appreciate what that boy's devotion means."

"He's not a boy," said Dinah.

"Isn't he?" said Jane with a half smile. "Maybe not. I suppose he's as old—or even a little older than I am. So, of course, he's entirely mature and experienced and self-confident. But even at that, I wish you'd be decent to him, Dinah."

"I've got other things on my mind this morning," said Dinah.

"Won't you tell him, Dinah, that last night was a mistake? That some one gave you something to drink and you didn't realize——"

"You mean—he saw me—like that . . . ?"

"He happened to be——"

"All right!" said Dinah, her blue eyes blazing. "Then I'll never look him in the face again, all my days! I'll never speak to him again."

"You're cruel, Dinah!" said Jane with a sternness in her voice Dinah had never heard before.

"I don't care! That boy just doesn't mean one thing in my life, anyhow. And if he—saw me—I hate him!"

"Well," said Jane with a sigh. "I can't make you see in ten minutes what life's going to knock into your head in the next ten years. You've got something beautiful in that boy's devotion, and you won't realize it . . . Now I'll have to make a dash and get the bathroom before that awful Miss Parrish gets in there for her morning beauty bath. Be sure you're there at the door, ready to edge in the minute I come out, or you'll be late to work. And Dinah . . . Dinah—please think over what I've said about that boy. Things like that don't come so very often. There's not so much chivalry in the world as you might imagine."

"That Fiske boy'll be the last thing I think of," said Dinah. "When I've got that other—that memory . . ."

Jane in her neat, plain dressing gown went out of the room, and Dinah sat for a moment on the edge of her own bed. Her tears began to flow again.

"All right!" she said to herself. "All right! Perhaps he was a horrible sort of man . . . I know he drank . . . and I know how he acted to me. But I can't help it! That's the kind of man I could like. I don't mean a —horrible one, but—I mean——"

She was not quite able to put it into words for herself. But she knew what she meant. What she wanted was a man with a smart car, a man who could wear evening clothes with the air that one had had. She was eighteen and delightfully pretty. She wanted luxury and prestige and excitement.

"A man of the world . . ." she said to herself. "Even that one . . . Perhaps if I'd known him better . . . O, how can such a dreadful thing be true! That I—killed him . . . ? O, maybe I didn't . . . Maybe he wasn't dead . . . Jane could be mistaken . . ."

She was in a desperate hurry now to see the morning newspapers. If that horrible thing were true, then he had died early in the evening. Surely some servant, some friend would have discovered the tragedy within a short time.

"Because I just know he was somebody important," thought Dinah.

She had her bath, dressed and went downstairs to breakfast with Jane.

"Please, you look in the papers!" she whispered to her friend. "Because I—just can't."

Jane asked a man near their table to lend her his newsaper, and glanced through it tranquilly. Dinah watched her turn the pages with an absolutely steady hand.

"There's nothing," Jane said to her quietly.

Young Fiske was sitting at his table, an undesirable table, because he had a cheap room, and because, being able to eat anything, anywhere, as a rule, he had never made any protest at being put with a disagreeable elderly lady who was deaf and wouldn't admit it, and her equally elderly and disagreeable husband, whose chief, almost sole, topic of conversation was his ferocious hatred for the Democratic party.

But this morning young Fiske was not eating. He had three cups of coffee and half a roll, and his alert, dark young face looked worn, as if he had slept ill. He had said good morning to Dinah and Jane, and that was all; when he had finished his breakfast he rose and was leaving the dining room, when Jane rose, too, and stopped him just outside the doorway.

"Mr. Fiske," she said, "I've got to talk to you. It's important . . . Can you lunch with me?"

He was slow about answering.

well and Mrs. Robert P. Bates vice chairman.

Two Stage Events Hold Attention.

Those of society who didn't see and hear "Emperor Jones" Tuesday night —all of society seemed to be there that night, however—undoubtedly will be at tonight's performance at the Auditorium, for no one wants to miss that stunning show.

And those who haven't seen "Return to Folly" at one of the three north shore performances will have a chance to see it tonight in town, for it is being presented at the Grand Opera house. It was planned at first to have a matinée today, too, but that was canceled.

Tonight brings the première of Susan Glaspell's prize play, "Alison's House," in the Chicago Woman's club theater. Luther Greene, the young Virginian who has been in Chicago all of this winter, is directing the production and Marian Read, whom society remembers from last winter's Olivet benefit "When Chicago Was Young," is playing the lead.

In the audience will be the Graham Aldises, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Maynard Hutchins, Mr. and Mrs. Louis K. Boysen, Mr. and Mrs. James Herbert Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Pynchon, Miss Alice Gerstenberg, Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Leight, Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Follansbee, Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, and Mrs. Helen Walton.

Those who belong to the Fortnightly and the Friday clubs are having two delightful afternoons of music, one right after the other, for yesterday the former club had its May recital with Mme. Claire Dux as the artiste, and this afternoon the latter will have its May party with Minna Hager as the songstress. John Alden Carpenter, whose songs Miss Hager sings so charmingly, will accompany her.

Eli Bates Shop to Open Today.

"Bland words and smiles instead of tea," explained Mrs. Louis Skidmore yesterday when we asked about the open house the new Eli Bates shop at 612 South Michigan avenue is to have today. All of the members of the shop committee, including Mrs. William McCormick Blair, Mrs. Pauling Donnelley, Mrs. James B. Forgan Jr., Mrs. Donald F. McPherson, Mrs. Lawrence Robbins, Mrs. Morris K. Wilson, and Mrs. Skidmore, are to be the hostesses and show off the gay geranium decorations as well as the interesting stock.

Like the "mother" shop on Delaware place there are painted curtains, these done in red geraniums and black pots, and a ceiling painted in geranium red. An honest to goodness geranium blossoms in each window. The stock is composed of the same lovely Italian laces and linens, porcelains and glass that are sold on Delaware place.

Mrs. Skidmore, by the way, is expecting a World's Fair guest ahead of the opening of the exposition; Miss Elizabeth Keller is coming from Washington this week-end to see the Fair under Mrs. Skidmore's guidance. "I advised her to come now," Mrs. Skidmore commented yesterday. "I thought she might enjoy it more without benefit of crowds and hot weather."

Miss Mildred Wetten has asked us to announce the postponement of the Chicago Wellesley club luncheon from May 9 to May 16. The change has been made because the place of meeting—the little Tony Sarg tavern on the Enchanted island at A Century of Progress—is not yet completed.

Society Interested in Boat Show.

It is anticipated that Chicago will be more "lake minded" than ever this summer because A Century of Progress is located on the lake shore and the lake will be such a pleasant and easy way to reach the fair grounds. With this in mind, the men who are backing the national boat and sports show to open on the Navy pier today expect that socialites will flock to the foot of Grand avenue to see the latest in boats of every sort from Eskimo kayaks to luxurious cruisers. Some of the Chicagoans who have more than a passing interest in the show, which will continue through the 14th, are Sterling Morton, James R. Offield, Philip K. Wrigley, Kenneth Smith, Eugene McDonald, Sheldon Clark, and Ernst Schmidt.

The Council on Foreign Relations has asked the Palmer house chef to increase today's lamb chop order. So much interest has been manifested in the council luncheon this noon the location has been changed from the red lacquer room to the grand ballroom.

Prof. Jacob Viner of the University of Chicago will be introduced by Graham Aldis. Prof. Viner's topic will be "Inflation." Others at the head table will be Mrs. Viner, Prof. James Washington Bell of Northwestern university, Mr. and Mrs. Mark W. Cresap, Mr. and Mrs. Hermon Dunlap Smith, Donald Slesinger, and Dr. and Walter Lichtenstein, Mrs. Wilhelm L. Baum, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Kellogg, and Charles L. Strodel.

"Art and A Century of Progress" is to be Chauncey McCormick's subject this afternoon when he speaks in the lounge of the Cordon club in the Fine Arts building. Before the lecture there will be a conference of the artist members of the club . . . afterwards, tea.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel W. Greene of Chicago and Cohasset, Mass., announce the engagement of their daughter, Adelaide Marshall, to Reeves Brown II. of Cleveland, Tenn. Miss Greene is a senior at Vassar. The wedding will take place in July, at Holiday house, the summer residence of her parents at Cohasset. Mr. Brown is a graduate, class of '29, of the University of Virginia.

Mrs. Robert P. Lamont is back from Washington visiting her good friends, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore W. Robinson, and at the same time packing up a few of her more personal belongings in the family home in Lake Forest. The Edmund J. Doerings have rented the house for five months and will move in some time during the next few weeks.

Mrs. Lamont will return to Washington by Monday.

Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, who returned recently from two months in Arizona and California, is planning to spend the summer at her place in the woods near Traverse City, Mich., with perhaps occasional trips to Chicago to see the Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm E. Shroyer have another little girl. She was born Wednesday afternoon at the Evanston hospital and has been named Mariann.

'South Wind' Author Tells Story of Life

Norman Douglas Makes Use of Novel Method.

BY M. D.

"Looking Back," by Norman Douglas. [Harcourt-Brace.] Published yesterday.

Sixteen years ago Norman Douglas wrote a book that has come to be a classic in the English language. That book was "South Wind"—one of the most delightful, wicked, satirical, brilliant and poetic novels ever penned by a contemporary writer [and one incidentally that must have appreciably increased the tourist exodus to the enchanting island of Capri]— and the author received all told from its sale and popularity [he had to sell it outright because of his impecuniousness at the time] $375!

A description, though it is fragmentary and unfinished, of his life and habits makes it clear why Douglas has never known luxury or riches, except very spasmodically. He has been too busy, during his 65 years, living and learning and traveling to collect, in the manner of most men, money, a home and a family.

Though he writes many times with a curious restraint and reserve, there are passages in what he calls "an autobiographical excursion," "Looking Back," that flash and gleam with honesty, candor, and intuition.

This author is not only a litterateur and writer by trade; he is also a scientist of high repute and has written scholarly treatises that command the respect of specialists. He has delved at one time or another into, among other things, botany, zoölogy, mingeology.

The technical device which he uses to unfold his life is, as far as I know, new in the field of autobiographical writing. And it has its disadvantages in almost equal balance with its advantages. He says he has in his possession an antique jar given to him by a loving female as a reward for finding her more deeply loved dachshund. Into this jar over a period of many years has flowed a steady stream of cards, visiting cards, personal cards, informal slips of cards, and little notes affixed with signatures.

At random, apparently, he has picked out the cards to help bring back a flood of memories of life and people. Some of them draw absolute blanks, many only an expository line or two and quite a few long pages of interesting, sometimes nostalgic, sometimes romantic, sometimes amused and satirical explanations, and one or two that bring forth a few pages of pure narrative, almost in the form of a compact little short story. This technical method of personal revelations is highly mannered and artificial, its self-consciousness is sometimes painfully obtrusive. It also leads to a futile and frustrated discontent, almost peevishness, on the part of the reader [for instance, why, after such a tempting description of Russia and the two amazing young women there, can't we know the rest of that story].

But these random pin-prickings of the imagination I feel sure are deliberate, performed by a wicked man who snickers a little with his tongue in his cheek and his eyebrows raised. However, ultimately Norman Douglas succeeds through this very method in what he is trying to do: The impressionistic portrayal of his own elusive personality.

"All About Chicago," by John and Ruth Ashenhurst [Houghton-Mifflin] [Mrs. Ashenhurst is the daughter of Robert Morss Lovett], a guide that should stimulate the imaginations of travelers. Though it does not tell all, it tells enough to make the most distant man want to throw down his bags and hie himself to one of America's most interesting cities.

A guide book to the World's Fair, this time for children, has been written by Dorothy Aldis, "The Magic City" [Minton-Balch]. It tells of the delightful experiences of John and Jane who see everything the fair has to offer, both educational and entertaining, to youngsters. The book has charm and is written in a fresh, delicate, elusive style.

Child's Nurse Seeks Advice of Mrs. Bevans

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

One of the nicest things that happens to me in a day is when I find a letter like this—and I am finding them more and more often:

"I have the care of two little children every day. I have already grown to love them, but I am anxious to manage them as well as I can. I have had no training as a child's nurse but I thought you might have some leaflet that would help me."

Few girls and young women who earn their living by being nurses are trained for the work. But this does not mean that they cannot do it well, if they care about it and as the saying goes "put their backs in it."

Young women who are already caring for children naturally have little time for study of long books. But I know in advance that when they ask me for reading material it must be brief. For young nurses our booklet "How to Gain Obedience" gives practical advice based on a general understanding of children. The booklet on "Patience" and the leaflet "Don't Touch"—"How Not to Say It," added to the other make a usable trio. Each will be sent on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

What $10 Provides Baby When Infant Welfare Spends It

For $10 the Chicago Infant Welfare society can provide medical care, home nursing service, nutrition supervision, and cod liver oil for one child for one year, according to Sara B. Place, superintendent, who told of the work of the society yesterday. The society is joining the nation this week in the observance of Baby week, which had its origin here.

"The cost of allowing that child to become sick and then applying methods of cure would be many times greater," Miss Place said. "For this reason the society is asking the public to contribute, despite other demands, to make it possible for the Infant Welfare to continue the supervision of needy infants and their mothers."

Last year the number of mothers and babies coming to the 18 stations of the society for medical supervision rose to 25,289 from 15,780 in 1929, an increase of 55 per cent in the three year period. Infant Welfare nurses estimate that 90 per cent of the parents of their families are unemployed. Thirty-five doctors and 50 nurses serve the mothers and their children.

Showoff Cuts Girl Away from Many Friends

BY DORIS BLAKE.

A letter is before us from a heartsick, lonely young woman. Though we know she is heartsick and lonely, we'd still like to take the young lady by the shoulders, shake her and tell her to be herself and stop being the silly showoff she is. It's the showoff business that is cutting her off from friends. Girls don't understand her pose any more than boys do. The latter won't take the trouble at all to dig down and find the real girl. For she is there, real and fine, underneath this "defense front" of hers.

We can read between the lines and see exactly what is wrong with "Mabs." First, she overworks at trying to be the most popular girl in her crowd. She acts the loudest, laughs the loudest, behaves, as onlooking mothers characterize it, in a bold fashion. The truth of the matter is that the girl is shy underneath, sympathetic, a kind person. But, somehow, she lacks the poise necessary to be herself and goes to the other extreme when she's wound up.

Like many other shy girls she craves attention most awfully. She wants to be noticed. She hates her normal, natural, retiring qualities. So, to be noticed she does foolish things—and that's all that's wrong with the girl.

Girls in the teens, because they haven't the proper poise, are frequently tempted to follow the kind of program outlined above.

Now, if you want to go over big—be your honest-to-goddnes, true self. If you're retiring, don't try to be the noisy one of the group. Try not to hide your light under a bushel, of course.

There is no act to win friends for yourself like being what you are with all the natural, normal improvements you can add to that real you.

MINUTE MYSTERY
BY H. A. RIPLEY.

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

CASE NO. 261.

"It'll be hard to identify those fingerprints," said Sergt. Reynolds as the photographer "shot" eight streaks tapering to the edge of the outside window sill on the third floor. The newly built home of Judson Taylor, a frame house of colonial design, was set directly in the center of a valuable piece of property a block square.

Taylor and Anderson, his brother-in-law, were making a final inspection of the building when the tragedy occurred. Anderson said Taylor opened the window, facing north, leaned out and looked up at the top of the house. He was unable to give a lucid explanation of what followed, stating that he heard Taylor scream and the next instant disappear from sight.

As he was sure his brother-in-law had no reason to commit suicide he figured Taylor leaned too far out and had lost his balance. He died at the hospital an hour later without regaining consciousness.

Prof. Fordney, called to the scene of the tragedy, discovered a fountain pen with the initials A. A. pressed into the ground by the weight of Taylor's body.

"Don't you think Anderson ought to explain that bloody scratch on his face, sir?" Reynolds asked. "And the fresh footprints on the roof that fit his shoes? I'm not jumping to conclusions, professor, but——"

"You're right, son," agreed Fordney, handing him the pen which he had placed in an envelope. "You have your first clew to this murder, but much will have to be explained before you finish the case!"

HOW DID FORDNEY KNOW IT WAS NOT AN ACCIDENT?

Midnight Sleeves Contrast with Daytime Ensemble

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Things are setting down to a kind of comfortable quiet in Paris after the deluge of the summer style shows. Women, with only personal decoration and protective covering to think of, are picking out their clothes. They take no chances this season, these ladies. They are picking winners, good for a long cross season run. The few styles on which the dressmakers, to a woman and man have agreed are going over with private customers.

One of these is the dress, or coat, in some light color with midnight details. These midnight details, when applied to light dresses, run mostly to sleeves and shoulder yokes. Vionnet shows frocks in palest tint yellow with black yokes and sleeves. Mme. Jeanne Lanvin has pale beige, blue and green frocks with dark brown, black or midnight blue yokes and sleeves, and so on. Lucien Lelong shows 'em in the prettiest pale pinky beige with dark blue sleeves and yokes and belts, as per illustration.

The dress, as you perceive, is a practical daylight frock, and is made of beige crêpe silk. It has elbow sleeves, round yoke, and arm-eye bands of dark blue flat crêpe, and a round band collar of the same edging the rather deep round neckline. Collar, bands, and cuffs are stitched with beige silk thread, and so is the tailored belt. The buckle is mother of pearl, and the flower that is placed on the front of the round collar is also made of mother of pearl.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

"There was a time not so long ago when a woman of 30 looked much older than one of 45 or 50 today," says Emil Einhorn, well known consulting chemist of New York City.

To the general use of face creams Mr. Einhorn attributes this modern day phenomenon. If it weren't for these same creams, the chemist insists, today's women would get older looking at an earlier age than their predecessors. This because of the strenuous life we now lead.

"Of all the creams in cosmetic use today," says Mr. Einhorn writing in one of the better known trade papers," the humble cold cream really should have first place on milady's dressing table."

He argues for the humble cold cream on the basis that beautiful, firm and healthy looking skin must first and last be clean. The cream not only cleans, but helps to replenish some of the oils that have been extracted by the use of soaps and from other causes.

The use of a strongly alcoholic astringent is not in as high favor with the consulting chemist as the cleansing cream. He, like almost every well known ethical student of the skin, puts cold water forward as the perfect astringent. Especially does this pertain to dry skin. Cold water or ice is preferable to an astringent with alcoholic content.

With oily skin the astringent may be used with comparative freedom. But even with the oily skin, the cold water and ice are recommended to rehabilitate the sluggish glands and cells. This may be used along with the astringent. The cold water applications may be indulged in first, then the astringent on the oily skin.

It appears all bootlegging activity has not been confined to liquor. Bootleggers of a very bad grade of cream are known to have been operating. The public's safeguard against these inferior preparations put out by unscrupulous dealers is to purchase only materials with a reliable trade name attached to them.

Jack in the Pulpit.

BY NANCY CABOT.

The background of "Jack in the Pulpit" is a bit hazy and confused. Almost every state in the union claims it as its own. In this respect it is like the swastika and shoo-fly patterns. If you choose a quilt pattern for its design, this is a very popular one; if you choose it for its historical importance it will fill the bill, too, for it is a pattern of very early Colonial origin.

For a pattern of this quilt design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn.

U. S. RECOGNITION OF MANCHUKUO IS JAP ENVOY'S AIM

Viscount Ishii Sails for Talks with Roosevelt.

TOKIO, May 4.—(AP)—Viscount Kikujiro Ishii, a former ambassador to the United States, left today for his conferences with President Roosevelt to defend Japan's rôle as a "primary defender of the peace in the orient" and to urge American recognition of Manchukuo.

If the American President offers an opening for such arguments the 67 year old statesman is also prepared to defend the Japanese conquest of Manchuria and the establishment therein of the Manchukuo government.

Accompanying the viscount are Eigo Fukai, vice governor of the Bank of Japan, and seven advisers and secretaries. They went by train to Yokohama, whence they sailed for the United States on the Tatsuta Maru.

Says Rôle Is Political.

Before leaving Viscount Ishii said that his rôle at the White House talks and later at the world economic conference in London would be primarily political. The economic aspects of the mission, he added, will be left to Fukai, a leading Japanese business man who attended the Versailles peace conference and who was a Japanese delegate to the Washington arms conference in 1921.

Probably the first and most vital task he will have in Washington, Ishii said, will be to learn from the President just how far and in what directions the idea of a consultative pact to implement the Kellogg-Briand peace treaty has developed.

"This is of the utmost importance to Japan, and we are still ignorant about what has been done," said Viscount Ishii regarding the latest peace proposal. "In view of recent history, obviously Japan must proceed with the utmost caution."

Japan to Assert Rights.

Other officials confirmed that Japan could accept a consultative pact involving the defining of aggressor nations only with the strongest reservations concerning Japan's rights to adequate self-defense forces. In view of "special conditions in the orient," where Japan considers itself faced with "menacing neighbors," the matter of a consultative pact must be studied carefully, they said.

Still smarting under the censure of the league of nations, which branded her as an aggressor against China, Japan is not at all likely to enter fresh agreements involving the danger of new forms of international censure and pressure, Viscount Ishii indicated. He added that he expected to be called on to rebut "the anti-Japanese representations" of the Chinese mission headed by Dr. T. V. Soong.

"It is futile to expect anything like the Ishii-Lansing agreement to result from the present visit to Washington," he said.

[The Lansing-Ishii agreement was an exchange of notes in November, 1917, between Robert Lansing, then secretary of state, and Viscount Ishii, then head of a special Japanese war mission in America. Under this agreement the United States recognized Japan had special interests in China. The agreement was superseded by the nine power pact in 1922.]

JAPAN'S PLANS FOR NEW DRIVE IN CHINA BARED

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

TIENTSIN, May 4.—Partially revealing Japan's plans for renewed military incursion in North China, an official spokesman at the headquarters of the Japanese military attaché said today: "Active preparations are under way for an attack on a much larger scale than ever before, especially through the participation of airplanes."

The main invasion is planned from Kupeikow pass through Miyun, said the spokesman. He said that the adversaries principally sought were 50,000 of Gen. Chiang Kai-shek's own troops now in the Miyun area under the direct command of Gen. Ho Ying-chin, the war minister.

Declaring the Japanese assault was scheduled for "a very early date," the spokesman admitted that smaller simultaneous engagements were likely south of other portions of the Jehol frontier.

CUBAN SOLDIERS CURB OUTBREAKS OF REBEL BANDS

Machado's Secret Police Dot Santiago.

BY ELLIOTT TARBELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO DE CUBA, May 4.—Santiago and Oriente province, scenes of Saturday's revolutionary uprising, were calm today. The sporadic outbreaks of rebel bands apparently have been throttled by the Cuban army after the killing of four prisoners by ley de fuego [law of flight] tactics yesterday at San Luis, 10 miles north of here.

Four rebel captives were being removed from a railway station to a prison when they "attempted to escape." Corp. Isidoro Gort Castenada leveled his pistol and shot them one by one in the view of a number of pedestrians. It was widely reported tonight that the mother of one of the slain prisoners was killed by soldiers after she had protested to military authorities.

Military authorities today indefinitely suppressed Las Noticias Santiagos, the only afternoon newspaper here, for publishing details of the new "law of flight" killings. It is expected that Santiago will clamp a rigid censorship on foreign correspondents tonight.

Three government planes have been circling over Santiago since yesterday morning and police are breaking up even small gatherings of students and others. Secret police are stationed in cafés, street cars, and all public places.

BRITAIN HOLDS IRISH OATH BAN IS NOT SECESSION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 4.—J. H. Thomas, secretary for dominions, today declared in the house of commons that deletion of the oath of allegiance to the king from the Irish Free State constitution yesterday does not amount to an act of secession. The Free State, although committing a breach of the Anglo-Irish treaty, is still as much a member of the British commonwealth of nations as ever, Thomas said. He declared the swearing of an oath does not involve the question of allegiance.

PRANKISH U. C. BOYS RAID CO-ED FRENCH HOUSE

Some twenty-five youths, from all indications a group of University of Chicago students bent on nothing more serious than a prank, stormed the French house, a girls' dormitory at 5810 Woodlawn avenue, late last night.

The girls were not alarmed, although the youths broke several windows, climbed into the first floor rooms, and carried out a few articles of furniture as souvenirs. But Mlle. Perrenoud, the house mother, was so astonished by this example of American rowdyism that she called the police. Sergts. Joseph McCabe and Orville Christerson from the Hyde Park station responded and for their benefit Mlle. Perrenoud broke a house rule and spoke English.

"I was ill and I was greatly disturbed by the noise," she said. "I came down to see what was the trouble and it was well for the boys that they had gone. Upstairs I have a pistol, and if they return again I shall shoot."

None of the stormers, so far as the sergeants could learn, had been identified.

THE GUMPS—O, TELL ME, PRETTY MAIDEN

KENTUCKIANS SAY LADYSMAN JUST CAN'T WIN

But He's Still Choice in Derby at 2-1.

BY FRENCH LANE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., May 4.—Critical Kentuckians—wise about horse flesh—picked all kinds of flaws in the Kentucky Derby favorite, Ladysman, here today.

They found so many things wrong with him 48 hours before the $50,000 battle was to be run, it was expected the odds against him in the betting would go up. But the odds didn't skyrocket for some reason or other, and Ladysman continued to rule as the choice at 2 to 1.

It Is Cash That Counts.

The Kentuckians who sized up Ladysman and found him wanting did a great amount of talking, but apparently did not back up their judgment with any cash. And it is the old hard or soft dollars and not the words of a big lunged hoss critic that is the barometer of Derby betting.

What did the Kentuckians find wrong with Ladysman? What didn't they find wrong with him as he paraded before the skeptical railbirds at ten minutes before 6 o'clock this morning?

"He has an effeminate head and won't do in a gruelling mile and a quarter struggle," said one of the Kentuckians. "He has the worst looking knees I ever saw on a good race horse," remarked another one.

Claim He's Too Light.

"He's scrawny and puny and doesn't weigh over 870 pounds," chattered another fellow. "A horse that can win the Derby should weigh at least 1,000 pounds. Bubbling Over, Reigh Count, Twenty Grand, Gallant Fox and Burgoo King were up around 1,100 pounds when they scored their Derby victories."

"But what about Old Rosebud?" the Kentucky horseman was asked by a plunger from Chicago who has been betting on Ladysman ever since the Derby entries were announced last February. "How much did Old Rosebud weigh?" he persisted.

"Well, only about 860," admitted the Kentuckian.

"And how about Old Rosebud's knees?" asked the Chicagoan.

The Kentuckian retreated after he admitted that Old Rosebud had the worst looking knees on any horse that ever paraded to the post in the Derby.

Stotler Says He Is O. K.

Bud Stotler, the trainer of Ladysman, did considerable chuckling as he overheard his Derby charge condemned from every direction.

"He's a fit horse, as fit as any horse that ever went to the post in any race, and if he fails I'll not have an excuse to offer for him," said the confident Stotler. "Maybe he doesn't satisfy the folks here, but he's all right as far as I'm concerned. A horse never trained better for me and his works have told me he can run as far as horses run nowaways."

Ladysman, although under saddle, wasn't asked to do any serious work today and his stablemates, Pomponius, and Pompoleon, were also permitted to take things easy. After they galloped around the track Trainer Stotler took them into the Churchill Downs paddock and permitted them to get acquainted with the surroundings there. He also sent them up to the Derby starting point and permitted them to linger there for a time.

Stotler admits Pomponius may be a better horse than Ladysman. "I don't know just how good he is." Stotler said today. "He will be doing his best to win."

Are Sure to Start.

The latest lineup on the Derby field includes 15 colts which stack up as sure starters and three others that are doubtful starters. The 15 which seem certain to go to the post are: Ladysman, Pomponius, Head Play, Charley O, Broker's Tip, Mr. Khayyam, Trace Call, Sarada, Kerry Patch, Spicson, Strideaway, Dark Winter, Inlander, Isaiah, and Fair Rochester.

The three doubtful starters are Good Advice, Silent Shot, and Pompoleon.

The Derby crowd began to storm in on Louisville tonight and hotel rooms were at a premium. Many of the early arrivals, unable to get hotel reservations, were moving into the outskirts of Louisville or out into automobile camps to stay until Derby day.

WALTER HAGEN VS. SARAZEN: WHAT A MATCH!

And What a Lesson for The Novice Armour Finds in It

[This is the second of a series of articles on golf by Tommy Armour, who recently came to Chicago to become professional at the Medinah Country club. He has been ranked as one of the world's leading players for nearly a decade, having won every major title open to professionals.]

BY TOMMY ARMOUR.

FEW greater dramas have ever taken place in the athletic world than the one enacted between Walter Hagen and Gene Sarazen the first time they met in the professional championship. It was in 1923 at Pelham, N. Y., that these two great monarchs of the golf links met for the first time in championship play, and although to the average spectator it was merely a golf game between two great players, those on the inside realized it was of much greater significance.

WALTER HAGEN.

Walter Hagen at that time was generally accepted as the leader of American golf, even though the youngster Sarazen had won the American open and the P. G. A. championship. Hagen occupied a unique position in the eyes of the golf fans. He was the second homebred who had broken through the supremacy of the old world professionals. The first one was Johnny McDermott, but Hagen was different from McDermott. He was a new type, and the first to depart from the old bandana wearing type of professional. In fact, he was exactly the opposite, very quiet, reserved and immaculate in his dress.

Hagen and Sarazen Bring Two New Types Into Game.

Hagen did not smoke or drink, but in spite of all these differences from the then accepted type of great professional he had the quiet modesty that spelled poise and determination. He was an innovation. New and different, he soon attracted the attention of golf writers and the golfing public. In the few brief years he had been before the American public he had built around himself an atmosphere of aloofness he still retains. Hagen never allowed himself to be patronized, and his quiet dignity off and on the golf course soon established for him a high position in the minds of the players and the public.

Sarazen, his opponent in this memorable contest, also occupied a unique position in professional golf. Up to the time of his winning the open championship, golf had been confined to the Scotch-English and a few American professionals. When he won it he was the first Italian and the second Latin ever to win a championship. He was the forerunner of a new generation of golfers, who now crowd out the Nordics in the winning columns of the golf tournaments.

Sarazen was new, he was something different. Few athletes have had the intense desire of personal conquest that distinguishes Sarazen. He exemplifies the will to win and when the meeting of these two stalwarts of the links took place it was a battle between a new king and a newer king of golf, each striving to assert his supremacy.

37 Holes of Wonderful Playing and Then—the 38th.

Hagen—cool, determined, apparently phlegmatic, with nerves of steel. Sarazen—intense, determined, impetuous, and a great fighter. What a golf match! Legions of stories have been written about Bobby Jones' great matches, whereas they were really dull affairs, owing to his great supremacy over the other amateurs.

Although little has been written

SILAS JOHNSON YIELDS ONE HIT; REDS WIN, 4-0

Cincinnati Pitcher Faces Only 27 Braves.

Boston, Mass., May 4.—(AP)—Silas Johnson, Cincinnati right hander, today held the Boston Braves to one hit as his teammates batted out a 4 to 0 victory. Only 27 batters faced Johnson, for Wally Berger, who made the only Boston hit in the second inning, was thrown out in an attempt to steal second base.

Johnson did not have a strikeout or yield a base on balls. Berger was the only Brave to reach first base. Only seven Boston batted balls went out of the infield. Score:

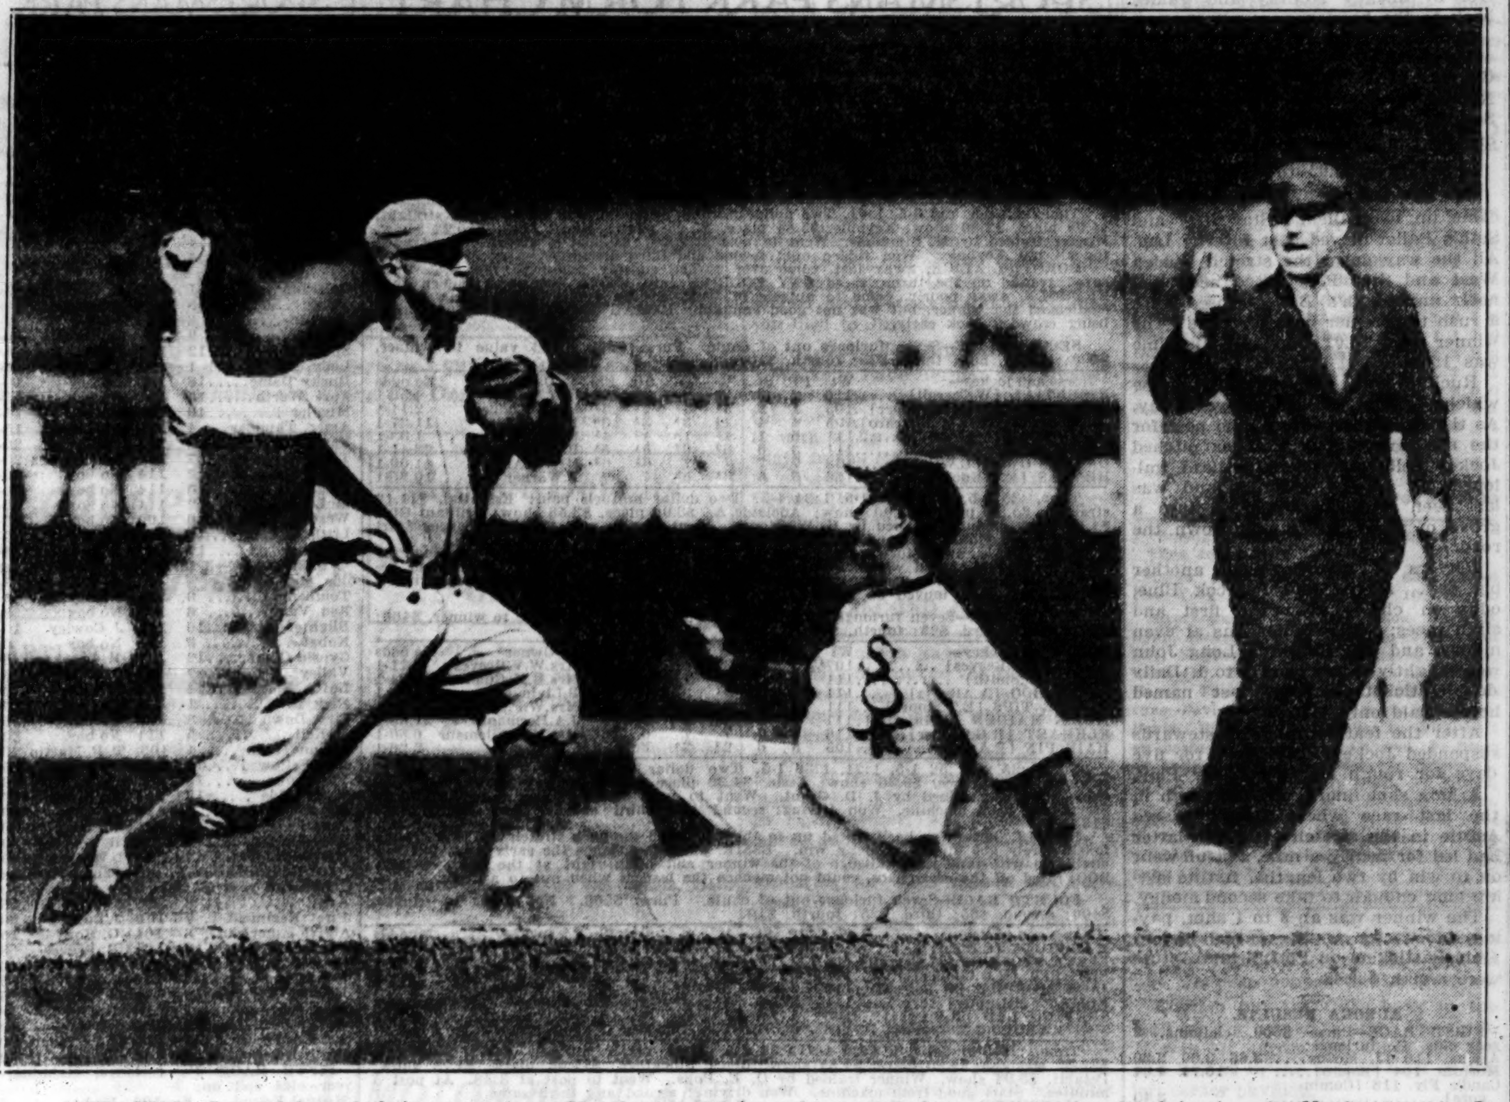
Mayor Kelly Too Busy to Attend Derby, He Says

Mayor Edward J. Kelly, who was reported yesterday among the Chicagoans holding reservations for the Kentucky Derby at Louisville, said last night he had no intention of attending the race.

"I have plenty to do in Chicago," the mayor stated. "I like horse racing and wish it were possible for me to see the Derby, but I am more concerned with efforts to obtain pay for teachers and other problems of my office."

Reservations at hotels in French Lick, Louisville and nearby towns indicate the largest Chicago crowd the Derby has attracted since 1929.

WHEN SOX RESUMED WINNING WAYS



The White Sox celebrated their return from Cleveland yesterday, after a two day postponement, by defeating the Macks, 2 to 1. It was a great day for Simmons, Dykes, and Haas, former Athletic stars, but at the time this picture was taken it didn't look so good for Chicago. An incipient rally was nipped when Kress hit into a double play, Bishop (left), taking the throw from Cihocki to get Appling at second. The umpire is McGowan.

Giants Win, 2-1, 5-4, and Why Not? Cubs Make Six Errors

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 4.—The Chicago Cubs' defense this afternoon curled up in most surprising and distressing fashion. The net result of the collapse was the loss of both ends of a double header to the New York Giants, 2 to 1, in the first game, and 5 to 4 in the second. The erratic play of the champions consisted of six scoreable misplays during the afternoon, to say nothing of a series of fuzzy episodes such as misjudged flies, four stolen bases, etc., which did not get into the records as technical errors.

There were two errors in the first game, and one, a great heave by Hartnett, swept away a 1 to 0 lead which Bud Tinning was enjoying at the time. In the second game there were four errors listed as such, with much staggering about which you will not discover in the box score.

Tough Luck for Bush.

Guy Bush was the victim of his team mates' disturbing behavior, three of the Giants' runs being unearned. There were really four that the Giants didn't earn, but one of them came when a pop fly which Stephenson misjudged fell for a double when it should have been a third out. The fourth and tying Giant run resulted from this spurious hit. The winning marker came in another step of the same panic, for Jurges recovered the ball which Stevie should have caught and threw it far past the plate while run No. 5 scored.

Hartnett had two errors, one in each game, and couldn't find second when the runners were running thereto. In addition Gabby forgot to back up a play on which Stephenson took an error and which enabled the Giants to score their second run.

The double tragedy cast the Cubs back to seventh place. They have some hope of doing better against the Boston Braves tomorrow, but they will have to bat against Ed Fallenstin, who shut out the Giants on three hits his last time out. Root will ask some support from the lads.

Babe Herman Has Good Day.

The outcome rather overshadowed some nice work. Babe Herman, for instance, made three hits, walked twice, and stole two bases in the first game, and his triple accounted for the first three Cub runs in the second game. Woody English got a homer in the second game to give the Cubs a 4 to 3 lead which, with heads up work the rest of the way, would have been enough to win.

The Cubs made their only run after two were out in the first inning. Fitzsimmons threw out Demaree and Bill Herman, but Babe Herman got the first of his three hits and executed the first of two thefts of second. Stephenson walked, English singled to left, Babe Herman scoring and Stephenson stopping at second. Fitzsimmons deflected Grimm's smash to Critz, who threw to first to retire Grimm and the side.

When Tinning got out of the Giants' first inning without allowing a run it appeared his luck was with him, a deduction that proved a fallacy in the fifth inning.

Critz doubled with one out in the first. Then Ott walked on four pitches and Leslie filled the bases by walking on five pitches. The first three pitches to Davis were wide, but thereafter Bud steadied. He threw two strikes and

U. S. DAVIS CUP TEAM TO MEET MEXICO TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, May 4.—The United States Davis cup team opens a campaign here tomorrow which it hopes will lead to the challenge round against France. Wilmer Allison, second ranking American player, will start the first round of the North American zone play against Dr. Ricardo Tapia, Mexican veteran. Cliff Sutter, third ranking player in the United States, then will face Esteben Reyes.

On Saturday George M. Lott Jr. and John Van Ryn will play a Mexican team, as yet unnamed. The series will be concluded Sunday with Sutter playing Dr. Tapia and Allison meeting Reyes.

The winner of this series will play Argentina at Washington, D. C., the latter part of the month in the American zone final. The victor at Washington then will meet the European zone champion, which series will produce the challenger for the French.

HIGH WIND AND ERROR PRODUCE WINNING MARGIN

Chicagoans' Defense Saves Day.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox didn't overlook their chance yesterday to demonstrate to Connie Mack that he did them a great favor last winter when he transferred three of his "greats" to Chicago. The demonstration was so neat, also so effective, that the remains of the Athletics' once formidable machine was beaten, 2 to 1, in a battle that revealed the south siders' best company manners.

The Mackmen had to contend with a little of everything devised to discourage run production. Foxy old Sam Jones refused to let them do much hitting and his mates didn't betray him in the few instances where he could make good use of outside assistance. And as further annoyance to the Macks there was a high head wind, which not only kept the renowned Jimmy Foxx from a couple of possible homers, but which assisted the Sox materially in the production of their only two runs.

Wind Helps Sox.

Despite the cold, which had 3,000 hardy spectators shivering in their shoes, old man Jones seemed to get hotter as the affair progressed. All of the hits off his well controlled foolers came in the first six innings. Two of these were paired in the second, one being a drive by Foxx that the wind blew down to a double. Another appeared in the fifth and two were uncorked in the sixth when Jones had his most troublesome moments. After this he didn't permit an enemy to reach base, although this achievement might not have been recorded if Jim Dykes hadn't leaped up to pull in a line drive off Pinch Hitter McNair's bat in the eighth.

Merritt [Sugar] Cain, who pitched seven innings for the Macks, was no simple problem for the Sox, but he must have mislaid his rabbit's foot. He stopped them on four hits after the first inning, but it was the first that made all his subsequent labors useless. A youngster in the Mack ensemble kicked one. The wind assisted Al Simmons to disturb his former boss with a triple that should have been an out, and Evar Swanson notched a single. All this was converted into two runs, and Jones, as it turned out, needed no more.

Jones Shows Stuff.

What the veteran Jones has done in the current campaign is worthy of review. He made his maiden appearance April 18 at Detroit and shut out the Tigers on seven hits. On April 26 he turned up against the same outfit and this time held it until the third and tying run went across with two out in the ninth. The game finally was lost by Joe Heving. That gives Jones a record of two victories, no defeats, and a yield of four runs in 26 2-3 innings.

Cihocki, who is in the habit of erring, kicked Hayes' roller in the first inning. That was the mishap which proved highly valuable in the collection of the Sox's two runs. Haas followed with a high fly to center and Swanson forced Hayes on a bounder to Bishop. Simmons stepped up and whacked a high fly toward right, but Johnson failed to make proper allowance for the wind. The ball dropped close to the foul line for a triple, Swanson scoring. Appling singled into right to score Simmons. The early spurt closed with Johnson taking Kress' fly. After this Johnson was moved to left. Connie Mack didn't like the way he handled Simmons' drive.

Foxx Hits One.

Foxx was instrumental in halving Jones' two run lead in the second. The home run artist banged one solidly to left to open the inning and it bounced off the scoreboard for a double. He went to third on Johnson's infield out and scored when Finney singled to right. Then there wasn't another safety off Jones until Johnson led off in the fifth with a single to center. Jones fixed that in a hurry by starting a double play on Finney's bounder.

All sorts of complications confronted Jones in the sixth, and he pulled out with Foxx trying to clean up with a full house. Cain singled to center with one out and Bishop singled to left. Cramer popped foul to Dykes. A pass to Cochrane filled the bases. Foxx boosted a fly to center and Hayes, after starting back for it, decided Haas could get it. Haas raced in, discovered the wind was driving the ball back toward the infield, and yelled to Hayes to take it. Luckily Hayes was just where he should have been. He looked up and there was the ball coming down into his hands.

Two Sox Rallies Die.

For a few minutes in the home sixth the Sox thought they were in for a big party, but it didn't materialize. Haas led off with a single over short and Swanson singled to right. This brought up Simmons, but he fanned. Appling still remained as a hope, but he bounced to third and a double play was consummated. The seventh also was opened with a single, Kress being the author, but he expired on second after being moved there by Dykes' sacrifice.

DIAQURI WINS AGAIN; DEFEATS MAKING BUBBLES

Two Close Finishes Thrill Sportsman's Crowd.

BY PAT PATTEN.

Diaquri, a 5 year old mare, sent many of the 2,500 patrons to the pay-off windows at Sportsman's Park yesterday following the running of the River Forest purse, feature on the day's card.

The profit taking, while on a more widely distributed basis than the day before, when Diaquri beat Miss Melody, naturally did not reach the same level of return, but the $5.68 passed back for each $2 certificate led to the conclusion that a daily bet on the mare might be profitable.

Two Score Doubles.

Making Bubbles, G. Keaton's brilliant sprinter, was touted as the entry to humble the daughter of Golden Broom. They went to the post identical choices at 5 to 2 and the ranking was justified when Making Bubbles cut down a three length lead to a fraction less than a length at the finish. Command Man was an ordinary third.

Different lived up to his name in the seventh when he started moving in the back stretch, overtook Duelist and won going away by two lengths. His prices were $56.62 to win, $16.76 to place and $6.90 to show, the best investment of the afternoon.

Two riders scored doubles, Lester Dye on Dorothy Alice in the first and Semester in the sixth, and Willie Carroll on Essential in the second and Different in the seventh.

Essential Is Winner.

Keyhole spoiled its own chances in the first race, a maiden affair for fillies, when she balked as the barrier went up. The filly rallied bravely, but Dorothy Alice, the favorite, was five lengths to the good and going easily at the finish. Moral Miss battled Keyhole all through the stretch, but was forced back to third by a nose. Dorothy Alice returned $6.66 for $2.

Essential thwarted favorite players in the second race coming through under excellent handling by Jockey W. Carroll to score by five lenths victory over Adelaide A. Brooksie, the favorite, which made the pace throughout the first half of the seven furlong test, weakened in the back stretch on the second time around and finished out of the money.

Hair Pin Falls.

The first tragedy of the meeting marred the third race when Hair Pin, ridden by Eddie Arcaro, fell and broke a leg. It was destroyed. Hair Pin, the favorite, was running a good second turning into the stretch when the mishap occurred. Arcaro was not injured.

The passing of Hair Pin turned the race into a duel between Hukill, a 7 to 1 shot, and Essie, the former winning by a nose to complete a daily double with Essential at $133.66. Hukill paid $15.42 to win, $8.70 for the place and $5.26 to show in the mutuels. Buzsy Boo was third.

Hair Pin, a 3 year old chestnut filly by Paicines out of Bassorah, belonged to Stuyvesant Peabody. It was Hair Pin's second time out this spring. It ran a poor sixth in a five furlong event Tuesday.

Maechute by a Nose.

Jockey Glenn Horn, clad in the red and black of M. H. Pons, wielded the stick throughout the last three furlongs of the fourth race to drive Maechute, an outsider, home in front for the second consecutive nose finish of the day. Petabit, a joint favorite with Sun Manor at 5 to 2, waged what appeared to be a winning battle during half of the seven furlong gallop, but succumbed to the furious drive of Maechute and Black Stockings.

Black Stockings took the place while Petabit was forced into third. Maechute paid $22.22. Black Stockings, which had been shut out four times this year, returned $17.02 to place, and $5.78 to show. Sun Manor was never better than fourth.

Today is ladies' day.

Seth's Ballot Is Right at Home in Aurora Mud

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Seth's Ballot lived up to his reputation as a mud runner yesterday by winning the feature race at Aurora over a track which was still heavy from recent storms. After trailing the field throughout the early stages of the mile and 70 yards run he moved into third place on the lower bend and came on the outside to catch the leader a sixteenth from home. He went on to win by a neck from Star Play, which had a margin of a head over Golden West.

When the betting opened it seemed that Seth's Ballot and Golden West would enjoy the bulk of the support, for both have been highly popular with Aurora crowds. Each won a race on opening day and Golden West followed up with a second victory on Tuesday. Moreover, they were being ridden by two of the most popular jockeys at the track, Lonnie Hendricks on Seth's Ballot and Jimmie McCoy on Golden West.

Odds Change Fast.

However, the wagering had been going on only a few minutes before the fans were betting strongly on nearly every horse in the race. Ruckus dropped from 6 to 1 to 7 to 5 and finally closed at 2½ to 1. Meanwhile Golden West was forsaken and went to the post at 8 to 1. Seth's Ballot alone retained his followers, opening at 7 to 5 and closing at even money.

As the field of five lined up at the starting gate Ruckus broke away and galloped off across the infield. After running far down to the end of the grounds he was brought under control by Jockey McCray and guided back to the barrier.

Star Play and Inferno Lad went out to make the early pace, with Golden West in close attendance. Ruckus moved into fourth position and Seth's Ballot settled into last place on the run down the back stretch.

Pays $4.02 to Win.

On the lower bend Golden West came up to challenge Star Play and Seth's Ballot moved past Inferno Lad. All the way down the stretch Golden West and Star Play raced neck and neck until Seth's Ballot closed with a rush to conquer both of them. The winner paid $4.02 to win. His time was 1:56 2-5.

Ruckus was not the only horse which got out of control yesterday. As the field was going to the post for the sixth race Flag Catcher pitched Jockey Fellingame over his head, galloped out of the grounds, and was last seen as he disappeared into a grove of trees half a mile down the road.

Players of favorites had another big day. Altena and Peacock Blue, odds on choice, won the first and sixth races; Seth's Ballot was at even money, and Bill Lutz and Long John were slightly better than 2 to 1. Daily double tickets on the last named horses paid only $12.82.

After the feature race the stewards suspended Jockey J. W. Frye for five days for rough riding on Star Play.

A long shot finally came through in the last race when Potfull passed Astute in the stretch after the latter had led for nearly a mile. Potfull went on to win by two lengths, Astute lasting long enough to take second money.

The winner was an 8 to 1 shot, paying $18.42 for a $2 mutuel ticket. Quinella tickets on Potfull and Astute were worth $89.48.

OFF TO LOUISVILLE AND DERBY

Democrats led the way to Louisville last night. Seventy-five of them boarded the Democratic special over the Monon, bound for French Lick, Ind., where they will stop off for golf today. The party will go to Louisville for the Kentucky Derby tomorrow and return to French Lick tomorrow night. Most of the Chicago contingent, however, is making the trip by automobile this year. DOROTHY ALICE, away fast, came over rather sharply going to the first turn, saved ground on the turns, raced GAY FOLLIES into defeat, and won ridden out. KEYHOLE, away poorly, came to outside in back stretch and under hustling tactics challenged the winner, but was not good enough. MORAL MISS closed a gap after being crowded back early.

Winner trained by C. W. Moore. Went to post at 2:48. Off at once. Start good from machine. Won easily; second and third driving.

ESSENTIAL, away forwardly, raced BROOKSIE into defeat, repulsed challenge by BRILLIANT GIRL, and won drawing out. ADELAIDE A., taken back early and restrained off the pace, moved up when BROOKSIE tired, but was no match for the winner. BRILLIANT GIRL moved up boldly after three-quarters, then tired.

Grant. Went to post at 3:18. At post 3 minutes. Start good from machine. Won driving; second and third same. Daily double paid $133.66.

HUKILL, never far back, raced up to the leaders on the back stretch and in a driving finish barely got up for a lucky win. ESSIE, away fast, made the early pace, but was unable to withstand the challenge of the winner and hung right at the end. BUZZY BOO, rated off the early pace, could not menace the leaders when put to a drive.

Winner trained by O. E. Pons. Went to post at 3:48. At post 5 minutes. Start good from machine. Won driving; second and third same.

MAECHUTE, saved off the pace soon after the start, raced up to the leader on last turn and gamely stood a long hard drive to win by a narrow margin. BLACK STOCKINGS, away slowly, gradually worked his way up and, going to the outside on last turn, took a short lead in the stretch and barely missed. PETABIT took the lead after going a half, but tired when put to a drive.

Went to post at 4:18. At post 8½ minutes. Start good from machine. Won ridden out; second and third driving.

DIAQURI, away with her usual rush, raced kindly around the turns, took a comfortable lead and was never headed, but was all out at the end. MAKING BUBBLES, crowded back shortly after the start when ALMA S. came over, raced around the field on the turns and was gaining on the winner. COMMANDMAN, fractious at the barrier, forced wide at the first turn, went to the leader on the second turn, but hung in the stretch drive.

GURGLER took the early lead, raced well on the turns, was not match for the winner but best of others. BOB CUSTER, fractious at the barrier and away poorly, came around entire field and closed with a rush in the stretch.

Winner trained by E. J. O'Connell. Went to post at 5:48½. At post ½ minute. Start good from machine. Won driving; second and third same.

VAGABOND, away forwardly and racing outside early leaders on the turns, was restrained after working into prominence, took lead in the stretch, and maintained it to the end. FLORENCE DOLAN, forwardly placed, raced kindly on the turns, challenged at head of stretch, but was not good enough. BOLD ROBIN, saved off the early pace, challenged gamely and closed well.

JOCKEY HANFORD DIES AFTER FALL IN PIMLICO RACE

Hurled from Horse; Suffers Skull Fracture.

Baltimore, Md., May 4.—[Special.]—Buddy Hanford, star jockey who had ridden winners in some of the greatest stakes on the American turf, died at South Baltimore General hospital this afternoon from injuries received when his mount fell in the sixth race at Pimlico.

Hanford had the mount on Apprehensive, owned by Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark. As the field swept round the first turn, Apprehensive stumbled and fell, throwing Hanford to the turf. The track ambulance rushed the jockey to the hospital. He died five minutes after arriving there.

Receives Skull Fracture.

Physicians said he had received a multiple fracture at the base of the skull.

Hanford had been signed to ride Trace Call, the Audley farm entry, in the Kentucky Derby Saturday at Churchill Downs.

Last season Hanford, then a youngster of 20, fought his way up to the first rank of American jockeys. The Nebraska boy improved each season and old timers of the turf were comparing him with Tod Sloan, Snapper Garrison, Pony McAtee, and Earl Sande.

Good Judge of Pace.

"Hanford had that knack of finishing that made Garrison and McAtee so popular," a veteran trainer said tonight. "He was as alert at the start as any jockey I've ever known, and he judged pace to perfection. He always got the most out of every horse he rode."

Apprehensive was in sixth place in the Pimlico race today when Hanford tried to take him to the outside and gain a place with the leaders. Then the horse stumbled.

The winner was Happy Anne, which paid $9.80. Chatwater, the other horse in the Clark entry, was unplaced.

STARTED IN CHICAGO.

Bernard Hanford, who was killed yesterday at Pimlico, first came into prominence by his excellent work as an apprentice on the Chicago tracks in the summer of 1930. For three years he rode for Roy Pollard, but his contract with the western horseman expired last June and Preston Burch signed him. During the winter he rode for Joseph E. Widener at Hialeah Park, Miami, Fla.

FEED BOX DOPE.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 4.—Broker's Tip is in the air again during this inflation market for the first time since the wild stock market days of 1929. Therefore it seemed appropriate in our morning round at Churchill Downs to visit the Idle Hour stock farm barn, where a Black Toney colt of that name is the main Derby hope of Col. E. R. Bradley.

Enthusiasm for a Bradley entry, the only owner who ever has won the Derby three times, is tempered somewhat, however, by his published statement that he thinks Ladysman will win with Broker's Tip second. On the other hand, the White and Green has figured in so many Derbies that it seemed only fair the colt should have a chance at least to air his own impressions.

"Good morning, Mr. Wake," said Broker's Tip a bit disconsolately, it seemed to us. "Thank you for coming to see a forlorn hope."

"O, I wouldn't say that," we replied cheerfully. "Why do you talk that way?"

"Well, Mr. Wake, I'm going to speak freely to you because you've been to Idle Hour and know Dad and other members of our family. To tell you the truth, I'm pretty well broken up, really more hurt than discouraged. It isn't good policy to disagree with your boss and I know he's a keen handicapper, but I'm going to prove Col. Bradley mighty wrong this year. Yet I couldn't help thinking about it even while I was going that trial over the full route on a slow track this morning in 2:08 3-5, which is a fast enough trial for anybody's money.

"Did you ever see a horse trained at our farm that did not do all expected of him? Sometimes there are better horses, but we give all we have and often more than people think we have. It's characteristic of our entries. And I'm here to uphold that tradition of Behave Yourself, Bubbling Over and Burgoo King. Blue Larkspur should be in that list, too, for although Clyde Van Dusen beat him in the Derby on a muddy track, Larky reversed the verdict in the Arlington Classic, won the Belmont and generally was regarded as three year old champion. He stands among the biggest earners of American turf history with $272,070. That's the kind of horses Idle Hour sends out and I'm from Idle Hour.

"Col. Bradley, I think, will start one other. It probably will be Fingal, but it might be Bobsled.

"I started only four times last year and am still a maiden. In the Cincinnati trophy of six furlongs, Head Play beat me a length and a half, but critics generally agreed I was the best colt in the race, as I was almost left at the post and closed a lot of ground. Warren Jr. beat me in my first start this year at Lexington, but it was only a neck and I was a little short. My workout this morning is your best line on me.

"Hope you see my number go up Saturday. It would please Dad tremendously. You know he was also the father of Black Gold, although Col. Bradley did not own Black Gold.

"See you in Chicago, Wake, if not before."

We next sought Sarada, an easterner, which is generally being overlooked, although sired by Sir Gallahad III. with his mother a daughter of Omar Khayyam, Derby winner of 1917.

"You turf writing fellows haven't given me much of a tumble yet," remarked Sarada in mock complaint. "I'm not from a betting stable and we don't care particularly for publicity. Yet I'm well bred. Father, by a former marriage, was also daddy of Gallant Fox, and you remember him. Critics are kind enough to say I'm better looking that the Fox. Father's children won $156,437 last year with Gallant Sir and Happy Gal the principal earners. I accounted for $8,875 of it in nine starts with two victories and three times outside the money. This year Gallant Sir has won the Agua Caliente handicap and I won one of my two starts east with a race in fast time at Havre de Grace that put me just right for the Derby Saturday.

"Don't tell him I told you, but I happen to know that French Lane has a winter book ticket on me at odds of 40 to 1. So if I win, there won't be any sleep in your room Saturday night. Didn't tell you, eh? Well, he's holding out on you because I know. Naturally, I hope you have your party all right. Might drop into your hotel myself that night if my own guests go home early enough. See you Saturday."

Notre Dame, Ind., May 4.—[Special.]—Don Elser, 210 pound full back from Gary, Ind., ran back the opening kick-off 95 yards for touchdown to give the Notre Dame freshmen a 6 to 0 victory over the varsity today in the concluding game of spring practice.

Play was fairly even the rest of the way. The freshmen made five first downs to four. The varsity made only one first down in the first half and that on two successive penalties.

TIGERS WRECK GOMEZ'S NO HIT HOPES IN NINTH

Homer and Double Made in Last Inning.

Detroit, Mich., May 4.—(AP)—Charley Gehringer drove out a home run at the start of the ninth inning and ruined a prospective no hit game for Vernon Gomez, New York Yankee southpaw, today. The Yanks had little trouble winning the game, 5 to 2.

For eight innings Gomez didn't give a hit and, although he walked seven, no Tiger got past second base. Then Gehringer sent his first pitch in the ninth into the right field bleachers and Gerald Walker followed with a double that led to Detroit's other run. Score:

Milt Gaston to Face Boston in Opener Today

The Boston Red Sox, who are supposed to be showing a lot of new life, will be on hand today for the opener of a three game series. Milt Gaston will start for the White Hose and probably Bob Kline for the visitors. The usual Friday ladies' day will be observed.

The White Sox will make good use of their open date in the schedule June 17. They're going up to Milwaukee to battle the American association Brewers in an exhibition. It's Al Simmons' home town, so the venture should be a financial success.

There was a big argument in the press box in the fourth when Simmons poked a twisting grounder to short. Cihocki tried to reach the ball with one hand and succeeded only in deflecting it. The official scorer decreed it an error and discovered he was almost alone in his judgment.

One of the taps with which Foxx could have done damage in the fourth if the wind hadn't been blowing came down into Simmons' hands just in front of the pavilion in the left field corner. Simmons also lost a possible extra baser in the eighth when a terrific drive was held up long enough for Cramer to run back and get it in deep center.

SAVOLDI THROWS SONNENBERG IN EXHIBITION BOUT

Gus Sonnenberg, oldest graduate champion of the collegiate division of rassling, all but patented a so-called flying tackle. But Sonnenberg, who learned his technique charging over the gridiron for Dartmouth, never bothered to discover an antidote. Last night at the Coliseum, after 54 minutes of work, Jumping Joe Savoldi showed Gus a series of Notre Dame flying tackles and then plumped his 200 pounds on Gus to spreadeagle him on the mat.

Official attendance was 1,047 and the gross receipts were $1,793. Before this bout and each of the five preliminaries an anouncement was made that the wrestling was an exhibition only.

Sammy Stein, from New York, a professional football player, also used a flying tackle to push over aged Martin Plestina in 25 minutes. Glenn Munn of the Nebraska Munns couldn't throw Vic Soldat of Chicago in 30 minutes, but he received the referee's decision.

Jack Riley, Northwestern's footballer, drew Rudy Hoffman into an Indiana leghold for a fall in 11 minutes.

Walter Hagen vs. Sarazen: What a Match!

about this great Sarazen-Hagen match, in my opinion it should go down in history as one of the greatest sporting events of all time. This was no match between Bobby Jones and somebody else, but it was as if it were a match between Bobby Jones and Bobby Jones.

For 36 holes it was a match of beautiful fencing and wonderful shot making. At the finish of 36, they were all even. The 37th was halved with birdies. Then came the finishing hole, with as dramatic and unexpected result as we could expect to see.

The hole is approximately 300 yards long, with tall trees, tall grass and out of bounds on the left. Sarazen apparently drove his ball out of bounds, and though the welcome cry of "Safe!" was heard, everybody knew that his ball must be in a very bad position. Hagen hit a perfectly placed ball to the right of the green 30 or 40 yards from the pin, with a shallow bunker between his ball and the hole. For the great pitcher and putter Hagen was at that time it looked a certain three; for Sarazen, whose ball was lying in very deep rough down a bank to the left, it looked an impossible three and a tremendously difficult four. The match, therefore, looked as if Hagen would certainly win.

Sarazen trudged into the long grass after carefully looking the situation over, and after a moment's hesitation, selected a niblick, and with one quick look at the hole, tore the ball out of this terrible place and laid it dead to the pin for the impossible three. The cheering was terrific and prolonged. If the shot affected Hagen, there was no visible sign, but the result of his approach shot showed that he was very much affected.

He had the simplest shot to play, and yet this great artist of approach shots dubbed it completely, knocking the ball only a few feet from him and into the bunker. How could such a great golfer as Hagen play such a bad shot, and what were the reasons for it?

His iron nerves failed him for a moment and his concentration was gone. In swinging the club he committed one of the most common faults of the average player. His backswing and downswing were as fast as lightning, there was no perceptible slowing up at the top of his backswing, and not having any slowness at the top he lost the timing and balance, causing him to fall slightly into the ball. So the lesson for today is "Be slow at the top of your swing with all clubs." All good golfers do it.

New Equipment Tempts Purses of Outdoorsmen

BY BOB BECKER.

Every year some 6,000,000 to 7,000,000 hunters and many more millions of fishermen, campers, canoeists and trap shooters see a number of tricky pieces of equipment on the market to tempt their purses and make them roam the sporting goods stores with longing eyes. This spring is no exception.

There are any number of outdoor accessories making their debut and causing the ranks of the sportsmen to hum with discussions of their merits. Besides these novel new items there are others comparatively new, but not very well known to most outdoor fans.

Here are just a few of the purse teasers, all valuable accessories to the outdoor fan's list of equipment:

A new .410 gauge, six shot repeating shotgun. This is brand new and the most interesting thing about the gun, aside from the fact that it is a six shot, "trombone" action repeater is the shell it takes. Instead of the usual, small, .410 shell this gun takes the new 3 inch shell handling three quarters of an ounce of shot. When you stop to consider that the 20 gauge shell usually is loaded with seven-eighths of an ounce of shot it is easy to see how far the little .410 gauge has stepped out with its 3 inch shells carrying three-fourths of an ounce of shot.

Tracer shotgun shells—In the world war the tracer bullet idea was invaluable to gunners seeking to "get on" their target. Recently this idea has been applied to 12 gauge shot gun shells to help trap shooters and hunters improve their shooting. Each shell has a bright, burning tracer in it which the gunner can see plainly. It tells him if he is on his target. If not the tracer reveals whether he is above, below, ahead, or behind his moving target.

Wooden folding boat—Something new in folding boats. It opens up like a book, is light in weight, yet sturdy. When folded flat can be carried on an automobile. Weighs around 80 pounds [ten foot boat].

THEY'RE ALWAYS SURE OF A CROWD

Northwest Golf League Opens 5th Year May 25 at Edgewater

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Northwest Golf league, one of the leading competitive organizations in the Chicago district, will go into its fifth year on May 25 at Edgewater, according to an announcement yesterday by Fred W. Lietzow of Ridgemoor, founder and chairman of the league.

The league is composed of eight teams in the northwest portion of the Chicago District Golf association—Bunker Hill, Edgewater, Kildeer, Medinah, Park Ridge, Ridgemoor, Rolling Green, and Westward Ho. The championship was won by Ridgemoor in 1929, Sunset Ridge, no longer a member, in 1930; Ridgemoor again in 1931, and Bunker Hill last year.

The opening day schedule at Edgewater brings together Edgewater and Kildeer, Westward Ho and Rolling Green, Medinah and Ridgemoor, and Park Ridge and Bunker Hill. The remainder of the season's program follows:

Aug. 10 at Medinah—Edgewater vs. Westward Ho, Kildeer vs. Rolling Green, Medinah vs. Park Ridge, and Ridgemoor vs. Bunker Hill.

Aug. 31 at Ridgemoor—Edgewater vs. Ridgemoor, Kildeer vs. Park Ridge, Westward Ho vs. Bunker Hill, and Rolling Green vs. Medinah.

Sept. 21 at Park Ridge—Edgewater vs. Bunker Hill, Kildeer vs. Medinah, Westward Ho vs. Ridgemoor, and Rolling Green vs. Park Ridge.

Oct. 5 at Bunker Hill—Mixed event, opposing teams to be drawn later.

Another important event has been added to the Chicago golf calendar for A Century of Progress this year with the announcement that the national open tournament of the American Legion will be held at Olympia Fields on Oct. 2. It will be a 36 hole event. Among former winners of the title is Dr. O. F. Willing, finalist in the national amateur tournament of 1929 at Pebble Beach.

Fifteen year old Richard Herpich, playing at the Hickory Hills club recently, tried to call his shot at the 140 yard fourth hole, but didn't call it close enough and so took away a hole in one. Playing with Charles Meister, Richard drove off and predicted that his ball would be near the pin. When they reached the green he claimed the only ball visible on it his. Meister identified it as his, however, and on looking in the cup they discovered Richard's.

A performance chart of former tournaments similar to those found in horse racing will give fans and players alike a chance to see what has been done at North Shore, where the United States open will be played on June 8, 9, and 10. A complete record was kept of the average scores, together with the number of birdies and eagles made in the Western open of 1928 at North Shore, the last important event held there, and one in which a number of the National open entrants of 1933 competed. It was compiled on the basis of 477 rounds played by the professionals and amateurs who competed in the Western open at North Shore five years ago. It follows:

Hole.	Yrds.	Par.	Ave.	B'dies.	Eagles
1	429	4	4.71	9	0
2	[illegible]51	5	4.76	177	10
3	[illegible]57	3	3.475	24	0
4	[illegible]41	4	4.97	5	0
5	[illegible]45	4	4.5	26	0
6	418	4	4.43	23	0
7	536	5	5.235	57	3
8	218	3	3.66	8	0
9	393	4	4.33	41	0
10	431	4	4.73	8	0
11	344	4	4.24	45	0
12	545	5	5.5	37	1
13	185	3	3.49	28	0
14	345	4	4.35	45	0
15	501	5	4.78	164	6
16	147	3	3.29	44	0
17	415	4	4.83	9	0
18	420	4	4.75	11	0
Totals	6,730	72	80.03	761	20

Trying to better these figures already appears to be a job, for the course already has been lengthened to measure 6,927 yards for the open, five tees having been set back, 35 yards added to the second hole and 65 to the fourteenth. New traps will be found at the fourth, tenth, and sixteenth, not to mention 300 trees placed on the course since the Western open.

The qualifying round for the northern section Illinois high school championship will be held Saturday at the Hillcrest Golf club. Entries already have been received from Arlington Heights, Barrington, Dundee, La Grange, Maywood, Riverside, Highland Park, Wheaton, and University High.

Calumet Defeats Parker Nine, 5-2, on Only 2 Hits

Calumet's baseball team defeated Parker, 5 to 2, in a south section game in the Chicago Public High School league at Hamilton park yesterday. The winners were outhit, however, Ayres and Wood, Parker pitchers, allowing only two hits. Parker got only four hits off Larson. Score:

Parker ....000 010 1—2 4 4
Calumet ....211 010 *—5 2 2

Batteries—Ayres, Wood and Lemon, Hall; Larson and Forte.

Nine baseball games are scheduled today. Lane Tech will meet Senn in a north division contest at Logan Square park. In a west section game Harrison will play Crane Tech at McKinley park.

MOTOR BOAT AND SPORTS SHOW OPENS TONIGHT

The fourth annual motorboat and sports show will open this evening at 7 o'clock on Navy pier.

Boats of all description from the tiny sailing dinghy to the palatial cruiser will be on display, including Miss America X., Gar Wood's record breaking boat.

A casting pool has been erected and contests in this sport will be held each evening during the show, which will continue through May 14. Leading rifle shooters will compete in special events. There also will be an archery tournament and horseshoe pitching contests.

Cubs Make Six Errors; Giants Win, 2-1, 5-4

Giants Score Without a Hit.

And here is the record of the cheap tying run which the Giants made in the fifth: Jackson walked. Mancuso ran the count to three balls and two strikes and Jackson, of course, was running on the next pitch. Mancuso fanned, but Hartnett threw the ball high over Bill Herman's head, Jackson getting credit for a stolen base, after which he proceeded right on to third. He scored on Fitzsimmons' fly to Babe Herman. Bill Herman threw out Moore to make it a hitless, though disastrous inning.

Cubs Pass Up Chances.

Walks to Babe Herman and Stephenson with two out in the seventh gave the Cubs a chance, but English ended it with a fly to Davis. Hopes sank again in the eighth when Grimm tried to stretch his hit to left to a double. He was thrown out by 15 feet. Jurges fouled to Mancuso. Hartnett walked and Douthit ran for him. Koenig batted for Tinning and forced Douthit.

SECOND GAME

Jackson opened the Giant's third with the first hit off Bush, paused while Mancuso flied to Babe Herman, and scored on Parmelee's double to left center. Moore singled to left, and Parmelee decided to stop at third. Then he saw Stevie's throw bouncing to the boxes. Parmelee ran home, of course, and Moore was waved to third.

Jurges Keeps Score Down.

In the fourth the Giants tied the score and would have taken the lead but for a handsome bit of fielding by Jurges. Davis made it 3 to 3 with a homer into the left field pavilion and Vergez followed with a you-take-it double to short center. Jackson singled to short left and Vergez, not figuring Jurges' skill, tried to leg it home. Jurges, after making a dive to knock down the ball, scampered to his feet, recovered the ball, and threw to Hartnett in ample time to sink Vergez at the plate. Jackson stole second but Mancuso popped to Bill Herman.

English put the Cubs back in the lead with a homer to start the sixth. It was hit across the wind, and the ball landed in the second deck of the left center pavilion.

Cubs Get Worse.

The Cubs' sloppy play reached the zenith in the sixth. Hartnett dropped Ott's foul, after which Mel socked a single to center. Leslie forced Ott and went to second while Bush was throwing out Davis. Vergez walked. Ryan lifted an easy fly for what should have been the third out, but Stephenson misjudged the ball. It dropped for a phony double, scoring Leslie with the tying run. Jurges retrieved the ball but threw it away, Vergez scoring and Ryan taking third. Mancuso flied to Babe Herman.

MINISTERS HEAR CREED DECLARED ABSURD TODAY

New York Clergyman Stirs Episcopalians.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The Nicene creed, repeated at every service of holy communion in Episcopal and other branches of the Christian church, was attacked yesterday by the Rev. Wilbur L. Caswell, an Episcopal clergyman from Yonkers, N. Y. The address was made at the session of the national church congress which closes a four day meeting today at St. Luke's Episcopal church, Evanston.

The New York clergyman described adherence to that statement of the Christian faith as "preposterous today." Those who hold that the ancient formula embraces all Christian theology are deluding themselves, he asserted.

"Have we not lost much through our persistent tendency to regard the faith of the Christian as if it were chiefly an archeological study?" The Rev. Mr. Caswell asked. "Theology," he added, "might in many instances properly be called the obituary of the saints."

Evanstonnian Answers Sharply.

The Rev. Mr. Caswell was sharply answered by Prof. D. A. McGregor of the Western Theological seminary, Evanston, and head of the national department of religious education of the Episcopal church. Dr. McGregor said that the authority of Christian tradition, which Mr. Caswell was attacking, is based on far more than a set of doctrines.

The debates on fundamental doctrines and practices of the Episcopal church carried on at sessions of the congress, while almost always representing a sharp cleavage of opinions, are not to be regarded as evidence of the disunity of the Episcopal church, according to Bishop George Craig Stewart.

Bishop Stewart declared that differences such as between Bishop William Scarlett of St. Louis and Bishop Irving Peake Johnson of Colorado, in a debate Wednesday on whether reunion with Protestant churches should precede intercommunion or not, would never create a split in the Episcopal church. He declared such a rift to be unthinkable and that Bishop Johnson's attack on Bishop Scarlett's intercommunion service with Protestant ministers officiating at the altar was but a playful jest at Bishop Scarlett's expense.

Finds Some Missions Hopeless.

Last night Mrs. Harper Sibley of Rochester, N. Y., a member of the laymen's inquiry into foreign missions, declared that certain missionary fields in the orient should be abandoned because they "are unprogressive and hopeless." She urged that standards and requirements for foreign missionaries be raised. Bishop Frank Creighton of New York spoke in support of the present missionary program as conducted by the Episcopal church.

"Missions are criticized and ridiculed," said Bishop Creighton, "yet they survive and increase in importance."

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Hidden Charms

DEWEY WILL RECEIVE $150,000 OF ESTATE OF ADMIRAL'S WIDOW

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—George Goodwin Dewey of Chicago, only son of Admiral Dewey of Manila bay fame, will receive approximately $150,000 from the estate of his stepmother, Mrs. Mildred McLean Dewey, under terms of a consent verdict filed in District Supreme court today terminating a two year litigation over disposal of Mrs. Dewey's estate, which at the time of her death was appraised at $800,000.

The consent verdict has the effect of admitting to probate a will of Mrs. Dewey dated May 2, 1925, in which she named her nephew, Edward B. McLean, former publisher of the Washington Post, and a grandnephew, Frederick McLean Bugher, principal beneficiaries and failed to include Dewey in its provisions.

Receivers were recently named to take over McLean's prospective share in the estate, which has now dwindled to approximately $300,000 because of the market situation, for the benefit of his creditors and they will receive his share, amounting to approximately $175,000.

MEETING URGES COMMUNITY AID FOR HOSPITALS

Michael M. Davis, director of medical service of the Julius Rosenwald fund, yesterday advocated community councils composed of hospital officials, medical societies, individual physicians, and representatives of civic organizations to act in easing the difficulties confronting hospitals. He spoke before the Indiana, Illinois, and Wisconsin Hospital associations at the closing session of their joint meeting in the Sherman hotel.

The problems he listed included low occupancy, over-investment in hospitals, decreased income, relations between voluntary and tax supported hospitals, and professional relationships.

J. Dewey Lutes, superintendent of Ravenswood hospital, and president of the Illinois Hospital association, said that in 1931 the average occupancy in Illinois hospitals was 53 per cent, but in 1932 the figures declined to 44 per cent, with a decrease of $2,040,000 in income. He said 36 Chicago hospitals in the same period experienced a decline from 58 per cent occupancy to 47 per cent.

In the early session, A. E. Paul, superintendent of Englewood hospital, advised hospitals to abandon attempts at secrecy and let the public know through human interest newspaper stories what goes on in a hospital.

PIRATES ATTACK SHIPWRECKED CHICAGO FAMILY

Rob Pastor, Wife and Two Children.

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, May 4.—The Rev. and Mrs. Ralph A. Ward of Chicago, their two children, and Miss Ruby Whitcome, members of the Methodist mission in China, were robbed and narrowly missed kidnaping at the hands of Chinese pirates when the Chinese ship Yungshin, on which they were traveling, was wrecked Monday night on a reef. The Rev. Mr. Ward told of his experiences upon his arrival here last night.

The ship was wrecked on Chushu island, Taychau bay, on the Chekiang coast, south of Ningpo. It was bound from Foochow for Shanghai.

The Rev. Mr. Ward said that the boat struck a reef about 500 feet from land. While the passengers were being taken ashore by a Chinese steamer pirates appeared and fired on the ship from a high hill. Later they came down to the water's edge and robbed the passengers. The Wards and Miss Whitcome lost all their property, but otherwise were uninjured.

IN CHICAGO FOUR YEARS.

The Rev. Ralph A. Ward, who is secretary of the world service commission of the Methodist Episcopal church, 740 Rush street, had been in Chicago for four years prior to his departure for China on Jan. 15 last. He was accompanied by his wife and his two daughters—Imogene, 22 years old, and Gladys, 16 years old—and his secretary, Miss Ruby Whitcome.

The Rev. Ward had been in Foochow, China, in 1909. In 1918 he returned to New York City as associate secretary of the board of foreign missions. In 1924 he returned to China, where he served as executive secretary of the Foochow area board of education under the foreign missions board. He was a delegate from Foochow to the general conference of the board in 1928. He was mentioned as a candidate for bishop of China in 1924.

RITES TODAY FOR MRS. HAND, ONE OF CITY'S PIONEERS

Funeral services for Mrs. Susanna Hand, one of the oldest native born Chicagoans, will be held at 9:30 o'clock this morning from the chapel at 245 West North avenue and the Immaculate Conception church. Burial will be at Rosehill cemetery.

Mrs. Hand was 90 years old. She was born in a log cabin at Cass and Pearson streets and since 1886 had lived at 1526 North Clark street, a house built by her late husband. She is survived by four children, Joseph, Henry, Robert, and Madeline.

Among Mrs. Hand's earliest memories, according to her children, were the Indians who frightened her by begging at the door. She could recall the time when she and Barbara Diversey used to go to the old Diversey brewery near Chicago and Michigan avenues for brown sugar, and of the young soldiers who marched off to the civil war to the music of the band led by Johnny Hand, her husband's cousin. Mrs. Hand also remembered the time when Long John Wentworth as mayor burned the ramshackle district on the lake shore where vice dens were located.

REV. HOELTER OF IMMANUEL LUTHERAN DIES

The Rev. Edward Hoelter, 1134 South Ashland boulevard, pastor of the Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran church, died yesterday in Lutheran Memorial hospital following an operation. He was 58 years old.

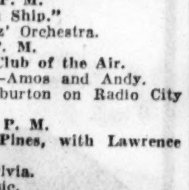
Pastor Hoelter took charge of the church, one of the oldest in the city, on the death of his father, the Rev. Louis Hoelter, in 1922. For twenty-five years previously he had been his father's assistant pastor. The Rev. Louis Hoelter had held the pastorate since 1878. The church was built in 1854, escaped the great fire of 1871 and was rebuilt in 1888.

Surviving the Rev. Hoelter are two daughters and four sons. Funeral services will be held in the church at 2 p. m. tomorrow. From 4 p. m. today until that hour the body will lie in state there.

BREAKS WINDOW; STEALS PEN.

A window in Kroch's book store, 206 North Michigan boulevard, was smashed yesterday morning by a burglar, who took a fountain pen.

HOW TO RECAPTURE BEAUTY



Good looks are often a matter of good health. Sparkling eyes and a smooth complexion are outward signs of an abundant vitality.

To be charming, conserve your health. Guard against constipation. It so often brings wrinkles, sallow skins, dull eyes, pimples.

Try the pleasant "cereal way" to protect yourself from constipation. Science has proved that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN also furnishes iron, which helps build up the blood.

The "bulk" in this delicious cereal is much like that of lettuce. How much safer than abusing your system with pills and drugs—so often habit-forming.

Two tablespoonfuls daily will correct most types of constipation. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

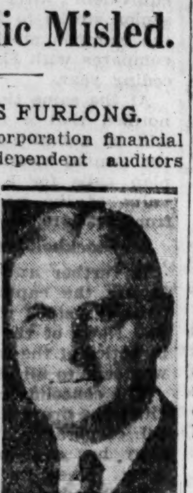
SEUBERT FINDS EVEN CERTIFIED AUDITS FAULTY

Standard Oil Head Sees Public Misled.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Certification of corporation financial statements by independent auditors frequently deceives the public into believing that the auditors have made a thorough examination of a company's affairs, Edward G. Seubert, president of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, said yesterday in discussing his firm's annual report.



EDWARD G. SEUBERT. [Blank & Stoller Photo.]

Such certification in many cases means only a balance sheet audit, Mr. Seubert said in explaining that the practice of Standard of Indiana is to prepare its own financial reports. The company follows the accounting procedure outlined a few years ago by the American Petroleum institute, he added.

A thorough audit of a company's affairs would mean the hiring of a staff of accountants to go over every single property, he pointed out. This method would entail great expense, he added.

Problems Before Oil Industry.

Mr. Seubert painted a gloomy picture of the existing situation in the oil industry but said that he was hopeful that the problems faced by the industry would be worked out.

Taxes constitute one of the paramount problems, he declared. The company last year collected and turned over to the federal and state governments about $47,981,000 in sales and excise taxes. This came out of the pockets of the company's customers and the company itself paid a total of $8,208,000 in federal, state, local and foreign taxes.

The exorbitant taxes levied by the state and federal governments on gasoline and motor oils are threatening the industry, which cannot continue indefinitely under such a load, he asserted.

Widespread tax evasion, which is possible under the laws, is ruining the business, he added.

Property Sale Changes Assets.

The balance sheet of the company reveals important changes resulting from the disposition on its foreign properties. Net income last year, as previously reported, was $16,558,281, equivalent to $1.04 a share on the 15,914,894 shares outstanding at the close of the year. This compares with net income of $17,596,366 for 1931, which also was equivalent to $1.04 a share on the 16,908,543 shares then outstanding.

Fixed capital assets are carried at $308,882,000 against $481,715,519 a year earlier. The reduction resulted from the sale of the Pan American foreign properties. Permanent investments rose to $147,480,000 from $31,673,000 as a result of the same transactions. The increase represents the stock received from the Standard Oil of New Jersey and the rights to future cash payments.

The annual meeting of stockholders was held in Whiting at noon. A proposal to change the date of the annual meeting from the first Thursday in May to the first Thursday in April was approved.

Reserve Banks Expand Loans and Deposits

BY HOWARD WOOD.

(Statistics on Page 32, Col. 7.)

Growing deposits and expanding loans is the story told by the federal reserve reports released last night.

The increases are not large in any department, but they are consistent and they fit into a definite pattern. Taken as a whole they are an excellent reflection of the advance in prices and the increase in business activity evident during the last week or two.

The weekly federal reserve reports, with their seemingly complicated figures, are simply the mirror of the week's banking and—because banking reflects business—they are the key to the state of business in the nation.

During the week ended Wednesday, the reports show, New York banks increased their loans to brokers and dealers 51 millions. This follows a 75 million increase in brokers' loans the preceding week. In addition the New York banks increased their direct loans on securities 65 millions. They also added substantially to their holdings of government bonds, but did not continue the expansion of commercial loans begun last week.

Chicago Banks Buy U. S. Bonds.

In Chicago the story was different. Banks here made little change in their security loans. They did, however, increase commercial loans 9 millions and added 67 millions to their holdings of government bonds. The enlarged holdings of government bonds indicates that by sharper bidding Chicago banks have been able to get better alotments of new issues, although probably at prices that aren't very profitable.

Banks in both cities drew down on their excess balances with the federal reserve system, probably for funds to buy new issues of government bonds.

Net demand deposits of Chicago banks increased 34 millions and time deposits were up 3 millions despite the public's scramble to keep cash free for use in hedging against inflation.

The reports of the federal reserve banks themselves discloses that the Roosevelt scheme of buying 3 billions of government bonds had not been begun up to Wednesday, holdings then being almost exactly what they had been the week before.

Asset Money Increases.

In the money column there is interesting picking for financial detectives. The report for the 12 federal reserve banks combined shows that although the circulation of federal reserve notes [40 per cent legal gold backing] decreased about 30 millions the circulation of federal reserve bank notes [the new "asset money" with no gold backing] increased about 30 millions.

Although this may be interpreted as the working of Gresham's law, the immediate cause is probably the treasury's encouragement of banks to use the new asset money and thereby free the gold reserves of the federal reserve banks for possible use later in the big government bond buying spree.

For each $100 of federal reserve notes issued by the reserve banks $40 of gold reserves must be used as security. The issuance of "asset money," on the other hand, doesn't affect the reserves of the "fed" at all. A member bank merely brings in government bonds "or other securities" and the reserve bank deals out the asset money against the deposited collateral.

Inflation at Work.

As public confidence in the banks continues to mount people take their federal reserve notes out of the mattress and bring them down to the bank. This reduces the amount of federal reserve notes in circulation. Then, as rising prices and increasing business activity generate a need for a larger amount of money in circulation, the new asset money is dealt out.

This is, of course, actual currency inflation. On Wednesday there were 56 millions of asset money in circulation and more of it is going out every day. The Chicago reserve district on Wednesday had nearly 10½ millions outstanding, compared with less than 2 millions a week before.

There is more than 2 billions of asset money in the vaults of the reserve banks available for use. This represents a vast potential inflationary power entirely separate from the inflation powers conferred upon the President by the Thomas bill.

Gold Reserve Up 40 Millions.

The combined report of the twelve reserve banks shows an increase of less than 40 million dollars in gold reserves in the week ended Wednesday, despite the fact that the deadline for the return of hoarded gold occurred on Monday.

Gold reserves of the Chicago reserve bank increased nearly 55 millions during the week, most of it apparently coming from other reserve districts through the gold settlement fund in Washington rather than from hoardings.

Free gold in the 12 reserve banks increased to 1 billion 252 million dollars. With this gold as a reserve the reserve banks could, if they chose to obligate it all, issue 3 billion dollars worth of reserve notes—enough to pay for their scheduled open market government bond purchases under the Roosevelt inflation program—without violating their gold reserve requirements.

Gold Hoarders Are Likely to Avoid Jail

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—Probably no holder of gold will go to jail despite President Roosevelt's executive order to the contrary, Attorney General Homer S. Cummings inferred today, and all small holders and those who turn in their gold immediately virtually were promised amnesty.

Threats and delayed action were the only developments in the compaign against gold holders today, although for three days it supposedly has been a crime to hold more than $100 in gold. Between 600 and 700 million dollars in gold still is outstanding.

Pressed for a definite statement as to whether he thought any one would ever go to jail for not turning in gold, Mr. Cummings merely smiled.

May Call Law Invalid.

"You must allow the attorney general some reticences," was his only comment.

Many persons, including leading constitutional lawyers, have declared that the campaign to force holders of gold to turn it in to the United States is illegal.

Cummings insisted that he did not mean that successful prosecutions under the regulations one could not be made. His inference was that the slow moving of the law might not bring any convictions before the present curb on gold holding had been removed.

Beside indicating an unwillingness to ask for jail sentences even after prosecutions had been started, Mr. Cummings indicated that small holders of gold would be left alone. Although the executive order against hoardings set $100 as the limit for private holdings, he said that former Senator Charles Thomas of Colorado, who has announced that he holds $120 worth of gold, will not be prosecuted.

Urges Return of Gold.

Asked by newspaper men how much gold a person must hold before he would be prosecuted, Mr. Cummings smiled again and said, "When you are playing poker you don't tell your opponent how high he must go before you will call him."

Mr. Cummings continued, however, to urge the return of gold. Persons who divest themselves immediately of their gold, even though they have held it after the falling of the deadline, "will be doing a very wise thing," he said.

"If I were a gold hoarder and had not made good," he declared, "I would do so forthwith."

Patriot in the Far North Gives Up $20,000 in Gold

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, May 4.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's decree against gold hoarding has brought a response from the far north. A shipment of 1,000 shining $20 gold pieces, sent by a man living in the Kuskokawim valley, arrived by airplane yesterday, consigned to an Anchorage bank. The man's name was withheld.

APRIL AUTO OUTPUT UP 62% OVER MARCH AND BETTER THAN '32

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 4.—Automobile production during April of members of the Automobile Chamber of Commerce totaled 137,300 units, an increase of 62 per cent over March and 3 per cent above April, 1932.

This figure was the best for any month since July, 1931. At the same time, it was reported in other quarters that sales during the month were keeping pace with advanced production.

Dodge Brothers dealers delivered 3,504 units, week ended April 29, the largest business week since June 29, 1929, and the twenty-third week of the present season to show sales increases over the previous season.

Of the total number delivered during the last week of April, 1,776 were Dodge passenger cars, 1,407 Plymouths and 321 Dodge trucks. April deliveries of Dodges alone were 6,894 units.

Retail deliveries of Dodge and Plymouth passenger cars were 24.1 per cent higher than in the preceding week, while Dodge commercial cars and trucks showed a 70.7 per cent increase. Deliveries to date this year show a gain of 26.1 per cent over similar period last year.

CHAIN STORES SALES IN APRIL NEAR LAST YEAR

April sales of Montgomery Ward & Co. were only 3.6 per cent below the corresponding period last year, the company reported yesterday. The spread from a year ago was the smallest since June 1930. Sales were $15,574,357 compared with $15,168,559 last year.

Sales of F. W. Woolworth company in April were off 2.8 per cent from sales in the like month last year, the most favorable comparison with the preceding year shown by any month since March, 1932, when the decline was $20,158,996, against $20,755,399 in the month last year. In March sales of $17,510,663 were off 17.6 per cent from 1932.

Sales of the S. S. Kresge company in April were $10,228,412, compared with $10,337,217 in April, 1932, a decrease of 1 per cent. March sales were 18.2 per cent below the same month last year. At the end of April the company has 720 stores, against 714 a year ago.

DRAFTS LAW TO AID HOLDERS OF MORTGAGE BONDS

Springfield, Ill., May 4.—[Special.]—Attorney General Kerner announced today that, at the request of the Sinnett legislative committee investigating mortgage bond issues, which has held several hearings in Chicago, he is preparing two general measures looking toward relief from present conditions and aiming toward preventing their recurrence.

Dollar Dips as British Boost Control Fund

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 4.—After a weak opening today the dollar held fairly well through the bulk of the trading session, but just before the close weakened slightly again, while foreign currencies generally were stronger and steadier than they have been for some time.

Announcement that England had decided to add £200,000,000 to equalization fund had a sobering effect and sterling, French francs, and the bulk of the other foreign currencies turned stronger as the day wore on. The pound closed at $3.92 and the franc at $.0462.

Belgian francs firmed. Pesetas and the Scandinavian exchanges were progressively better. Guilders advanced sharply, while Swiss francs were firm and marks gained some ground.

Dealers Hold Aloof.

Local dealers were disinclined to buy foreign currencies except in cases of necessity and there was little evidence of foreign demand which might be expected to cover purchases of basic commodities on the theory that inflation will result in still higher prices.

In the foreign markets sterling was firm at the opening and registered an overnight gain, being highest at the close, with evidence of some moderate amount of support, while in London the franc also hardened and moved higher.

The market in New York is said to be so thin that purchases of small volume serve to stiffen quotations all out of proportion, which, of course, is true as well of sales, which find little in the way of support for quotations.

Gold Transactions Reported.

No transactions in monetary gold were reported by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York for yesterday, but the bank's summary of movements for the week ended on Wednesday showed a net gain of $607,000. There was released from earmark during the week $5,268,000, of which $4,803,000 was shipped to Italy. No imports were received at New York, but at San Francisco $142,000 came in from China.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

The public ran away with the grain markets yesterday. Steady buying of wheat in small lots by commission houses more than offset profit taking sales by local and eastern longs and the professional element. Price changes were rapid from the start with a small break at the opening followed by a bulge. The erratic fluctuations continued until near the close, when a sharp upturn at Winnipeg and strength in stocks brought on a buying movement that lifted July wheat 1⅜ cents to 74 cents, the highest level of the day.

Professional operators who sold wheat in the belief that with the good news out of the way in the shape of the passage of the inflation measure by the house the market was entitled to a setback, were routed toward the last.

Final Trades Near Top.

Final trades were at the top, with net gains of ⅞ to 1¼ cents. May was 72½ cents; July, 73¾ to 74 cents; September, 74½ to 74¾ cents, and December, 76⅜ to 76½ cents.

Pit traders found it hard to account for the steady buying of wheat futures, as the early news was construed as inclined to favor a lower level of prices. However, late in the session Winnipeg turned extremely strong after showing a heavy undertone early and closed ⅞ to 1 cent higher in Canadian funds.

Corn Market Gains Friends.

Corn fluctuated in an erratic manner, but public interest was reported to be attracted to this grain owing to its relatively low price and the fact that it is almost entirely a domestic proposition and more likely to be affected by the numerous provisions of the farm relief and inflation program of the administration. Active deliveries were bought by commission houses and local bulls, and advanced as much as 1⅝ cents over the early low point and finished at the top. Net gains were ½ to 1 cent, with May at 32½ cents; July, 41⅛ to 41¼ cents; September, 42⅞ cents, and December, 44¼ cents.

Oats developed firmness in sympathy with other grains and closed ⅛ cent lower at ⅝ cent high, the former on May.

A cargo of rye was bought yesterday to come to Chicago, presumably for delivery on May contracts. The latter future moved up 1¾ cents to 52 cents, a new high for the season, while the distant deliveries were up ¾ to 1⅛ cents. Barley was ¾ to 1 cent lower.

Pillsbury Flour Mills Co. Raises Quarterly Dividend

New York, May 4.—The Pillsbury Flour Mills, Inc., declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents on the common stock, placing that issue on a $1 yearly basis, an increase from the former 60 cents rate.

First Call! Do Christmas Buying Early

It looks as if it will be more expensive to play Santa Claus this Christmas than it has been for some years past. One leading wholesaler said yesterday that toy makers are not guaranteeing prices for future delivery, indicating they expect higher prices for toys. Last year at this time, he said, toy manufacturers were glad to take orders at specified prices.

Chicago packers paint a gloomy picture of the meat packing industry when the government begins to levy the processors' tax.

For the packers there is no escape from the tax because they are under strict government supervision, but the door is wide open for the smaller fellows, they believe.

"Every Tom, Dick, and Harry will be out to beat the tax," one Chicago packer said yesterday, "and he will have a much easier task than the speakeasy proprietor under prohibition. The new law invites bootlegging of pork on a wholesale basis. As it now appears from the farm bill the program will open an avenue of political graft without precedent in our history."

An army of inspectors ten times the size of the prohibition force would be needed to see that the law is obeyed, he believes.

"Bootlegging of liquor ran into millions, but we may get a picture of the new form of bootlegging when we realize how much greater temptation will be to beat the tax on such a vital necessity as pork."

Directors of the Coca Cola company have postponed the regular dividend meeting at this time subject to the call of the chairman. It is expected that the meeting will be held about the middle of next month. In financial circles it was said that the company wanted more time to determine the effect of the return of beer on its sale volume.

Unless a Chicago operator changes his mind overnight, he will desert the ranks of the speculative element and become a merchandiser of wheat. He figures the profit on his holding of May wheat is equal to over 50 per cent of what he paid for the future contract several months ago.

Not all tax bills are hard to collect. An attorney whose job it has been to pay a personal property tax bill of one million dollars said yesterday that because the bill was misdirected or lost he had made application for a duplicate twice before being permitted to lay the million on the line.

OWEN D. YOUNG RESIGNS FROM RADIO OFFICES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 4.—[Special.]—Owen D. Young resigned today as a director and as chairman of the executive committee of the Radio Corporation of America and as a director of all subsidiary companies of the Radio corporation, thus performing the obligation imposed by the federal court at Wilmington in its consent decree of Nov. 21, 1932, requiring a complete separation of interests between General Electric and Radio corporation.

Mr. Young was one of the original directors of the Radio corporation, and was elected chairman of the board's first meeting in December, 1919.

Gen. Harbord was reëlected board chairman and David Sarnoff president.

SPURT IN RAILS PUTS NEW LIFE IN STOCKS RISE

Plan for Oil Output Control Helps.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 4.—President Roosevelt's railroad emergency message to congress touched off another buying spree on the stock exchange late today and values went whirling up anywhere from 1 to 5 points above their forenoon lows. Numerous new highs for the year were recorded.

Railroad shares set the pace with big blocks of Atchison, New York Central, Union Pacific, Lackawanna and other favorites of the group coming out in rapid succession, but the buying quickly spread to other departments and the net gains were generously distributed.

Steel shares got some extra help from reports of expanding operations in the industry production centers, the oils got an additional kick out of a rumor that the federal government may take a hand in the prolonged but hitherto futile fight to control production, and various store stocks profited by statistics showing substantial increases in April sales volume.

Anticipate President's Speech.

Finally, the street anticipated that the President's address before the United States Chamber of Commerce tonight would be susceptible of bullish interpretation and many traders hastened to lay in a few shares on the prospects of a further upturn on that score tomorrow.

Operations hit a fast clip during the last thirty minutes or so of trading and at one time the ticker was three minutes behind floor activities. Turnover was nearly 4,600,000 shares.

The market was unusually broad and many issues which had not made their appearance on the tape in days—some of them for weeks—figured in the activity at enhanced ratings.

Features were well spread throughout the general list. Some of the more notable ones were Allied Chemical and Dye, Eastman Kodak, Western Union, Columbia Carbon, United States Steel, and Homestake Mining.

Oil Group Grows Active.

The oil group was more active than it has been for many a moon. Standard of New Jersey rose 2⅝ points and Standard of California 1½, both on exceptionally heavy turnover. Mid-Continent Petroleum stood out strongly. One version of the report of prospective government intervention in the production tangle had it that a plan calling for production under government direction with a minimum price of $1 a barrel for high grade crude already had been framed. At present oil is selling in the east Texas field for as little as 10 cents a barrel.

The communications company group was lively for a time, with International Telephone and Western Union buoyant. Postal Telegraph preferred rose 3 points.

In the motors group General Motors set the pace with a jump of 2 points. Figures showing a brisk rise in output for the producing companies furnished the secret of this group's show of strength.

The mining shares were sluggish most of the day, but braced up in the last hour, with the coppers out in front.

PREDICT WEEK'S FREIGHT WILL EQUAL YEAR AGO

New York, May 4.—Wall street expects that the car loadings figures for last week, to be published Saturday, will show a total that virtually equals volume for last year, as well as a sharp rise over the preceding week.

Most of the western roads reporting thus far have shown larger traffic than a year ago, though freight movement on several eastern systems last week was still under the 1932 level.

INSURANCE MEN TO FIGHT LONG RECEIVERSHIPS

Company, State Officials Discuss Problems.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

The problems resulting from protracted receiverships of life insurance companies are causing insurance officials some concern. To meet this situation, which has arisen from new conditions in business, some leaders in the insurance field are holding conferences with state officials to devise new machinery to handle the problems.

In the period prior to the banking crisis, it was pointed out, there were comparatively few receivership actions. When a life insurance company got into difficulties which necessitated the appointment of a receiver, reinsurance was usually arranged promptly and there was little inconvenience to the policy holders.

In normal times the cost of a receivership was relatively light. Now the proceedings are much more costly.

Contrast in Receiverships.

It has been pointed out that when a railroad passes into a receiver's hands, the handling of passengers and freight goes on in a normal manner. Or a manufacturing company under a receiver's hands may fulfill all its functions.

In insurance there is a different situation. Appointment of a receiver may result in a number of difficulties. Younger persons may be frightened into giving up their insurance or those who have secured policy loans may stop making repayments and decide to forget any balance they may have. The company, however, retains the older and physically unfit persons who would be unable to get policies elsewhere, with the consequence that the ratio between its premium income and its outgo on death payments and maturities may swing heavily to the outgo side. The longer a company is in the receiver's hands the more these factors grow in importance.

One insurance executive stated that during the receiver control the agency plant of the company tends to disintegrate—that is, the better insurance salesmen realign themselves with other and stronger companies. Then there arises a temptation to twist business, he said.

Reorganization Is Hampered.

Further, protracted receiverships allow groups of so-called "chiselers" to form, which hamper the efforts of any strong group seeking to take an insurance company over.

In commercial liquidation of an insurance company, one official stated, every policy holder asks for his proportionate share of the reserve equity. The insurance service is dropped, leaving persons with physical impairment high and dry even though they may have made payments over a long period for insurance protection.

A bill recently passed in Colorado, he said, takes care of this situation. The law provides for the establishment of a conservatorship under which the reserve equity is wiped out temporarily, but the life insurance is continued along certain lines. Some such procedure is being sought for Illinois by insurance company officials.

BUTTER AND EGGS LOWER

Butter and egg futures closed lower on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, butter losing ½c and eggs ¼c. Moderate selling developed in butter at the start, but at midsession new buying was in evidence. Market rallied, but upturn was checked when the four markets reported 104,000 lbs. more into storage than last year. Production news indicated the make still under last year. The bearish tone of egg statistics continued. The four markets stored 12,300 cases more than last year. Sales: Butter, 82 cars; eggs, 57 cars. Deliveries: Butter, 1 car; eggs, 3 cars. Prices follow:

FOES OF STRAUS RECEIVERS WIN; NEW ONES NAMED

Court Acts on Complaint Against Bond Group.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 4.—Supreme Court Justice Philip J. McCook granted a motion today for the appointment of receivers for all property for which S. W. Straus & Co. had issued 350 million dollars in bonds. The receivership supplants that of the independent bondholders' committee, headed by Lewis H. Pounds, former Republican candidate for mayor, which has been in control of the property.

The receivers appointed by the court are James W. Gerard, the former ambassador to Germany; George Frankenthaler, brother of Supreme Court Justice Frankenthaler, and Robert McCurdy Marsh, a former Supreme court justice.

Some months ago a receivership had been granted for the assets of Straus & Co. Plaintiffs in the present receivership action were Patrick Harrigan, Edward W. von Glaum, and a score of others.

Criticize Committee's Acts.

The argument of the plaintiffs was that the independent bondholders' committee has been working with the former officers of Straus & Co. and held the bonds "as the result of some magic" the nature of which is not clear to the public. Mr. Pounds and the other members of the committee are actually dummies for the former Straus officers, it was charged.

Justice McCook's decision reviewed the history of the Straus & Co. case and concluded:

"The independent bondholders' committee plan should be immediately enjoined and the injunction order should include every defendant except the banks and all their respective activities.

Sees Expense in Delay.

"The danger of delay, once the situation is clear, will be equally apparent, for each day that passes means only added expense and commitments, without commensurate benefit, which will under the agreement add to the liens placed against the bonds. Reference to a court or judge should not here be a matter of grace but of right.

"In the eyes of the law, at the moment, no trustee for the bondholders is in existence. The thousands of bondholders look to the court for advice and protection.

"The owners of the defaulted bonds have not received one penny through the efforts of any of the Straus committees or through the independent bondholders' committee. If there is nothing for them to receive let the court so ascertain."

WHOLESALERS HEDGE AGAINST PRICE INFLATION

Limit Time on Quotations and Contracts.

Some Chicago business houses are beginning to protect themselves against advances in prices resulting from inflationary measures by shortening commitment periods. Others have taken no action yet, but are watching conditions closely with a view to protecting themselves if necessary. Some of the leading industries are on a sale to sale basis—quotations being made on each sale as a separate transaction—so that inflation will not make much difference in the conduct of their business.

The packing business operates on a sale to sale basis, an official of one company stated, so that no special precautions are necessary. He said there has always been a considerable daily fluctuation in prices and inflation in prices and inflation would merely intensify the price movements. Long term contracts are only made on a basis which will protect the packer and prices under such agreements are such as to be of use to but few purchasers.

Dry Goods Firms Use 30 Day Limit.

In the wholesale dry goods business the leading houses are taking steps to protect themselves. Few commitments for goods going into immediate sale are being accepted for periods longer than 30 days, one official said. "We are not going to let buyers turn us into brokers to handle their speculations," he explained.

However, wholesale houses are taking orders for goods regularly delivered in the fall at prices which are specified now.

An official of the Link Belt company, manufacturer of machinery and other heavy products among other things, said the concern is accepting orders on a basis of prompt delivery. Where it is protecting itself against the effects of inflation is in the extension of long term credits. Hereafter it will be more cautious in the extension of such credits, he said.

Steel on Quarterly Basis.

It is understood that the Illinois Steel company has taken no action as yet with respect to prices as a result of inflation. Contracts are limited to three month periods dovetailing with the quarter periods of the year. Business is well along in the second quarter and any course to be followed will be adopted at the end of the quarter. Ordinarily, it was explained, price advances are not reflected back to the basic material manufacturers until some time after retail price increases.

A shoe manufacturer said that his company has taken no steps yet to meet inflation conditions. Such action has not yet been necessary, he explained, because shoe orders usually are placed in the period from fall to spring.

A wholesale food dealer and a large bakery said their prices are on a day to day basis, consequently they expect little effects from inflation.

COTTON TRADING ACTIVE; CLOSE SLIGHTLY HIGHER

Chicago cotton traders were good buyers at times and the market showed considerable strength. The close was with net gains with 11 to 19 points on futures as compared with net advances of 1 to 8 points in other markets. Sentiment rather favored buying on all weak spots and the volume of trading was liberal in all markets. The main impetus to the buying was the continued talk of inflation which is absorbing the attention of all interests.

Spots in New York were unchanged at 8.30c; New Orleans, up 5 points to 8.15c; Galveston, 8c, and Houston, 8.10c. Liverpool was unchanged to 1 point lower. Prices follow:

LARD UNDER PRESSURE ON BULGES; TRADE ACTIVE

Lard met selling on all bulges and there was a fair business under way at times. The buying was by commission houses and professionals while the selling was by hedgers and profit takers. On the price recessions packers are credited with taking the bulk of the offers.

At the close nearby deliveries were unchanged to 5 cents net lower with deferred futures unchanged to 2½c lower. Most of the business was done in the near months. Spot lard was easier at $5.65 for regular, $5.00 for loose and leaf, the latter being unchanged. The Liverpool market was unchanged.

Bellies were picked up readily and closed 10 to 15 cents higher, the latter on July in which most of the trade centered. Cash lots were 12½ cents higher, at $6.50, with better demand and general meat trade fair. Pork loins were 6½ to 8½ cents with better demand for favored weights. Prices follow:

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 4.—There was little group distinction in today's bond market as governments and other high grade issues joined speculative obligations in an advance ranging from fractions to more than a point.

Indications were buyers, both institutional and individual, were returning to the market in force for the first time since they beat a retreat to the side lines in the inflation scare three weeks ago.

Federal Issues Rise.

Strength in United States government securities which began Tuesday continued today, with both long and short term issues finding demand. In the long term group there were gains of as much as one-half point. The 2⅞ per cent three year notes, dated May 2, rose to a premium of about one-quarter of a point.

High grade railroad bonds, which also have the stimulus of improving earnings, were higher in such instances, as Atchison convertible 4½s, Chesapeake and Ohio 4½s, Cincinnati Union Terminal 5s, Union Pacific first 4s and refunding 4s.

Utilities Join Advance.

High grade utilities also snapped back quickly, gains occurring in issues of American Telephone, Consolidated Gas of New York, Brooklyn Union Gas, Detroit Edison, and New York Steam.

Speculative bonds continued the sharp improvement which has been in progress for several weeks. Gains amounted to from 1 to 4 points in leading speculative issues in all groups—rails, utilities, and industrials. Foreign bonds provided a noteworthy exception to the rally.

State Mutual Life Assurance.

Please give me what information you can on State Mutual Life Assurance company.—H. M. F.

State Mutual Life Assurance company was incorporated in Massachusetts in 1844. In common with the experience of other companies, insurance in force declined in 1932, but the drop was only 4 per cent. Face value of policies outstanding totaled $634,955,000, against $663,870,000 the year before and $315,157,000 at the close of 1920.

Against policy holders' net reserves (liability set aside for outstanding policies) of $122,223,000 and other liabilities of $19,653,000, the company reported admitted assets of $151,696,000.

Liquid assets included $44,870,000 bonds (amortized values), $1,348,000 stocks (June 30, 1931 values), $2,343,000 cash and $36,665,000 policy loans (which are a direct offset to policy holders' reserve). Bonds held included $2,871,000 United States obligations, $12,374,000 obligations of states, municipalities, etc.; $16,903,000 railroad bonds, and $11,732,000 utility bonds.

Other assets included $6,059,000 real estate and $53,266,000 mortgage loans. The company has no farm mortgages. Foreclosed real estate consists of 1.5 per cent of total assets.

Investments are well diversified. The company appears to be efficiently managed.

Marathon Paper Mills.

Please give me such information as you may have on Marathon Paper Mills 5½s, due 1942. Thank you for your courtesy.—Mrs. P. R. E.

Marathon Paper Mills company manufactures high grade wrapping, bond and specialty papers. Reflecting unsettled trade conditions, the company lost $21,000 before fixed charges of $237,000 in the year ended Oct. 31, 1932. Charges were earned 2.28 times in the preceding year and net income was $315,000. In the Oct. 31, 1930, year the company earned its fixed charges 3.05 times.

Net working capital decreased in the last fiscal year from $2,137,000 to $1,529,000. On Oct. 31, 1932, current assets, including $213,000 cash, totaled $2,390,000 and current liabilities, including $257,000 notes payable, amounted to $861,000.

Funded debt aggregated $3,398,000. The first 5½s, due serially to 1942, are more a speculation than an investment.

HEAVIER SWINE STEADY, LIGHTER KINDS EASE OFF

Heavy grades of hogs, particularly the lard type, were in the limelight of the trade again yesterday, maintaining a firm price basis in the face of the decline in other classes of swine. The spread in the price range was the narrowest on record for this season of the year, with lightest weights selling at a disadvantage.

Early strength in top grades on speculative account vanished later when light and medium weights finished weak to 5 cents lower than the average of Wednesday and as much as 5 to 10 cents under the high point of that day. Top sales were off 5 cents at $4.05. The general average at $3.95 showed a similar decline from Wednesday, which was the highest point since March 24. The average still is 41 per cent above the low point of the winter and 14 per cent higher than a year ago.

Supplies Are Smaller.

Supplies have been running smaller the last few days. Combined receipts for the first four days of the week at eleven leading markets show a decrease of 10 per cent compared with the first four days of last week.

Packing houses are accumulating a little more pork, but holdings in cold storage houses still are much below average for this time of year.

The cattle market developed good action yesterday at steady to strong prices, putting a prompt and effective quietus on the bearish element that made some progress at the close of Wednesday. Competition waxed rather brisk in the commoner grades where packers met country feeder buyers.

Improved quality of steers attracted the better brand of buying orders into the top classes and long yearlings averaging 1,141 pounds boosted the top price to $7.00.

The position of the general cattle market has improved greatly in the last two weeks. Prices have moved higher against the pressure of the largest receipts of the year. This week's total is largest since the middle of December. Yet prices are fully 25 to 40 cents higher than they were at the close of last week and 50 cents to $1.00 above the season's low.

Lamb Trend Reversed.

The lower trend in the lamb market was reversed yesterday. Sharpest gains, however, were limited mostly to the new crop of springers, while the crop of last year's lambs ruled steady to strong, occasional sales showing slight advances. A feature of the day was the sale of a small lot of 29 pound native milk fed springers that filled a special order at $8.00.

New crop lambs from the coast state, several months older and averaging 40 to 45 pounds heavier, sold at $6.65 to $6.90. Shorn lambs cashed at $5.75 and under. Wooled stock brought $6.15 and below during the later rounds. Several points in the west are reported holding wool at 25 cents, including some that was being offered several weeks ago at 15 cents and was bid 10 cents and less.

First Trainload of Autos Shipped West in 18 Mos.

The St. Louis-San Francisco railway reported yesterday the first trainload of automobiles into the west in more than eighteen months. A train of Dodge and Plymouth cars from Detroit reached St. Louis yesterday en route to Kansas City.

What Marinello Training Means

We regard our graduates as personal representatives of the Marinello System. Therefore every girl is trained to the highest degree of efficiency before receiving her certificate. Each girl is graduated with the equivalent of at least a year's practical experience and ready to earn big money at once.

The most money is made in shops where particular women gladly pay good prices for the kind of service that Marinello Beauticians render. Why not train for positions that pay the most? That's good economy, good sense.

Day or evening classes now forming. Easy tuition payments. Free International Employment Service—or we will help you establish your own business.

SOLUTION TO CASE NO. 261

The eight fingerprints were identified as those of Taylor's. The fact that they tapered to the edge of the outside window sill proved conclusively that he was hanging to the window sill by his hands.

Confronted with this evidence, Anderson admitted that they had quarreled; that he threatened Taylor with a knife and when Taylor, hoping to elude him, hung out the window he pushed him to his death.
